Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Political headliners are telling us how to solve the world's troubles. At a dinner party last week, however, we heard a woman place the blame on mothers who shirk their family responsibilities.

Family life may seem remote from politics, Castro, missiles, and the United Nations. But she believes that the happiness—even the life— of the coming generation will depend upon the doctrine of family living practiced today.

We agree with this woman: unless parents awaken to their family obligations, the world will be a heck of a place in which to live 50 or 100 years from now.

We've waited 43 years to learn the identity of the Halloween pranksters who took the high-wheel single cylinder car from the garage of the late editor H. C. Paddock and pushed it into the creek near Arlington Seating co.

Judge George L. Quilici, of Chicago's Municipal court, spent part of his boyhood in Arlington Heights. He did some reminiscing in our presence last week, and we learned that the judge, George Schneberger, John Duthorn, and others, were the culprits who shoved that car into the creek.

Schneberger says that Paddock paid him $2 to bring the car back to the garage. The editor gave vent to his indignation by publishing a vitriolic editorial about the miscreants.

Judge Quilici had some other "confessions" to make, such as placing a cow in a second floor room of the schoolhouse.

When confronted with this 43-year-old evidence, Schneberger had some confessions of his own. For instance: Removing the schoolhouse bell and hiding it in the basement of William F. Meyer's home. His co-conspirators, in addition to Meyer, included David Paddock.

When told that he would not be allowed to graduate unless the bell was returned, Meyer hauled the bell and clapper back to school.

The term "juvenile delinquency" hadn't been coined yet, recalled Judge Quilici. These deeds were regarded as only innocent pranks.

There are no cows in the village today, no schoolbells to swipe, no buggy automobiles, and such "pranks" are too tame for modern youth.

For Northwest YMCA

Bob Hope Headlines Suburb Benefit Show

One of America's favorite comedians—Bob Hope—will visit northwest suburbs next month as the star of the biggest, most spectacular stage show ever produced in this area.

The Hollywood star will headline a colorful line-up of radio, TV, and stage personalities slated for a giant "Laugh-O-Rama" which will benefit the new Northwest Suburban YMCA.

The two-hour show will be staged at 8 p.m. on Sunday, August 21 in Maine East high school, Dempster st. and Potter rd., Des Plaines.

THIS WILL be Bob Hope's first visit to northwest suburbs and one of his rare personal appearances in the Chicago area. Noted for his world-wide junkets to entertain American servicemen, Hope is also well-known for his generosity in assisting with worthy causes and charities throughout the nation.

One of Hollywood's most successful screen stars, Hope rose to fame as a vaudeville comic before scoring new success as radio and TV star.

Bob Hope has personally set the theme for the "Laugh-O-Rama" with his slogan: "Let's Pay for the 'Y'!"

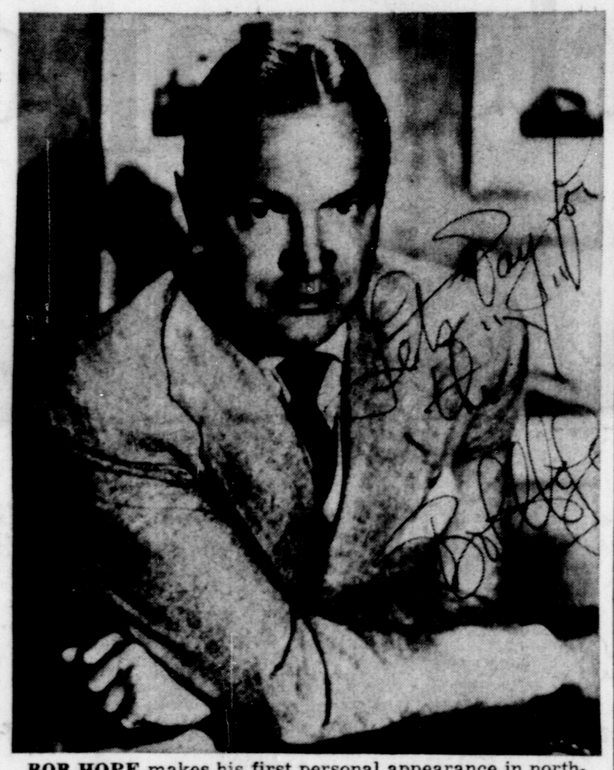
PROCEEDS OF the giant show will help to pay for the new YMCA building now under construction at Northwest hwy. and Cambridge rd., midway between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. Tentative opening date for the $1 million center has been set for November 15.

Designed to serve a membership of 5000 families, the YMCA will serve Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Prospect Hts., Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, and surrounding communities.

Names of other stars planned for the "Laugh-O-Rama" will be released soon, according to Byron J. Sayre, 606 E. Park, Arlington Heights, who is in charge of production.

Mail orders are now available from the YMCA office at 1488 Miner st., Des Plaines. Phone reservations may be made at VAnderbilt 4-4156.

Tickets are priced at $5, $10, and $25 on a donation basis and are tax deductible.



BOB HOPE makes his first personal appearance in northwest suburbs August 21 when he stars in a spectacular "Laugh-O-Rama" show to benefit the Northwest Suburban YMCA building fund. The comedy star of radio, TV, and movies added his personal encouragement to the campaign by signing the autographed picture above with the plea, "Let's pay for the 'Y'!"

Eleven Casualties In Three-Car Wreck

The cause of one of the northwest suburbs' worst automobile accidents is still a mystery.

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Cy Campbell, who is handling the investigation, had been unable at press time to get explanations from persons involved in Saturday night's tragedy which took the lives of two Palatine youngsters and hospitalized nine others, including three Arlington Heights couples.

Killed were Carole, 8, and Robert Pozdro, 13, children of one of the drivers, Mrs. Mary Pozdro, 40, of 89 E. Michigan, Palatine.

Other drivers in the three car accident which occurred on Rte. 53, near the intersection of Industrial ave., Rolling Meadows, were John Dynowski, 21, of Chicago, and Daniel Salberg, 49, of 720 E. Clarendon, Arlington Heights.

TWO CARS were found in a ditch east of Rte. 53, and one car was on the highway's south bound lane. As of Wednesday two of the drivers were unable to talk about the incident, and the third could not describe what had happened.

The injured, all of whom were treated and admitted to Northwest Community hospital, Arlington Heights, were:

Mary Pozdro, who suffered scalp laceration, but was described as being in "good physical condition."

John Dynowski, head and eye injuries ,as well as possible fractures of elbow and ankle, listed in "fair condition."

Casimer Dynowski, 28, of Elmwood Park, facial lacerations and neck injuries, "doing well."

Daniel Salberg, tracheotomy and badly injured neck, "fair condition."

Olen Culpepper, 52, of 1112 N. Beverley, Arlington Hts., rib fractures, lacerations of forehead and left leg, "good condition."

Francine Culpepper, 49, facial bruises, "fine condition."

ROLLING MEADOWS, Palatine, and state policemen were rushed to the accident, along with inhalator squads from both villages. Policemen praised the help of a registered nurse who stopped at the accident, tied a white handkerchief around her arm to identify herself, and helped administer first aid. "When the commotion was over, she was gone," Rolling Meadows Police Chief Campbell said.

Three ambulances reported to the scene, and an unidentified driver rushed one injured person to the hospital in his station wagon.

Members of the Rolling Meadows fire department, who were helped by Palatine's firemen in administering oxygen and removing injured to the hospital, roped off the area, assisted in directing traffic, applied first aid, lighted the area with portable lights, and washed down the gasoline on the highway.

Studying Schools' Proposal

Wanted: An expression of opinion from residents of Arlington Heights school district 25 on a proposal to annex Wilson school district 24.

The lack of such expression is a matter of concern to district 25 board members who this week considered a district 24 letter requesting annexation and proposing three means by which it might be accomplished.

District 24 has 445 pupils, two-thirds of whom live in Arlington Heights in Hasbrook and Virginia Terrace subdivisions. The district is slightly smaller in area than district 25.

AFTER A lengthy debate over the amount of encouragement district 25's board should offer district 24, board members present, Joseph Faner, Kenneth Anderson, Victor Myer, and President Lambert Bredenhoft, moved to tone down an original draft, and decided merely to send a letter suggesting district 24 submit a petition for annexation by two-thirds of its voters to the County Board of Trustees. This was the suggestion made to district 56 to the south of Arlington Heights, also seeking annexation, last May.

The majority of district 25 board members appear to favor annexation of 24. They appear, however, hesitant to commit themselves without some expression from their constituents.

In the letter finally sent to district 24, district 25 board members noted their position at the hearing on the annexation petition would in part depend upon the reaction of residents of district 25.

A MEETING of district 25 board members earlier this month led to the drafting of a letter to district 24 that noted, "On the basis of present sentiment in district 25 regarding the matter, this board does not contemplate entering an objection to the annexation when the county board conducts its public hearing on the annexation."

Board Member Victor Myer, however, was adamant Tuesday night that the reply to district 24 should offer no more encouragement than the letter to district 56. Thus, in the final draft no reference was made to not entering an objection. Also deleted was a sentence that noted, "This Board is in agreement that the community would be better served if this annexation were effected."

AS A RESULT of the letter to district 56 rejecting a proposal to submit a joint petition from the school boards seeking annexation and suggesting a two-thirds referendum, that district has since sought annexation to Elk Grove district 59.

Public hearings are required on all annexation petitions before the County Board of School Trustees. The Board's decision is based on the "educational interest" of the children involved.

District 25 board members are agreed that should annexation occur, it could not take place before September, 1961.

Village 'Elder Statesman'

Retired Politician Is Proud of Record

by PHILIP NELSON

A powerful giant of a man, knotted and weather-beaten and as familiar a sight in Arlington Heights as an ancient oak tree, is 70-year-old Albert Goedke.

Trustee for eight years and mayor of the village for 12, Goedke, badly crippled by arthritis, can still lift 100 pounds, despite his age and crippling illness. He and his wife still live at 220 W. Wing, in the white frame house they had constructed when they were wed back in 1913.

Two things stand out in sharp relief today in Goedke's mind. Trustee from 1928 to 1932, he successfully campaigned again in 1940 on the platform that he would drive gambling out of the village.

"In 48 hours after I was elected to office," he recalls proudly, "I chased the slot machines and bookies out of town."

AS CHAIRMAN of the police committee, he said: "I fought like —. They put me on the toughest job."

The churches offered the backbone for such a fight, and he is proud of having won his campaign and of having carried out his campaign boast. As a result of his victory, he was threatened by hoodlums and was told never to show his face in Chicago.

He related how the mayor of the village and he and other trustees were hauled before the state's attorney because of the battle against gambling, and also, how the village lost revenues in fees from the gambling joints that normally would help pay for snow plows and operating expenses. But he made it stick. And, he added: "I'm proud of it."

Having concluded his stint on the village board for the second time (1940-1944), he campaigned for mayor on the slogan that he would get the village out of the red.

"PEOPLE WERE behind on their taxes. How did we get out of the red? We didn't spend money. People hollered. I'd tell them we have to pay our bills. The tax warrants were outstanding. We had to pick them up.

"When I left the village (as mayor, from 1945-1957) it was in good standing financially. I'm proud of that. I campaigned to get us back on a paying basis and to keep the village credit good, and it was good.

"There had been tough times, and people had to go in the hole. There was no sales tax then, and little gas tax, which was only for the roads. The board members all worked hard, the street, water, sewer and police departments all cooperated."

The hardy old man grinned slowly. Painfully, he rose, and with the aid of his two canes, walked with great difficulty to his rock garden, resplendent with flowers, which he had built together with his sons.

He has three, Richard, parts manager for a car sales agency, who lives in Westgate; Donald, owner of the Metro Paint store, who lives in his dad's house, and Robert, TV and radio department manager for Sears, who lives in Mt. Prospect.

LEANING ON his canes, the pioneer villager spoke of his ailment. "I've had this arthritis for 12 years. I suppose I could have stayed in bed. But I was a fighter. I tried to sit up, keep going, tried to break loose. It hurt something awful."

Although his voice was calm, one could read the memory of his torment during these years and his battle to overcome his illness. An operation some years ago had helped some, but years of hard work and of living with dampness as he cleaned sewers during his work in the plumbing business had left him this inheritance of pain.

He spoke of his childhood. Parents, who had come from the old country (Germany) were strict, God-fearing people and the youth's fear of the switch indirectly was responsible for his self-education.

He and his chum were walking from school with their school books in their hands. When they came to the freight yards, they put the books down to watch the trains, which were then switching. Unfortunately for Albert, his books were on the tracks to which the trains were switched, and his books were cut in half.

FEARFUL OF the "licking" when he would arrive home, he boldly accosted Sherman Pate in charge of the train yards and asked for a job. He was hired, for $1.50 for a 10-hour day. And when he told his parents, there was no escaping it. He was employed. He would earn his own keep from then on. No more foolishness of school. And from 11 years old to this day, he learned the hard way—through experience, rising to the highest office in the village.

Mellow now at 70 (his birthday will be Oct. 23), he has many memories: of fishing and ice skating in what used to be "the crick" between South and Grove, near the school; of the bucket-in-hand fire brigade and the fire in the cattle yard, where cattle awaited shipment on the midnight train.

Of the athletic club where he hoisted weights and boxed others who grumbled and complained of his strength (he took on boys three and four years older than himself), of his mother, from whom he inherited his strength, who taught him to wrestle and more often than not tossed him for a fall when he was 10 and 11.

"I used to know every foot of ground. Few can remember it as I can," he reminisced. "Mother took in washing, and I worked in the drygoods store, was foreman in the canning factory, worked for 3½ cents an hour.

"Can remember the cheese factory at the corner of Miner and State road, where farmers used to bring their milk to the depot, and two cars would be used for shipping their milk to Chicago. Remember the old freight depot on Dunton and the railroad tracks, where the ticket office used to be."

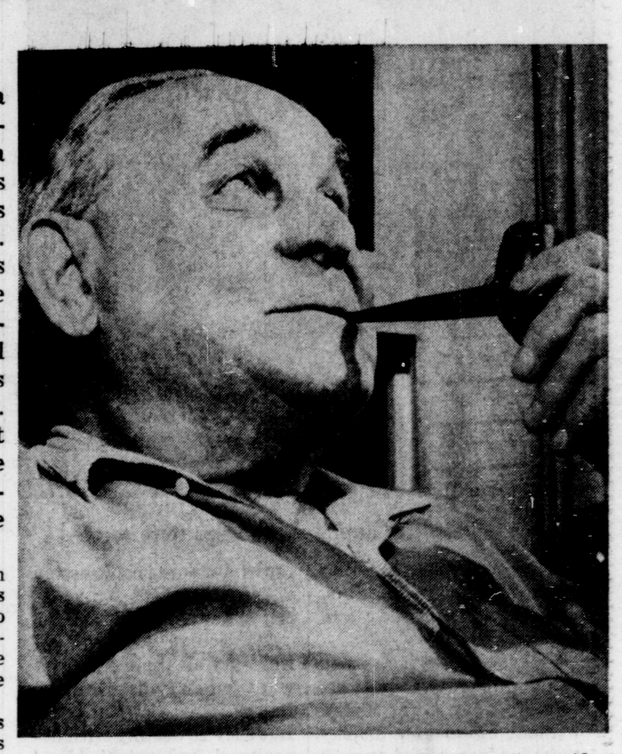
VIRTUALLY A patriarch with three sons and six grandchildren, his deep, vibrant voice spelled out some of the village's history as he talked, his huge features unruffled beneath his iron grey hair, as he laughed and joked, while underneath the pain gnawed away at his limbs.

"Today?" he repeated. "It's the same thing, fighting all the time. People ask for stuff it's impossible to give them. Zoning and flooding, with all the building going on, it's become a bigger problem. Trying to put cheaper houses in, and the people next door objecting, going from warm water to hot water. Lots of ups and downs." He laughed, then said: "I'd like to see the taxes go down."

As his voice boomed, he remarked: "People used to say —'That guy, you could hear him all over town.'"

He prophesied that all the vacant lots will be filled with buildings, but not in his time, then added that although he had opposed the village manager government, he thought it necessary now. A smile came over him slowly as he said: "You can't play an instrument all the rest of your life. There comes a time to get it repaired."



DREAMING OF the past when he was in his prime, Albert Goedke, 220 W. Wing, reminisces of the days when he booted gamblers out of Arlington Heights.

Youth Is Charged In Teen Assault

A complaint charging aggravated assault was signed this week against Richard Leckband, 19, of 211 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights.

The complaint, signed by Harold Collignon of Algonquin, claims his son, Charles, 19, suffered "severe personal injury" when struck by Leckband.

The charge, according to police reports, resulted from a fight last month in Pioneer park at which several village youths were present.

THE FIGHT came to attention of police when Northwest Community hospital notified the station they were treating Collignon for a possible skull fracture.

Police questioned the youth who told them that he and his girl friend drove to Pioneer park on the evening of Thursday, June 23, looking for a friend. Collignon said he walked up to a group of boys who started cursing him, and that he was knocked to the ground, his head striking the sidewalk.

Friends carried him to a car and later took him to the hospital.

New Hospital: Suburban Stork

During the first 10 days of July, there were 43 babies born at Northwest Community hospital, Arlington Heights.

The new hospital opened its doors in December. A full report of its patient load, as well as an official board of trustees' statement of policy on medical staff appointments, are published this week on inside pages.

School Vandals

Ridge school at Fernandez and Vine in north Arlington Heights has had seven windows smashed by vandals in the past month, with three broken last weekend. Obscene words have also been scrawled on the building.

Closed 10 Days

Starting this week the railroad crossing over Dunton st. in Arlington Heights will be closed for repairs, open to traffic only on weekends.

The crossing is expected to be closed 10 days.

Beauty Contest For Tiny Tots

"She wore an itsi bitse teeny weeny yellow polka dot bikini!" Could this be Little Miss Pioneer of 1960?

The wading pool at Pioneer Park will be the center of attraction on July 23 at 2 p.m., when girls between the ages of 2-7 from the Arlington Heights' area will vie for this bathing beauty title. Little Miss Pioneer will receive a trophy and will be surrounded by a court of two.

All contestants must register with the wading pool guards at Pioneer Park Pool before 5 p.m. on July 21st.

New System

A new system of identifying real estate for tax billing purposes becomes effective on the 1959 bills now being prepared for mailing. For details, see story on inside page this week.

Suburban Pastor New Presbyterian Leader

Rev. Paul L. Stumpf, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights, maintains the next President of the United States "must be elected on qualifications other than those of political party or church affiliation."

Rev. Stumpf, named in June to his church's highest position in Illinois, believes the chief qualification of a candidate is that he is an active Christian.

"Certainly the President must be a Christian," Rev. Stumpf said. "But it should make little difference what particular faith the President embraces as long as he knows his country comes first."

The 53-year-old clergyman, leader of a congregation of more than 2,500 persons, was elected moderator of the Synod of Illinois of the United Presbyterian church on June 7 in Jacksonville, Ill.

HE THIS assumes the responsibility of officiating at the 1961 Synod meeting. He also officially represents over two million Presbyterians in 597 Illinois churches.

An avid sports fan, Rev. Stumpf won seven varsity letters while participating in athletics at Wheaton college. He went on to attend Princeton Theological seminary in Princeton, N. J., and received a Doctor of Divinity degree from the University of Dubuque.

His initial assignment was at the First Presbyterian church of Collinsville, Ill., across the Mississippi river from St. Louis, his birthplace.

Members of the Collinsville congregation included Hoot Evers, longtime outfielder for the Detroit Tigers baseball club; Arthur Fletcher, renowned New York Yankee coach, and Sam Miranda, famed University of Indiana athlete.

REV. PAUL L. STUMPF

AFTER A 15-year stay at Collinsville, Rev. Stumpf was transferred to the Presbyterian church of Roseland on Chicago's far southside in 1945. In 1955 he was assigned to the Arlington Heights church.

During the next year, the energetic pastor will oversee Illinois Synod plans to administer funds for starting 30 new churches, augment the physical plants of five prove facilities at St. Luke's hospital, and start expansion of three homes for the aged and a home for children.

His work week is already crowded to capacity. In order to get to listen to Chicago Cub baseball games, Rev. Stumpf often can be seen holding a small transistor radio to an ear.

"I used to be a St. Louis Cardinal fan," he explained, "but living in the Chicago area has caused me to convert to the Cubs."

WHILE A student at Princeton seminary, Rev. Stumpf played on a basketball team that trounced some of the best college squads in the east. At Wheaton he won three letters in football, two in baseball, and two in basketball.

Rev. Stumpf advocates the church exercising its responsibility in social problems, large and small. Years ago, he indicated, the Presbyterian church took a stand condemning segregation.

"Our church has always been willing to cooperate with other denominations. And we'll continue to do so," he said, citing the many Asian and African families brought to the United States by individual congregations.

Rev. Stumpf and his wife, Winifred, live at 702 E. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, with their daughter, Jane, 20, who recently finished her second year of study at the University of Dubuque.

HE IS THE first nominee of the Chicago Presbytery to be elected state moderator in the last 25 years. He minimizes the high honor with characteristic humility.

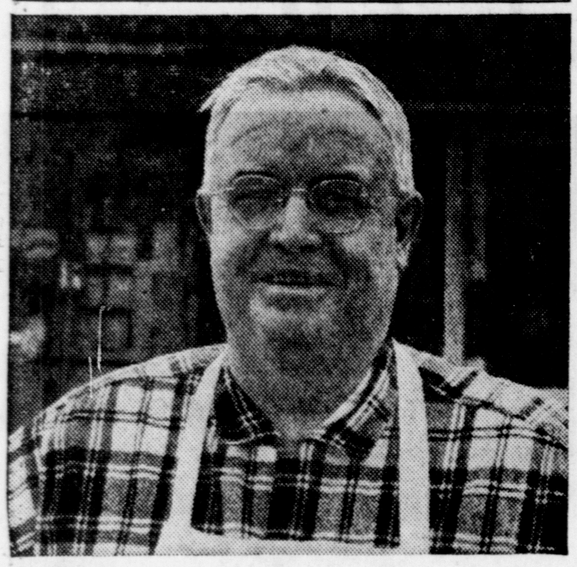
"I was greatly pleased to be chosen moderator," he admits. "There were many other worthy nominees. I suppose I was elected because all my work has been in Illinois."

True, but the calibre of the man probably had more to do with it.

Q. Are the male attendants at a wedding supposed to pay for their own boutonnieres?

A. No; the bridegroom furnishes these.

Grocer Gives Credit



Louis Col explains how his bank helps store succeed

"Making a store a going proposition," says Louis Col, "means working day and night.

"There's service, stock and equipment to consider, too. You can't get ahead without up-to-date display cases for frozen food, enough space for specialty items and sections for meats and fresh vegetables. All this takes more ready cash than an independent grocer like me generally has on hand.

"That's why I go to my bank to help me out. Most businessmen do, and I think it's a good thing when you borrow so that your business can serve more people better and earn a profit for yourself at the same time.

"Of course you can't always get all the money you want when you want it. Banks like to make loans. But they're dealing with depositors' and stockholders' money, and I understand why they have to be businesslike about it.

"Money from my bank is a big help to me, and I think every good businessman should make use of bank credit when he needs it."

Hospital Releases Official Statement on Staff Policy

Following is a statement released this week by the board of trustees of Northwest Community hospital which outlines their medical staff policies.

The board prepared its statement in response to numerous inquiries from interested residents in northwest suburbs.

"Since opening its doors on December 2, 1959, the Northwest Community hospital has admitted 2,700 patients, exclusive of newborn, for medical, surgical or obstetrical care. It has provided facilities for treating more than 2,200 patients requiring emergency attention. Six hundred babies have been born in the maternity section.

"The contributions made by the public, both in financial gifts and in hours of volunteer work, have brought to vital, health-giving reality a dream long held by northwest suburban area residents.

"In its progress toward the highest possible standards of service to its public, the Northwest Community hospital has built a medical staff regarded by authorities as one of the finest in the state of Illinois for a hospital of this size. The procedure for appointment, as described in the approved constitution of the medical staff, has been rigirly followed in the consideration of each application for staff appointment. This procedure is in accordance with standards established by the national Joint Commission Accreditation of Hospitals, official accrediting agency for all hospitals.

"Since the staff began its formal organization in the summer of 1959, there have been 82 appointments, and 22 deferrals or rejections made by the board of trustees. Those doctors appointed represent communities from throughout the northwest suburban area: 40 from Arlington Heights, 11 from Mt. Prospect, 8 from Palatine, 7 from Des Plaines, 2 each from Barrington, Elk Grove and Roselle, and one each from Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling.

"In addition, physicians from neighboring areas were appointed to provide medical specialties not otherwise represented on the staff.

"Appointment of members to the hospital medical staff is one of the most important duties of the board of trustees. Every application, without exception, is handled as follows:

"Each physician applying for membership on the medical staff of the Northwest Community hospital is first thoroughly investigated by a credentials committee of six physicians selected from the six clinical departments of the medical staff, to make certain that the applicant's moral, ethical and professional qualifications meet or exceed the approved standards for acceptance by the medical staff.

"Following this initial investigation, the physician's application is presented to the entire attending medical staff, composed of approximately forty physicians who hold senior status appointments.

"The recommendation of this group of physicians is then communicated to the joint conference committee, consisting of four members of the medical staff executive committee, four members of the board of trustees executive committee, and the hospital administrator.

"In this committee the applicant's credentials, qualifications and letters of reference are again carefully evaluated and there follows a recommendation for final action to the full forty member board of trustees. At its next regularly scheduled meeting, the board of trustees, acting upon recommendation of the joint reference committee and any other information placed at its disposal, votes to accept, defer, or reject the applicant for membership on the medical staff of the Northwest Community hospital.

"The procedure for appointment, as described in the approved constitution of the medical staff, and followed by all hospitals accredited by the national Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, has been rigidly followed for each medical staff applicant.

"Your trustees have, over a period of years, given devotedly of their time and substance that there may be a Northwest Community hospital in which all residents of the surrounding area can place their utmost trust and confidence. We sincerely believe this goal has been realized. In return, we ask that you accept our assurance that considerate, fair, and intelligent judgment is being devoted to the protection of your health and welfare through our constant attention to the operation, maintenance and progress of your Northwest Community hospital," concludes the board statement.

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not confuse formerly (previously) with formally (in a formal or conventional manner).

Do not say, "I promise you that this is the truth." Say, "I assure you."

Do not say, "A period of six months have elapsed." Say, "Has elapsed." "Period," and not "months,' 'is the singular subject.

Do not say, "It was just two years ago that they got married." Say, "that they were married."

Do not say, "Compared to others of his age, the boy has made remarkable progress." Say, "Compared with others."

Bronco Busters, Top Wrestlers at Rodeo

Some of the country's top bronco busters and steer wrestlers will compete in the Rolling Meadows American Legion post's Rodeo scheduled for Arlington race track this weekend.

Professional "cowboys" will be seeking cash prizes Friday night, Saturday night, and Sunday afternoon in what post members call "the most exciting event to come to the northwest suburbs in years."

WING E. GROVES, general chairman of the rodeo committee and senior vice commander of the post, is emphatic in his disclosures that this is to be a genuine competition rodeo and not a wild west show. Groves stated that spectators can expect all the dash and fire typical in any competitive event where the source of prize money is a means of livelihood.

He points to the thrills the audience will experience in such events as bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, calf roping, Brahma steer riding, bucking mule riding and girls' barrel racing.

The two and a half to three hour program will also feature clown mule acts, trick riding, quadrille on horseback, plus the colorful grand entry.

In addition to the unique nature of the entertainment provided in a rodeo, three prominent bands will furnish sideline music to add color to the program. Friday night, the 60 piece St. Benedicts high school band will be featured. Saturday, July 17, musical chores will be handled by the Palatine village band, and Sunday's show will be complemented by the Arlington high school summer band.

COMMITTEE members point out that there will be only one afternoon performance on Sun., starting at 2:30 p.m. Ticket sales indicate that the afternoon performance is by far the most popular, so Legionnaires recommend that intended patrons consider the evening performances, particularly on Friday, so that seating will be assured. Evening performances begin at 8:30.

Seating will be limited since the post cannot risk overcrowding the stands, and, for safety reasons, standing room cannot be permitted.

Several business establishments in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, and Mt. Prospect have tickets on sale. Tickets may also be obtained at the Rolling Meadows city hall through the police department, from any Rolling Meadows Legionnaire, or at the gate before each performance.

Ticket prices are $1.25 for adults and children over 12; 75 cents for children under 12 and free admission for youngsters under 4. (B8

New Billing System Slated For Real Estate Tax Bills

A new system of real estate tax billing will go into effect with the issuance of the 1959 tax bills now being prepared for mailing.

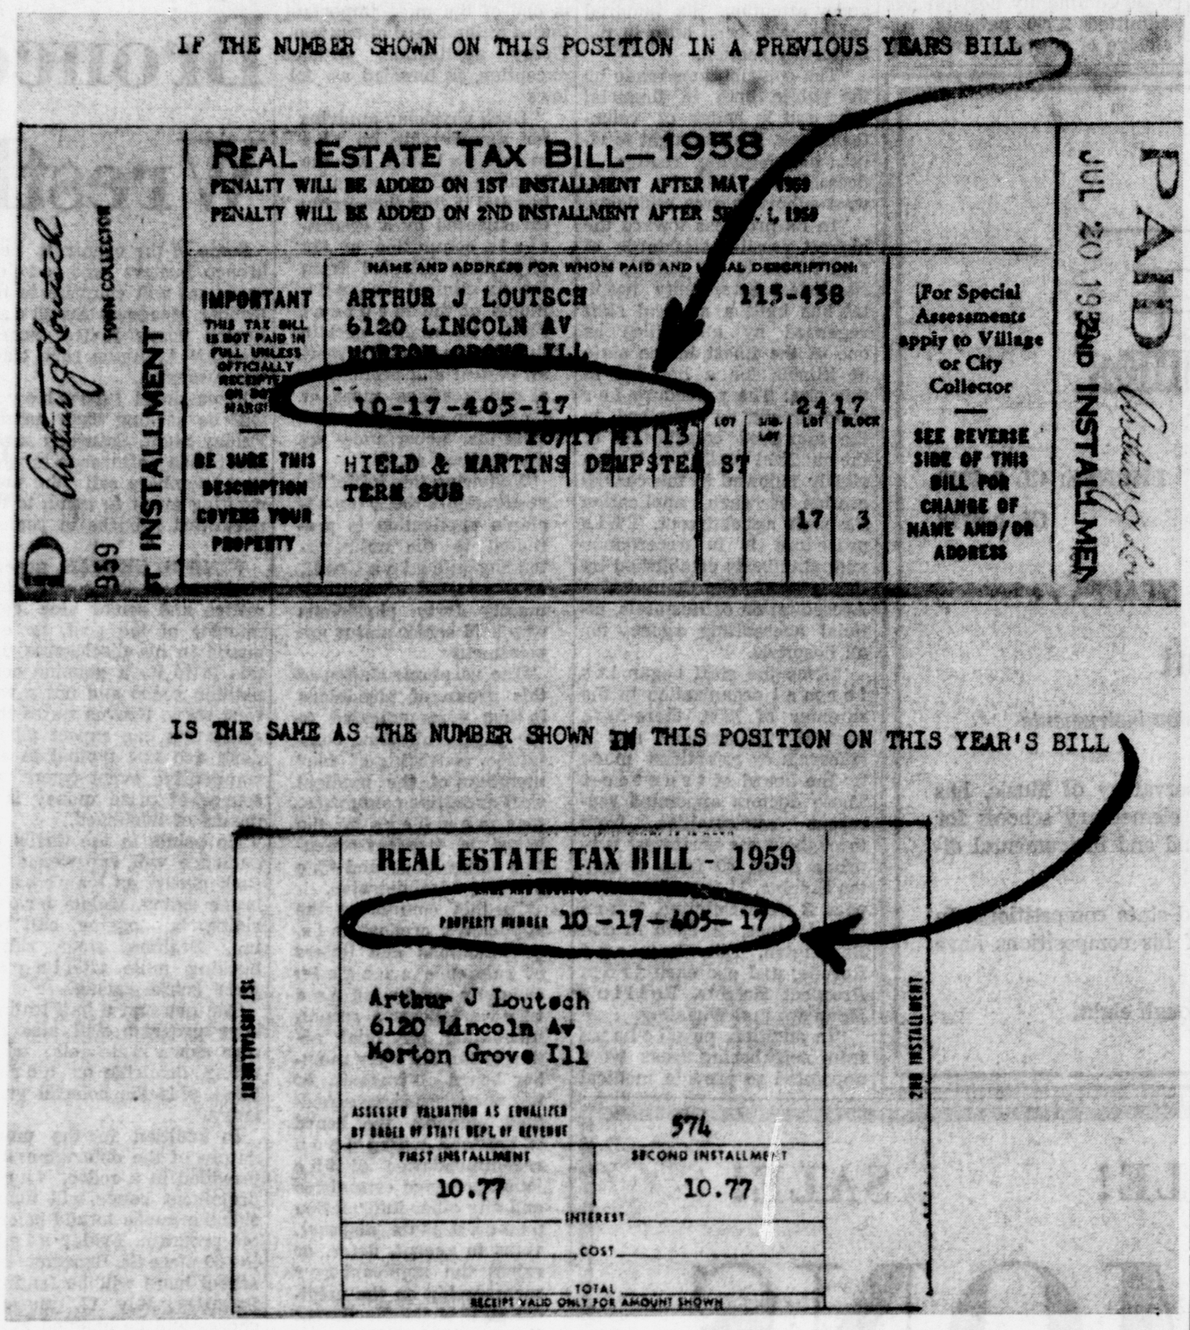
Collectors for Elk Grove, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Palatine townships this week brought to the attention of taxpayers the absence of the legal description on the new bill and the substitution of a permanent index number.

The permanent index number system is a method of symplifying the very complex tax assessing, collecting and identification problems in Cook county.

It will simplify the identification of the 1,250,000 parcels of real estate through the various offices concerned and will make it possible for the county to apply modern mechanical methods to all of the necessary operations constituting tax assessing, collecting and distribution.

UNDER THE new system each parcel of property in Cook county has been assigned a "permanent index number." These numbers have been on all tax bills since 1949. Taxpayers should check these identification numbers with previous years' bills to be certain that the same property is covered.

If a mortgage house holds your tax bill, they will check the number for you. Otherwise, you should check the code on the tax bills yourself. (B8



THEN THE BILLS are covering the same property. In the event these numbers are not identical, township collectors advise taxpayers to check the official Index Maps before making payment. The new billing system for real estate tax bills goes into effect with the 1959 bills now being prepared for mailing.

Assessment Dates Upheld by Court

Circuit Judge William J. Tuohy has upheld the constitutionality of new state laws making January 1 the annual assessment date for real estate and personal property instead of April 1 and dividing Cook county into four districts for tax assessment purposes.

Handed down in a test suit, the ruling states the legislation, adopted in 1959, doesn't violate any provisions of the Illinois or the United States constitutions.

THE OWNER of property on January 1 is liable for the real estate taxes of that year, starting with 1960, the court said. This will be felt in 1961, when tax bills for 1960 government expenditures will be sent out.

The declaratory judgment order signed by Judge Tuohy spells out how the county assessor, beginning in 1961, will split Chicago and the suburban area into four districts for making a general reassessment of real estate on the basis of one district each year. In the past, this has been done for all of Cook county in a single year every four years.

The change will permit the assessor's office to maintain a smaller, permanent staff instead of hiring extra help each quadrennial year to handle the larger load.

FOR TOWNSHIPS placed in District 1, the quadrennial assessment years are 1961, 1964, and every fourth year thereafter; District 2, 1962, 1965, and every fourth year thereafter, District 3, 1963, 1966, and every fourth year thereafter; and District 4, 1963 and every fourth year thereafter.

Here's the grouping of townships by districts:

District 1: Barrington, Palatine, Wheeling, Northfield, New Trier, Niles, Evanston, Rogers Park, Lake View, and North Chicago.

District 2: Hanover, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Maine, Leyden, Proviso, River Forest, Riverside, Norwood Park, and Jefferson.

District 3: Oak Park, Cicero, Berwyn, Stickney, Lyons, Worth, Palos, Lemont, West Chicago, and Lake.

District 4: Thornton, Bloom, Bremen, Rich, Orland, Calumet, South Chicago, and Hyde Park.

CHICAGO HAS eight townships and the suburbs 30.

The test suit was filed in February by the Apex Motor Fuel Company, 1401 W. North ave., Chicago, in behalf of all county taxpayers.

The lineup of townships by districts has been approved by the County Board.

Outing to Mark Scout Birthday

Boy Scouts of the northwest suburban area will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America July 22-24.

The largest single group will consist of 3,000 scouts and leaders camping in the Ned Brown forest preserve near Elk Grove Village.

Activities planned for this group include:

Iakota lodge of the Order of the Arrow, the national brotherhood of scout honor campers, will hold a calling out ceremony for scouts elected into this honor group Friday, July 22.

Demonstrations by the Illinois Conservation department and the United States army will take place Saturday, July 23.

Each troop will be allowed to run a program of their own choosing and visit other troops Sunday, July 24.

ACCORDING to General Chairman Wallace Carrithers, over 50 adult scout leaders have been involved in the planning of this undertaking.

Water will be brought to the campsite in tank trailers. Illinois Bell Telephone is installing a special telephone line in the forest preserve to link the scouts with the outside area.

Trucks will be brought in Sunday afternoon to haul away trash accumulated during the activities.

State police have agreed to handle traffic on the highways leading to the camporee site.

CARRITHERS urges the public to view the camporee. Of particular interest, he noted, will be an arena show staged by the scouts Saturday at 9 p.m.

On the same weekend, over 400 scouts will be camping at the scout council's long term camp, Napowan, located near Wild Rose, Wis.

At the fifth national jamboree, to be held at Colorado Springs, Col., 60 scouts and leaders from this area will be in attendance.

Mt. Prospect Youth Is McCormick Scholar

A Mount Prospect youth is among 14 outstanding midwest high school seniors who have been awarded McCormick journalism scholarships for study at Northwestern university.

Announcement of the winners was made Friday by I. W. Cole, dean of the Medill school of journalism.

The local winner is Robert Thomas Setlik, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Setlik, 815 S. Emerson st., Mount Prospect. He is a June graduate of Arlington high school, where he ranked 35th in a class of 851. He studied journalism under Jack W. Martin, instructor at Arlington and faculty adviser to the student newspaper.

THE EIGHT men and six women, fourth group of McCormick scholars to enroll at Medill, will receive from $2,500 to $6,000 each to apply toward the cost of their education.

The scholarship program honors the late editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune. It was established in 1957 with a $300,000 grant to Northwestern university from the trustees of the Robert R. McCormick Charitable Trusts.

Those awarded scholarships this year were chosen from among 91 high school seniors nominated by newspapers which are members of the Inland Daily Press association.

"Every one of the 1960 group of McCormick scholars ranks high in his graduating class in high school," Dean Cole said. "In addition, each scholarship winner has participated in journalism in high school."

TWENTY-FIVE undergraduate students who won McCormick scholarships in previous years were enrolled in Medill during the school year just ended. Cole said that the McCormick scholarship group "has been an outstanding one academically and in terms of student leadership on the campus."

A McCormick scholarship is one of the highest honors to be conferred on high school graduates entering the journalism profession.

At Arlington high school, Setlik played football his junior and senior years, participated in intramural athletics for three years, and served as a writer for the 1960 talent show. During his junior year, he was a staff member of the Cardinal, high school newspaper, and he served as feature editor this past year. He is a member of Quill and Scroll journalism society and the National Honor Society.

SINCE JANUARY, Setlik has worked as a part-time reporter for Paddock Publications newspapers. Beginning this sumemr, he will work full-time during vacation periods to augment his journalism studies at Northwestern university with practical newspaper experience.

Setlik is the first McCormick scholar to be selected from the northwest suburban area.

Other 1960 McCormick scholars are from Hillsboro, Ill.; Ferndale, Mich.; Freeport, Ill.; Creston, Iowa; Greenville, Mich.; Menasha, Wis.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Oak Park, Ill.; Chicago; Glenview, Ill.; Park Forest, Ill.; Litchfield, Ill.; and Moline, Ill.

A NEW generation of journalists tries out the editor's chair for size. Young man behind the desk is Robert Setlik, 18, of 815 S. Emerson st., Mount Prospect, who was named this week as a winner of a coveted McCormick journalism scholarship at Northwestern university. A June graduate of Arlington high school, Setlik worked as part-time reporter at Paddock Publications newspapers this past year. Beginning this summer he will work during his summer vacations receiving practical experience to supplement his journalism studies. Shown above, offering pointers to two other generations of journalists: are William L. Dulaney, assistant managing editor of the 13-newspaper chain, and Stuart R. Paddock, editor-in-chief.

Bids Are Opened For Water Main

The city of Chicago last week opened bids for the construction of a 48-inch water main over the Des Plaines river from the existing 48-inch main in Bryn Mawr avenue and the city limits at Canfield avenue, to the east boundary of O'Hare International Airport.

Low Bidder was Porter Contracting co., 318 N. Madison, Hinsdale, with a bid of $44,000, among seven bidders.

The airport is now supplied with water through a 24-inch thin-walled steel main in Bryn Mawr ave. connected to the city water system by a metered connection at Canfield ave. This was built in 1943 for use of the U. S. Air Force, and has deteriorated and is of insufficient capacity, according to Commissioner of Public Works George DeMent. Studies indicate a 48-inch main will be needed.

THE RIVER crossing contract calls for the installation of 285 linear feet of cast iron pipe, fittings, and valves to be furnished by the city, and the furnishing and placing of concrete for pipe encasement by the contractor. The pipe will be laid ten feet below the bed of the river and 65 feet south of the center line of Bryn Mawr ave. extended.

The city Department of Water and Sewers will supervise construction for the contract and will also install that part of the new water main outside the river crossing.

Commuter Loses Timetable Plea

— It would be a sad day for commuters if railroad timetables were changed to satisfy one rider, the Illinois Commerce Commission has ruled.

In effect, this was the reasoning the commission applied in dismissing a complaint filed against the Chicago and North Western railway by Eugene J. Hanson, 342 W. Cuba road, Barrington.

THE CASE had been under study for 10 months. At a hearing last September, Hanson urged the commission to order the railroad to restore the 6:25 a.m. stop at Barrington so he could arrive at his desk on time at the Chicago Stock Yards where he is construction superintendent for Swift & Co.

The stop was dropped in December, 1958, when the North Western hiked fares, dropped stations, and changed running times.

Ever since he's had to catch the train at Palatine. His alternatives are to ride the 6:03 out of Barrington (considered an unreasonable departure time by Hanson), or board the 6:42 which he said most always was late and made him and other members of a Loop car pool tardy on the job.

BUT TO restore the 6:25 stop at Barrington would mean using Train No. 610 to do it. It originates in Crystal Lake and now pulls out at 6:15 with about 115 Crystal Lake riders aboard.

The commission said: "While the individual convenience of the complainant would be better served by adding a Barrington stop on Train 610, as requested, the convenience of other suburban passengers must also be considered, particularly the convenience of the 115 passengers on Train 610 from Crystal Lake."

"... and this is the number for soft water."

Streamwood Uuites to Build New Future

How Problems Are Resolved

by TOM McSHANE
(Last in a Series)

The lack of moral responsibility in planning the initial development of Streamwood has left the Hanover township village a legacy of tribulation.

It has caused problems over and above those commonly faced by people moving to the suburbs.

From the time of its incorporation as a "captive village," under the thumb of a builder-controlled village board, through a much-publicized attempt to annex 75 miles of nearby highways, and through a widely reported "mothers march" for more schools, Streamwood has been battling its heritage.

Today the battle is beginning to pay off. Streamwood is moving over the first of many humps.

A DRIVE through the village leaves an immediate and lasting impression. Children are everywhere. Like most suburbs, Streamwood is a hatchery and it is the presence of children that generates the biggest problems in tract developments like this one.

Children demand the services that cost, the schools and play areas.

If the builders do not donate sites and financial help toward construction of the facilities, the residents are in a tough spot. With the archaic Illinois revenue code, assessment procedures and tax collections lag behind occupancy of the homes by as much as two years. During these years the new homeowner receives a free ride on the services bandwagon.

Unless the builder gives an assist, schools become overcrowded and the people become unhappy.

Streamwood faced this dilemma.

The original developer did nothing for the school district. And he compounded his moral irresponsibility by "stacking" the village board and pushing through a minimum 6500 sq. ft. lot size in a zoning ordinance.

AT THE START there was a three-room country school to serve Streamwood. It soon became overcrowded, and the children had to be transported to schools in Elgin.

When the first builder went out of business in the area, the people were beginning to realize they faced a serious problem. Fortunately, the developer of Woodland Heights saw the problem and donated a site and a seven-room school.

Even more fortunate for the people of Streamwood is the fact that the development is in the Elgin school district. This fact alone has saved the village years of hardship.

The Elgin schools comprise a unit district, uncommon in the suburban areas. It has complete facilities from kindergarten through junior college. Today there are 21 grade schools, four junior highs, one high school (another is under construction), and one junior college in the district. It serves areas in Cook, DuPage, and Kane counties.

BECAUSE of its size, the Elgin district has been able to absorb the new development without overburdening its taxpayers.

Had Streamwood been in the position of developments like Hoffman Estates or Elk Grove Village, with their small independent elementary school districts, it would be an educational void by now.

Even so, the village faced lean years schoolwise, with many children traveling to Elgin to school. Last year things got to the point where several mothers were picketing the builder who donated the school for more facilities.

The Elgin district then stepped in, got tremendous support from the residents, and held two referendums to provide $320,000 for school additions in Streamwood.

The old three-room, Hanover Countryside school will have 18 rooms this fall. The builder-donated Woodland Heights school will have 19. School authorities expect there will be 525 students enrolled in Hanover and 500 in Woodland Heights this fall, compared with 212 and 464 this spring (another 100 were transported elsewhere).

ELGIN SCHOOL Superintendent Orrin Thompson said in June that the unwillingness of the builders to cooperate, the archaic revenue laws, and the uncertainty surrounding the developer's plans caused most of the school problems in Streamwood.

He said the board felt the picketing of the builder who did help the district was "regrettable." But he praised the village's PTA for displaying "some very good leadership" during the year, and said he felt the village was over the hump schoolwise.

The next big problem is recreational facilities. Streamwood has no park district. According to one village trustee, the people cannot afford it yet even though park sites have been donated by the builder.

The residents have set up programs for the children, however. This summer a community-sponsored program has about 425 participants, and an active teen club has been organized.

But these groups have come the hard way. Perhaps, as one resident put it, "they will be better appreciated."

One group that is particularly "for" the Streamwood way of life is its village board. But here, too, the terrific financial pressure of improper development has been felt.

THIS SPRING, Village policemen agreed to work for one-quarter of their normal salaries until August 1. The president, trustees, treasurer, clerk, and attorney agreed to work for nothing until January, and village expenses were pared to a minimum.

Delays in tax returns again are blamed for the cuts.

The board has taken steps to broaden tax bases in the future and to lighten the load on the homeowner.

An area along Bartlett rd. has been proposed for a shopping center. Today Streamwood's residents shop in Elgin, Carpentersville, or Hoffman Estates. A local center would eliminate the big weekly market trip, and enable the housewives to pick up necessary odds and ends without planning a major junket.

The board also has made provisions for a light industrial area on the village's south side. Attempts to attract tenants have failed so far, but if the village can offer adequate services in the future, an industrial park is possible.

LIKE many other suburbs, Streamwood is more than adequately supplied with churches. Plans for four Protestant congregations are in the making. One Lutheran church is under construction along Bartlett rd. When this building is completed, it will be the first church in the village. Local Catholics are members of a Bartlett parish. There are no Jewish facilities.

There are 1200 families in the community, hardly enough to support five congregations. But, as is the case in most suburbs, the churches assigned are anticipating more growth.

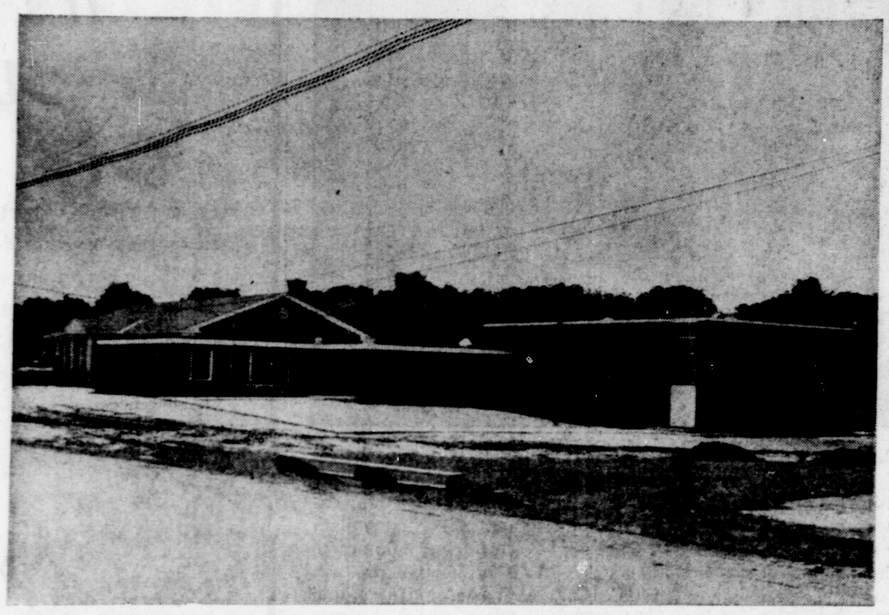
TODAY Streamwood is moving forward. A new builder, the Alexander Construction company, is about to take over from the departing Streamwood Home Builders. The Alexander outfit is the largest builder of National homes in the country, with developments in Colorado Springs and Hampton Park, near Lockport. In the past the company has been conscientious in its dealings with buyers.

But this company never will be able to make up for the problems created by an original developer who was out for a buck and nothing else. This the people of the village have to do. And they have a fair start. (B8

THIS LUTHERAN church, under construction on the west side of Bartlett rd., is the first of four Protestant churches planned for the village of Streamwood. Catholic residents are members of a parish in Bartlett. There are no Jewish facilities. (B8



THE HANOVER Countryside school is one of two in Streamwood that has undergone tremendous expansion in a very short time. This building was a three-room country school when the first homes were built in 1956. This fall it will have 18 rooms, and an enrollment of 525. (B8

Our Saviour's Plans Annual Church Picnic

The annual family picnic of Our Saviour Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, will be held Sunday, July 17, beginning at 1 p.m. at Deer Grove forest preserve, grove 2. Games will begin at 3 p.m. and pop and ice cream will be supplied for children. A picnic supper will be served at 5:30 p.m. All families of the congregation are invited.

The evangelism visitors of Our Saviour's are meeting bi-weekly on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. at the home of John Gessert, evangelism chairman, for the purpose of inviting unchurched and new residents to church.

Pesolution Is Adopted

At a meeting called last week as a result of the first article in Paddock Publications' series on Streamwood, representatives of the major organizations in the village adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved:

"That this group is formed for the purpose of:

"1. Affirming the unity of the citizens of Streamwood; and

"2. Affirming the unity of purpose of all organizations in improvement of the community of Streamwood.

"Be it further resolved:

"That the growth and progress of the village of Streamwood be our aim as we associate ourselves together;

"That we initiate a group of non-partisan representatives until such time as acceptance of all organizations allows for the election of a representative body."

Arlington Heights

Gail Smith, 221 Wilshire, Arlington Heights, who is participating in an experiment in international living with the Girl Scouts, is sending some interesting reports of her travels in Brazil. Gail reports that they flew over Cuba at night and there wasn't a light to be seen. They landed in Panama, where everything was humid and green.

She observed natives living in grass huts and saw native women walking along the road with large jugs on their heads. After the plane took off again they were hoping for a look at the Panama Canal but the sky was cloudy and they couldn't see it. They landed in Maneos, Brazil in the midst of a celebration of the Holiday of St. John. People were eating along the street by candlelight, at midnight.

WHEN THEY reached Sao Paulo, Brazil, it was quite cold and Gail was met by her hostess, Marie Duarte. She reports the Duartes have a very modern home with television set, two telephones, running hot and cold water, but no heat. Since this is their winter it is necessary to wear their coats in the house. Their food is about the same as ours. Gail speaks some Spanish and Maria speaks Spanish, Portuguese and some English. The most prevalent language in that area is Portuguese.

Maria took Gail to a camp fire given by her troop. The scouts were dressed in native costumes of early times. Each Girl Scout law was symbolized by a girl with a torch and as the law was spoken the torch was thrown into the fire. After the camp fire, the girls went for pizza. Maria's troop is composed of crippled girls. Her father was stricken with polio a few years ago and she has worked with the crippled girls since.

ALMOST ALL of the Girl Scout leaders in that area are under 21. The girls take their leadership training as senior Girl Scouts and then become leaders. Few leaders are married or have children. (B9

Suburban Band Leader Plays 'Right Tunes'

In an era when small bands and orchestras are folding every day, an Arlington Heights orchestra leader seems to be playing the right tunes.

Norm Ladd, 32, of 1525 N. Highland, formed his own group 19 months ago, and has worked steadily since obtaining his first engagement four months later.

His 11 piece orchestra just ended a return engagement July 10 at the Aragon Ballroom on Chicago's north side, one of the few groups with such limited experience invited to Aragon.

Ladd had traveled across the country for 10 years with his clarinet, flute, and saxophone, playing for such men as Eddy Howard and Gay Claridge, before he decided to go on his own.

"It had always been my ambition to have an orchestra," he said, "and I thought there was no beter time than the present to start out."

DEPRESSED FOR a while in the mid-1950's because people were turning away from the dance floors, Ladd now believes there is "a definite craving for new bands and new band personalities."

His formula for drawing people back to the dance floors?

"Play music to please the dancers, not yourself."

Ladd explains that pleasing everyone on the dance floor, from teenagers to adults, is not as difficult as it sounds.

"The basic difference between teen age and adult dancers," he observed, "is that teenagers like to move around slowly, while adults prefer more intricate steps."

When playing for a group of teen age and adult dancers, he said a typical sequence would go like the following:

1) "OUR LOVE is Here to Stay," 2) a medley of "Josephine," "You're the Object of My Affection," and "Moonlight Saving Time," 3) a waltz, such as "Tenderly" or "Fascination," 4) an up-tempo arrangement of "Chicago," 5) a cha cha.

Following his plan of playing to please the dancers, Ladd knew he was on the right track when the crowds kept on getting larger during his first engagement.

That was 15 months ago at the Regent Ballroom in Chicago, where his orchestra played three nights a week.

"Many people said they liked us," he stated, "because, we were not a loud, blary band."

Since then he has made two extended appearances at the Aragon Ballroom, and played for various company and convention groups.

Recently Ladd kept 1,800 teenagers dancing at the Morton high school prom, to which he has been asked to come back next year.

WHILE THE PAST 15 months have found the orchestra booked solid, Ladd noted it took four months of auditioning and rehearsing before he found work.

"Anyone can organize a band," he said. "Getting a job is the hard thing."

With the help of former employer, Gay Claridge, Ladd obtained his initial engagement.

The orchestra, which consists of 10 musicians and a girl vocalist, is not modeled after any particular group.

"I decided not to copy anyone," Ladd said, "because we could never be as good as the original."

Most of his time now, he noted, is spent writing and obtaining arrangements, auditioning prospective orchestra members, and rehearsing.

"It's a full time job," he commented.

LADD'S BIGGEST headache involves adding new arrangements to the orchestra's repetoire, which numbers over 300 songs.

He continually weeds out old numbers and adds new ones. "Otherwise, we would get monotonous," he said. "And to obtain a good, professional arrangement, it takes $50.

"While there is a tremendous expense in keeping the orchestra together," Ladd stated, "I feel there is a definite future in the business."

He has noticed a heightened interest in ballroom dancing during the past two years, especially among teenagers. The increased enrollment in dancing classes also encourages him.

Ladd would like to stay in the musical field for "a long time." "There are many things I would like to accomplish," he said.

Among his aims are to go on the road and play in the big ballrooms across the country, appear on television, and make recordings.

LADD WAS A nine year old youngster in Milwaukee when he began taking musical lessons.

"At first," he admitted, "I probably preferred to play baseball rather than practice. And, at one time, I considered going into architectural engineering."

"But that was just an afterthought," he continued, "because I realized that music would be my life work."

After graduating from the University of Wisconsin, where he majored in music, Ladd began playing for various bands.

HE JOINED THE Eddy Howard band in 1951, and played for Gay Claridge from 1956 to 1959. Ladd moved to Arlington Heights after joining Claridge.

His wife, Marge, is the orchestra's secretary. They have two children, Gary 3, Dawn, six months.

Ladd golfs in the 90's, but "not as much as I would like to."

"The band takes too much of my time." (B8

Hospital Report Demonstrates Use

Suburbanites are keeping Northwest Community hospital busy.

The May report for the Arlington Heights hospital was released last week. It showed that in the six months since the center opened on December 2, the occupancy rate has been 86 per cent in medical; 84 per cent in surgical; 60 per cent in obstetrical; 66 per cent in pediatrics for a total of 78 per cent in the entire hospital.

These figures do not include new-born infants. The bassinet complement is 24, and overall occupancy 60 per cent.

FOR THE MONTH of May there were 564 patients discharged, and seven deaths. During that month, there were 220 operations performed and 98 babies delivered.

Emergency room records reveal that 482 persons were treated. The majority were classified as out-patients who received emergency treatment only and were not included in the other hospital statistics.

During the first 10 days of July, there were 43 babies born at Northwest Community hospital. In most cases, mother and infant are discharged from the hospital on the third day. (B8

Crash Victims Are Rushed to Center

The emergency room mobilized for action, Saturday night, as the victims of a three car crash in Rolling Meadows were brought for treatment.

Yet action of the room went on during the week, handling local accident victims, and rescuing an unusually large number of children from mishaps.

Four-year-old Michael Engibous, Mt. Prospect was run over by a car parked in his driveway. The parking brake failed. The tot escaped with bruises on his body, early Saturday evening.

James Hansen, 2½, of Rockford, was brought in that evening requiring stitches where a car door had slammed on a finger of his right hand.

Kenneth Dale, 9, of Arlington Heights, slipped on the floor of a locker room at the recreation park pool, and suffered a broken arm, Saturday.

ANOTHER finger on a two-year-old that required stitches is that of Patricial Lett, Mt. Prospect. She caught her hand in an aluminum door.

Charles Schroeder, 7, of Mt. Prospect, punctured his left thigh with a rusty nail. A one inch cut required stitches. The same day, Friday, July 8, Catherine Schnoyer, 7, of Arlington Heights, injured her right foot at a neighbor's swimming pool. The emergency staff stitched up the cut.

Three youngsters were given emergency treatment, Wednesday, July 6. Peter Shmalcs, 16, of Palatine received a 1½ inch cut on his right hand while installing a mower blade. He required stitches. Wendy Nielsen, 6, of Rolling Meadows got a one inch cut on her right knee, the result of an unfortunate tangle with a swing set.

Two-year-old Debra Gawrys, of Prospect Heights, fell down stairs and hit the back of her head on concrete. A one and a half inch cut was stitched. (B-8

Beart Appointed To Scout Group

Robert W. Beart of Park Ridge, vice president of Illinois Tool Works, was recently named to head up the physical arrangements committee for the Northwest Suburban Scout Council's Jubilee Camporee.

In celebration of Scouting's 50th Birthday, all scouts of the northwest suburban area will participate in a huge campout on the Weekend of July 22-23-24, at the Ned Brown forest preserve near Elk Grove Village. (B8

BEART AND HIS committee are responsible for providing all necessary physical needs for the more than 3,000 participants. Arrangements have been made with the Illinois state police for adequate control of traffic near the campsite, with the Illinois Bell Telephone company for public phone installations, with Kenny Construction company for portable floodlighting equipment for the big arena show on Saturday evening, with the Northern Illinois Gas company for digging of trenches in the camping areas, with Bowman Dairy for trailers of drinking water to supply all needs for water, and refrigerator trucks of milk. Adequate first aid needs are being supplied by the Arlington Heights fire department, and arrangements have been made with the Northwest Community hospital for emergency use.

Beart is a member of the Economic club of Chicago, the Chicago Bar association, the Chicago Patent Law association, the American Bar association, Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, and the NAM patent committee.

In addition, he is serving as a director of the Illinois Lutheran Welfare association, director of the YMCA of Park Ridge, and currently active in planning the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Park Ridge. He resides at 827 S. Vine avenue with his wife, Helen, and two children, Robert Jr. and Beth Joanne. (B8

Vacation Plans Now Become Reality for Area Residents

While many Arlington Heights residents' vacation plans are now becoming a reality, those remaining at home are enjoying being hosts to visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brine, 642 S. Vail, entertained at cocktails Wednesday for Jack Bess, their former next door neighbor, who is here from his home in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweet, 738 S. Walnut, welcomed for a weekend visit, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Hieronymus of Rock Island.

There are several parties planned for Mrs. Margaret Cunningham of Houston, who is here for her annual visit with her daughter and son-in-law, the R. W. LeMeilleurs, 1009 W. Miner. A fish fry is planned for Friday at the Palatine home of her son, William, and her granddaughter. Miss Cherie LeMeilleur of Chicago will give a dinner party Saturday and if good weather prevails, a beach party Sunday. Mrs. LeMeilleur has asked her neighbors in to a brunch, Wednesday.

Mrs. Cunningham came here with the LeMeilleurs who were returning from a 2-week motor trip to New Orleans and Houston, where they stayed at the resort of Mr. LeMeilleur's parents. Their stay in Houston was marred somewhat by the heavy rains which caused much flooding and heavy damage and their trip home was delayed two days during which 17 inches of rain fell and road travel was impossible.

BETTY BLISS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bliss, 1307 E. Eastman, entertained 11 guests at a barbecue and swimming party Saturday to mark her 11th birthday.

Miss Arlene Andres entertained 10 classmates from St. Patrick's academy in Des Plaines at a cookout Saturday at her home at 1145 N. Belmont. Miss Andres had as guest of honor, Fr. Howard J. Sturm, who has been religious instructor to the girls during their years at St. Patrick's, and who is soon leaving this area to take up his duties at St. Leonards Catholic church of Berwyn.

After they bid goodbye to Fr. Sturm, the girls stayed on for the ever-popular slumber party.

The following day Miss Andres' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Andres, were hosts to a group of long-time friends including Dr. Royal Fitch, Mrs. Frances Clem, and Mrs. Frank Jacobs.

MR. AND MRS. Richard Graczyk, 718 S. Chestnut, gave a barbecue Saturday to celebrate their youngest son, Tommy's first birthday. Among their guests were the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tondrowski, and Mrs. Jean Graczyk of Chicago, and his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gundersen of Itasca and Mr. and Mrs. John Ciezarek of Skokie.

Mrs. H. H. Dornburg of Ohio View, Pa. will arrive in Arlington Heights July 17 for a visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snodgrass, 15 E. Fairview.

Among those currently away on vacations are Miss Susan Hosang, 922 N. Patton, who left July 4 by jet for West Palm Beach, Fla., where she will spend a week visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dietrich, after which she and her grandparents will sail on the S. S. Bahama for an extended visit in Nassau.

MR. AND MRS. C. Allan Butler, 630 S. Vail, spent the past two weeks vacationing in Daytona Beach, Fla. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Herbon of Chicago, accompanied them on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tierney and their youngest daughter, Mary, returned Tuesday to their home at 315 W. Park from Phoenix, where they spent 10 days visiting Mrs. Tierney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilkes, and her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. Blakely. During their stay, they joined family members and friends for the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of her parents.

Mrs. Earl K. Riley, 738 S. Mitchell, and daughter, Laurie, went along for company when Mr. Riley was called east on business. While Mr. Riley attended to business matters, Mrs. Riley and Laurie went sight seeing in New York City, Norfolk, Va. and Charlotte, N. C.

Upon returning home, they immediately left for their lake home in Oconomowoc, Wis. to spend the weekend and to make plans for Laurie's forthcoming wedding. Miss Riley, whose engagement to Thomas Gore, formerly of Arlington Heights and now living in Menlo Park, Cal., was announced at Easter time, plans to be married September 3.

MR. AND MRS. Mitchell Barnett, 713 S. Evergreen, returned from their vacation in Harbor Springs, Mich., in time to celebrate the July 6 birthday of their son, Scotty. Scotty, who was 6 years old, celebrated the event with a luncheon for eight guests.

Vacationing closer to home were the Paul Blacks, 701 S. Chestnut, who spent a week relaxing at Clark Lake, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kurtz, 805 S. Mitchell, and their son, Kerry, drove to Door county, Wisconsin, over the weekend to visit friends in Bailey's Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Galdoni, 742 S. Chestnut, and their 3 daughters spent the past week vacationing in Monticello, Wis. Enroute to Monticello, they stopped for a tour of the Dells and went to Green Lake where they visited with their Arlington Heights neighbors, the James Dolans.

MR. AND MRS. C. P. Sheldon, 326 S. Windsor dr., welcomed for a long weekend visit, their son, Dale, and his wife and two children, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Robert Frederick, 408 S. Carlyle, is currently on a sight seeing tour of the east with her young son, Bobby. They left June 16 for New York City where they visited museums, art galleries, the United Nations building and then went to Allentown, Pa., to spend a week visiting Bobby's maternal and paternal grandparents. After leaving Allentown, they spent a week in Atlantic City and then plan to go to Washington, D. C., returning home the latter part of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 S. Windsor, gave a dinner party Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Canfield, who are visiting here from Wichita.

OUT-OF-TOWN guests of the Frank Krolls, 326 S. Derbyshire, are looking forward to attending the races at Arlington Park. Here to spend a week with the Krolls are Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Schweble of Brentwood, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McFerson of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 1305 Woodford, recently welcomed Miss Catherine Shiedy of Reading, Pa., for a 4-day visit.

Roy Garr, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Garr, 316 S. Derbyshire, has left for Quantico, Va. for a 6-week marine training course.

Dennis Raveling, 821 E. Davis, left Friday, for Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, to spend six weeks working on a conservation program for the department of interior. He will be joined by young university graduates from several other states.

MR. AND MRS. Edward F. Cockerham, 410 S. Lincoln lane, reported good fishing during their vacation at Eagle River. They were accompanied by their children, Doug and Becky, and Mrs. Cockerham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eber Greenlee of Columbus, Ind.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cherry, 353 S. Belmont, were Mr. and Mrs. Neil H. Anderson and their three daughters of White Plaines, N. Y., who stopped here for a visit before going on to Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Franke, 126 S. Pine, accompanied their daughter, Sana Eakins and her infant son, who had been visiting here, back to their home in Minneapolis.

Mrs. Franke's mother, Mrs. Agnes Harkin, who makes her home with the Frankes, went along too, and together they spent four days motoring through the beautiful Minnesota countryside with a stopover on their way home at the Dells in Wisconsin.

DR. AND MRS. Roger Sharpe of Erie, Pa., longtime friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Holdeman, 444 S. Lincoln lane, stopped here for a brief visit, renewing old acquaintances before going on to Green Lake, Wis.

Dr. Sharpe, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Erie, and Mrs. Sharpe were accompanied by three of their children, Danny, Gweneth and Sally.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hoban, 315 S. Beverly, are home from a vacation in Wisconsin, visiting Marinette on Green Bay and at Green Lake.

Elena Galarza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Galarza, 338 Newbury, left Saturday for High Lake, Wis., where she will join friends for a 2-week vacation.

Mrs. George Gardner, 631 S. Lincoln lane, recently returned from a motor trip to Indiana. She was accompanied by her children, Cathy and Jerry, and drove to Legoda, leaving the children with their grandmother, Mrs. Mable Gardner, and then going on to French Lick to attend a 2-day Alpha Chi Omega national convention at the French Lick Sheraton hotel. Afterwards she visited friends in Salem, Ind. and Salem, Ill.

Guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hibner, 110 S. Belmont, was Mrs. Hibner's aunt, Miss Ruth Hawkinson of Faribault, Minn., who visited here for a week before leaving on a 3-month tour of Europe.

THERE HAS been a fair share of family reunions at the John A. Gustitus home, 400 S. Dryden. While their youngest son, Glen, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johns in Stone Harbor, N. J., they have been hosts to his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gustitus of Minersville, Pa., for a week's visit, and currently visiting is their nephew, Gerald Gustitus of Minersville.

Newcomers to Scarsdale are Mr. and Mrs. George Bray, who moved to 350 S. Newbury from Brookfield, Wis. They have two children, Susan, 16, and Walter, 13. Mr. Bray is employed at the International Harvester Co. in Chicago.

Former Stonegate resident Mrs. Iona Summers sends news of her June 27 marriage to Ernest Hagburg of Mt. Prospect. They are at home at 711 See-Gwun, Mt. Prospect.

REPRESENTING South Church, Community Baptist, Mt. Prospect, at the seventh annual woman's conference meeting at the American Baptist assembly at Green Lake, Wis. are Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Short, 19 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights. Purpose of the conference is to train women to become more effective leaders and help them to develop a deeper sense of responsibility for the work of their church and the world outreach program of the American Baptist convention.

The Edwin Sanders have sold their home at 510 N. State and moved Tuesday to their new home at 843 S. Vail. (A

NEW

tells you to answer the phone

Now a pleasant, melodic chime will tell you your phone is ringing—no matter where you are in your home.

You can have the new Bell Chime installed anywhere—living room, or the family room. It comes in velvety gold or soft ivory.

A handy switch makes it a loud bell when you're outside on the patio. Or you can set it for the familiar, regular telephone ring.

The cost is low. And, maintenance is free. Call your Service Representative at the Bell Telephone business office and ask about the Bell Chime.

Better yet, stop in and have her show it to you. Or if an installer-repairman visits your home, ask to see it.

Virginia Terrace News

Family of the week is that of Doris and Ken Koser, 1327 N. Illinois, and their three children, Kenny, 5, Kathy, 4, and Jimmy, 7 months. They bought their first home here five years ago. Although Ken is from Milwaukee, Wis., he met Doris, who was born and raised on Chicago's south side, at the municipal airport in Chicago while he served as pilot and she as stewardess with Eastern Air Lines. Their courtship culminated in marriage seven years ago, and since then, although Ken is still able to travel in his role as a pilot, Doris has had to give up this luxury for the most part until the children are older. However, they do take trips to Milwaukee to visit Ken's parents, as well as to Galatia, Ill., where Doris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Durham, have lived since her father's retirement. The Kosers are parishioners of St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, and Kenny will enter first grade there in fall.

Because his profession excludes regular hours at home, Ken limits his membership in outside organizations to the Holy Name society of his church. However, when time permits, he enjoys golfing. He is also handy with a hammer and nail, having made quite a few additions to their home, and is a sports fan. Doris' hobbies are reading and sewing, making clothes for herself and Kathy. Although Doris says they like to do most everything, with the children so young they usually go bowling, entertain at home, tend to their garden and enjoy listening to records, jazz to classical, on their stereo hi-fi. With friends and neighbors, they most enjoy casual get-togethers, topped off with a barbecue supper, while an evening out is perfect if it includes a steak dinner, dancing and a tour of the night spots.

DEE AND Don Ryan, 1440 N. Yale, and their three boys, Michael, Timothy and David, spent Sunday at Twin Lakes, Wis., where Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ryan, Maywood, have a summer home. A family dinner party was held in honor of Don, who celebrated his birthday, and, needless to say, the birthday cake and ice cream were a delight to the children.

A short but pleasant visit is being enjoyed by Sandy and Bruce Mullins, 1415 N. Illinoi , and children, Michael, Kevin and Marianne, who are hosts to Bruce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morse Mullins of Quincy, Ill.

Sympathy is extended to Olive and Bill Balow, 1424 N. Illinois, and their son, Stephen, on the death of Bill's father Monday afternoon. Mr. Balow had been in ill health for some time, and had spent the last several month as a patient at Hines hospital.

Friends of Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, will be interested in learning that their son, Gary, 5, returned home over the weekend after spending five days in Northwest Community hospital, undergoing treatment for a low grade infection.

Well rested and relaxed are Myrtle and George Lilly, 1426 N. Race, and their children, George, Francis, John and Rosemary, who returned last week from a vacation trip which included stopovers at Turkey Run and Spring Mill state parks in Indiana and Cumberland Falls state park in Kentucky. A full week was spent in the vicinity of the Smoky Mountains, highlights of which were hikes permitting close views of surrounding beauty as well as the antics of a dozen bears. While there, they also made a side trip to the Pidgeon Forge Pottery works. After spending Fourth of July weekend at Mammoth Cave, the Lillys headed for home, anxious to see their daughter, Susan Mary, who had been left in the care of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara Sheber, Chicago.

TOMMY, son of Jackie and Joe Koenig, 1255 N. Chicago, celebrated his fifth birthday quietly July 7, as his mother was still recuperating from recent surgery. Present at the family dinner party were his sister, Pam, brothers, Bobby and Kenny, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Anderson, who had been here the past three days lending Jackie a helping hand.

A neighborhood bridge group got together last Wednesday evening at the home of Eileen Brown, 1504 W. Oakton, whose co-hostess was Pearl Trummer. After cards Dorothy Hennemann, Carolyn Parkin, Jane Coleman, Mary Louise Burkhardt, Rita Talaber and Norma Barnes, Ridge Park, enjoyed catching up on the latest chit-chat.

Joan and Jack McKey, 1421 N. Race, and their daughter, Cheryl, have returned from a week's vacation to Phelps, Wis., where it was relaxing to fish, swim and dine out. A big thrill for Cheryl was viewing the bears and deer so prevalent there.

Betty and Bill Hotze, 1210 N. Yale, and children, Margaret Ann and Billy, bade their Terrace friends and neighbors farewell Tuesday, as they departed for their new home in suburban Pittsburgh, Pa. The move was a result of a transfer by Bill's employers, U. S. Steel.

A family dinner party, complete with birthday cake and ice cream, was given Saturday evening for Janet, daughter of Valerie and Frank Dawson, 1314 N. Illinois. Helping her celebrate her first birthday were her brother, Steven, and sisters, Jean Ann and Susan.

A firemen's theme was used Saturday afternoon at a party given by Betty and Ed Cech, 1402 N. Chicago, in honor of their son, Alan, who was 4 July 10. Marcia, Alan's sister, assisted Betty. Guests included Alan's brother, David, and sister, Linda; Danny Healy, Jimmy Kohler, Larry Visk, Michael and Judy Lindholm, and Kathy Zaucha, as well as Alan's two cousins, Susan and Donna P. Lattner, Mt. Prospect.

An unexpected vacation trip was taken by Vivian Weber, 1508 W. Oakton, and children, Bob, Bruce, Mark and Cathy, when they accompanied Bob on a combination business-pleasure trip last week to Minneapolis, Minn., where they lived prior to their move here. The hotel provided swimming facilities, which delighted the children, and they enjoyed seeing friends and neighbors. The adults got together in the evening, according to Vivian, and "did the town."

Although a bit belated, a Fourth of July theme was carried out at a party Saturday for Michael, son of Pat and Terry McGuire, 1224 N. Chicago, who was 4 July 7. Helping him celebrate were his sisters, Patty and Diane, Jimmy Lussier, Scotty Narup and Brad Crouch of Barrington.

LARAINE AND Ron Francis, 1227 N. Wilke, entertained friends of their son, Kenny, for his sixth birthday Saturday afternoon for lunch and a movie. His guests were his brother, Mark; Steven Turner, Doug Brown, Randy Thompson and John Van de Merkt.

That evening Kenny was wished many happy returns of the day by his brothers, Mark and Kevin, paternal grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Lloyd Francis, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Clare Whildin, all of Skokie.

Another 4-year-old to celebrate her birthday Saturday afternoon was Melanie, daughter of Carol and George Clarkson, 1259 N. Chicago. Games, favors, birthday cake and ice cream comprised a happy time for her sister, Cheri; Tommy Koenig, Craig Dillman, Mike and Danny Yore, Pam and Pat Chase, Mary Anthony and Therese Miller. Paternal grandmother, Mrs. George Clarkson of Chicago was also on hand to lend Carol assistance and wish Melanie a happy birthday.

Janice, daugher of Dorothy and Leonard Ukleja, 1421 N. Wilke, had the second of her birthday celebrations Saturday when she was guest of honor at a family dinner party in the home of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ukleja, Chicago. She and her sisters, Eileen and Diane, were taken to a carnival following the dinner party.

WITH THE carport made festive with Japanese lanterns and balloons, a gay time was had by Jeff Fairfield, Frank Pircher, Marty Bloom, Gordon Heise, Larry Lampasona and his cousin, who was here on a visit, at a luncheon party Saturday at the home of LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, in honor of son, Tommy, who was 8 July 10. Tommy's brother, Danny, also had a great time playing games and participating in a scavenger hunt. Biggest thrill for Tommy was being surprised with a 2-wheel bicycle.

A family dinner party was held at the home of Loretta and Homer Adkins, 1247 N. Chicago, Sunday in honor of their son, Michael, who was 6 July 9. He received assistance in blowing out the candles on his birthday cake from his brothers, Kyle and Burl, sister, Karen, paternal grandfather, George Reed, who lives with the Adkins, as well as his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Marie Hodge, and her husband of Detroit, Mich., who were here on a weekend visit.

Magdalen and Martin Corley, 1326 N. Chicago, and children, Kevin and Robin, have returned from a week's vacation trip to Wisconsin, where they enjoyed visits with relatives and friends. First stop was Appleton, where they stayed with Magdalen's sister and family, the Cyril Theisses. It was there that the Corleys celebrated Robin's third birthday with her brother and cousins, Gregg, Diane and Jeffrey. They went on to Oconto to visit relatives and friends; then to Milwaukee, where they visited Magdalen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barribeau, and saw a Braves ballgame.

Among several other events of the July 4 weekend was a backyard barbecue hosted by Virginia and Jack Parkin, 1151 N. Beverley. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ghera and children of Mt. Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. Sweitzer and children of Meadowdale. On the Fourth the Parkins entertained friends from Elk Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Knidsen and son.

Wadsworth, Ohio, was the setting for a 75th birthday celebration for Pete Bunnelle's father. Pete, along with Bette and their children, drove from their home at 1115 Haddow ct. to Wadsworth to spend several days with Mr. Bunnelle.

July 3, Ann and Charles Freund of 1164 N. Beverley had as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. James Horner and children of Deerfield and Mr. and Mrs. Nardecchia and children of Chicago. July 4, the senior Mrs. Freund spent a day with Ann and Charles and three boys.

Lenore and Ed Schlack, 622 Clarendon, visited Lenore's mother in Virginia, Ill., and witnessed the edge of a tornado which caused the limb of a tree to fall on their car. Undaunted, they traveled on to visit Lenore's brother in St. Louis and then to see friends in Centralia, Ill.

Terry Flannery, Katy Coughlin, Stephanie Beverley and Cara Hood were birthday guests of the Gerrards, 1165 Hickory, when Kevin Gerrard had a party to celebrate his becoming four.

HAVING COMPLETED a successful fishing trip in Lake Kegonsa, Wis., Ed and Norma Wilkiewicz and daughter, Janet, returned home to 1126 Dryden.

Peg and Norm Sterner and daughter, Kathy, vacationed in Detroit, Mich., with Peg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Burton. Kathy, 10, is remaining with her grandparents an additional three weeks. Peg and Norm have returned home to 1130 Dryden.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Maier traveled from Glenwood, Fla., to the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Marge and Olav Larsen, 1119 N. Beverley, where the Larsens held an open house to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Marge's parents. Marge's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Maier, came from Los Angeles, Cal., for the occasion. Other out-of-town relatives and guests totalled 35 in number.

Having spent a week at Appleton, Wis., with Mr. and Mrs. R. Hauert, Ann and Howard Wolfmeyer and children, Scott and Tom, 1103 Belmont, helped Howard's parents move from the country to the city of Brillion, Wis. Since their return Howard's grandmother, Mrs. Ida Reichardt, has been a guest for a week.

STARTING OUT on a 3-week vacation, Evelyn and Henry Korff visited in Evelyn's home town of Evansville, Ind. then drove to Florida, taking in the sights of Silver Springs and Hollywood, went deep sea fishing and swimming and enjoyed the Sea aquarium in Miami. They have just returned to 1179 N. Beverley.

Former residents of the Greens, May and Bill King, have been in town recently and visited Terry and Ray Bylski of 1180 Beverley. The Kings, who have been living in Montgomery, Ala., are already on their way to Tokyo, Japan, where they will spend the next three years.

Elaine and Bob Bradshaw have returned to 1118 Dryden after spending a month with their children in the east. They all remained with Elaine's folks, Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, in St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y. and visited relatives, picnicked and swam in the Atlantic Ocean.

What started out to be a lawn party July 9, hosted by Peg and Don Schreiner of 1156 N. Beverley, turned out to be an indoor party in the basement of Lorraine and Bob Lantz of 1157 Beverley. Just as the Schneiners' guests were about to eat, the rains came. Spirits undampened, everyone helped transport food and refreshments to the Lantzes, where the party continued. The guests included Rosemarie and [illegible] Ann and Charles Freund, Ann and Ed Koren, [illegible] Mundell, Doris and Ken Jennings, Elsie and George Roby, Virginia and Jack Parkin and Marge and Jim Baker.

JULY 3 Haddow ct. residents, the Bill Gardners, Len Hauskeys, Mark Jenkins, Ray Pressneys and Tony Bengals invited friends and neighbors for an outside square dance. Colored lights and music provided by a record player added a festive atmosphere.

New residents to the Greens are Daniel R. and Theresa Chase, who moved into their new home at 634 E. Clarendon ave. June 30 from 210 N. State rd., where they resided for almost two years. The Chases have two children, Karen, a year, and Alan Michael, born June 25. Alan was christened July 10 in St. James Catholic church during an afternoon ceremony officiated by Rev. John Lane. Godparents were Miss Pat Gorman of Kansas City, a friend of Mrs. Chase and Dan Raupp, a cousin. A dinner party later in the day was attended by the godparents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Obrest of N. Pine ave.

The Leslie R. Shannons, 1161 N. Hickory ave., returned Monday evening from a week's camping trip at Wyalusing State park near Prairie du Chien, Wis. A guest, Norman Schulze of Chicago, joined them for six days of fishing, hiking and exploring caves.

Fightin' Words in Suburb

Special Assessments Strike Frighten, Confuse Residents

by WILLIAM L. DULANEY

One of the most feared phrases in the suburbanite's vocabulary is "special assessment." It is also one of the least understood.

Like a dark specter, the term lurks in the back of many property owners' minds, conjuring up images of hard-earned savings being shelled out for sidewalks or a street widening they didn't want in the first place.

To many residents, it seems a cruel trick to suddenly confront them with payments they never anticipated in their budgets. Particularly when the payments are for a sidewalk that will slice through a front yard that formerly ran, unsullied by cement, from front steps to street.

WHAT CAUSES special assessments? Who decides when and what projects will be undertaken? And who determines how the cost will be met?

In the newer Arlington Heights subdivisions, public improvements such as sidewalks, streets, lighting, and sewers are installed by the builder, and included in the price of the house.

In older areas of the village, however, streets are often unpaved and in many instances dead-ended, sidewalks non existen, and lighting poor. These are the areas ripe for special assessment proceedings, a process in which the property owner is assessed by the village to the extent his property benefits from the improvement.

While some homeowners look askance at the term "improvement," Harold Klingner, board of local improvements (BOLI) chairman, notes that of the 15 projects now on the books, four were originated at the request of property owners.

THE TWO other means by which special assessment proceedings, provided for by a state statute passed in 1874, may be started are upon request of the village board or by the BOLI.

The BOLI, composed of five members appointed by the village manager, is the body that oversees special assessment projects from beginning to end.

First step is an informal public hearing, not required by law, but held, says Klingner, to explain special assessment proceedings to property owners who would be affected if the proposed improvement went through.

He also notes that such a hearing gives BOLI members a chance to get the feeling of property owners on the matter and hear their opinions.

SUCH OPINIONS have in some instances turned the air purple when a property owner finds he may be assessed as much as $1,000 for a wider street in front of his home. Wrath of homeowners over one particular controversial project was so great that a village policeman was alerted in case he was needed during the hearing. His services, however, were not called upon.

Despite moans of bankruptcy from homeowners, Klingner, a member of the board for 3 years, has heard of only one instance where a village resident sold her home when faced with a special assessment.

Assessments on individual property owners have varied from $300 up to $1400, the latter estimated for a homeowner's share of a sanitary sewer project underway.

Statute breaks down payments into 10 equal installments, payable January 1 of each year. Many persons, however, pay their assessments in less time because of the 6 per cent interest charge carried on the unpaid balance.

ANOTHER WAY to save money on a special assessment project, notes Klingner, is to be lucky enough to have the project come up when contractors need work.

He points out that the past three projects have been between 15 and 20 per cent below the engineer's estimate because of favorable bids.

The engineer's cost estimate is given at the formal public hearing, next step after the informal hearing, if the BOLI is still interested in the project. Some proposals have been dropped after informal hearings.

Like informal hearings, formal hearings often pack the village hall with property owners, who are again given an opportunity to voice opinions on the proposed project.

After listening to arguments, BOLI members make a recommendation to the village board.

VILLAGE trustees may either go along with the BOLI recommendation, or turn down the project. They may not amend the proposal.

The BOLI appoints a special commissioner to "spread the assessment," or determine who bears what share of the cost. The commissioner, ordinarily the village finance officer, must be a resident of the village and be familiar with special assessment proceedings.

While many property owners protest the widening of a street or installation of sidewalks, Klingner says he knows of no instance in the village where a special assessment project hasn't increased property values. He also cites the safety factor involved in the installation of sidewalks for school children.

"In many instances we've had homeowners object to a project and later thank BOLI members for initiating an improvement in front of their homes," recalls Klingner.

THOUGH the village's first special assessment project was undertaken in 1916, a $200,000 street paving job which gave Arlington Heights the first paved streets outside of Chicago, Klingner notes that many improvements have yet to be tackled.

The BOLI feels that all streets abutted by homes should be paved. The board's policy on street width is 28 feet in older residential sections and 36 feet for "feeder" streets. Anything over 32 feet is judged public benefit and paid out of motor fuel tax funds. (AF

How Hospital Rallied To Aid Wreck Victims

It was shortly after 8 p.m., Saturday, at Northwest Community hospital. Things were quiet — the routine running calmly. Several patients awaited care for cuts, sprained ankles and falls in the emergency room. A doctor was on duty.

It was about 8:30 p.m. in Northwest Community hospital, Saturday. The routine exploded. Two victims arrived from the tragic three-car collision in Rolling Meadows. The emergency staff went into high gear.

The first patient was gushing blood from his neck. Only a towel hastily stuffed into the wound was able to control bleeding. A lab technition took blood from the open wound, raced to type and cross match it. The patient had lost five pints of blood in 15 minutes. He had about that much longer to live. Four pints of blood, matched to his from the hospital bank, were pumped into the man. The work continued as he was wheeled to surgery for an emergency tracheotomy. An opening was made in his throat so he could breathe.

VICTIM NUMBER one, who surgeons, a plastic surgeon, two anesthetists, and a resident doctor worked. Twelve nurses and aids worked in surgery to save lives. Twenty others worked in rehad gone through his windshield, suffered a broken neck, brain concussion and a list of other injuries that would take three inches of type, was being taken care of.

The hospital received a call that nine more victims were on the way. The night supervisor got on the phone. One nurse was called from each ward. The lab technician, X-ray technician, and anesthetist off duty were called. Four aids and two orderlies were pulled in to help.

It was 8:45. The ambulances pulled into the emergency entrance. Surgeons in the house were summoned. Phone calls to others in the community were made. Within an hour the last of 10 doctors had arrived. He was pulled from a poker game in Oak Park — the first time he left with winnings!

In all, a general practitioner, two heart specialists, a bone specialist, two general covery; spanned all departments.

THE MINOR emergency patients, realizing the enormity of the situation drifted away. Artificial respiration was attempted on one of two children pronounced dead on arrival. Their bodies were taken to the morgue.

Clergy were summoned — right arm to the hospital in such situations. It is their job to calm relatives, administer last rites, break the news of death to families.

The recovery room next to emergency was turned into an extension emergency room. Three regular operating rooms were going full steam. All nine of the living victims required surgery. The team worked swiftly, surely, responding to long years of emergency and disaster training.

The hospital plant was put to test for which it was designed. It too responded, rooms subbing for others, access easy between operating, laboratory, recovery quarters. "It's 10 years ahead of its time architecturally," one of the doctors said.

INTRAVENOUS feedings were given those in shock to raise their steadily falling blood pressure. Nurses upstairs assumed extra loads, as the intense situation below continued. The hours passed, 10, 11, midnight. The last of the victims was wheeled to bed early in the morning.

The 40 or 50 people who had answered the need of others, relaxed from their tense evening. Hospital routine calmed, returned to normal. (AF

High School Urges Newcomers Contact

Families moving to Wheeling and Elk Grove townships with teenagers who expect to attend Arlington or Prospect high schools should come with their children to the appropriate school as soon as possible to take care of enrollment procedures.

All new students are expected to take a placement examination, fill out enrollment materials, and select courses for the coming year. This can be accomplished in a two-hour period at any time from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on week days. Counselors and assistant principals are available in each building to interpret the school's program.

High school district 214 is comprised of the communities of Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, all except two sections of Rolling Meadows and a small portion of Des Plaines.

ARLINGTON high school serves students from the following grade school areas: Wilson, Rolling Meadows, Forest View, Arlington's South Junior high school, and those from Miner Junior high school who live west of the line starting at the corner of Hintz and Buffalo Grove rd., south on Buffalo Grove, continuing south on Windsor to the corner of Miner, west on Miner to Dryden, south on Dryden to Northwest hwy.

Prospect high school draws its students from Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Feehanville and Mt. Prospect schools. Students who live in the area served by Elk Grove elementary schools attend both Arlington and Prospect high schools. Those who will be freshmen in 1960-61 will enroll at Arlington high school. Those who will be sophomore, juniors and seniors in 1960-61 attend Prospect high school. (ACM

Ridge Park–Sherwood

From Ridge Park

When the John Torretos, 614 W. Elm, lived in Virginia Terrace they became friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Hotze of 1210 N. Yale. They continued the friendship, even when the Torretos moved away from this area, and when they returned to Ridge Park, they picked up right where they left off. Now the Hotzes have moved to Pittsburgh, but before they left Marge and John Torreto gave them a farewell party July 2. Mr. and Mrs. James Ostler, Mr. and Mrs. John Kruk and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wessling were there as well as the following Ridge Parkers, Lee and Herman Koeneman, Tom Johnson, Jeanne Bebber, Wally Barnaks, and Robert Helfers. The Hotzes were presented with a lovely gift for their new home along with the well wishes of everyone at the party.

The mouth-watering smell of an outdoor barbecue came from Tommie and Guy Scalzittis' backyard July 1 when Larry celebrated his seventh birthday with Richard Brandt, Craig Colgrove, Tommy Ungare ,Rickey Sundquist, Sean Corkell, Robert Sesterhenn, Michael Locascio and Larry's brother, Gary.

Russell and Doug Daughtry would have been at the party also, but mumps changed their plans. After lunch someone mentioned baseball, and in the next few minutes they had a game going that lasted until it was time to go home. Sunday friends and relatives came out from Chicago for an outdoor barbecue celebrating Larry's birthday and also his dad's, which was July 6. The Scalzittis live at 836 N. Fernandez.

THE JULY 4 WEEKEND brought an intertsting visitor to the home of Ginnie and Bob Read, 1019 N. Kennicott. Klas Krogmann, an exchange farmer from Holland, spent the holiday with them. He raises show cattle in Holland and is working at Hawthorne Melody farm where Bill Read is employed for the summer. Both Klas and Bill will be traveling with the show herd of Hawthorne Melody farm to the county and state fairs through the summer.

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Herbert Post and Sudie, 934 N. Kennicott, extend deepest sympathy in the recent death of Mr. Post.

Everyone in the Henry Rosenblatt family, 1007 N. Salem, went camping this year, even the dog. They made their first stop at 7-mile Lake, out of Clearwater, then went on to Big Bass lake, where they spent summers when the children were small. Mr. LeBlanc, who owns the lake and cottages, remembered them, and all were so happy to see each other they pitched their tent and spent the rest of their vacation there. Apparently the lake is well named for Diana caught the first bass, Mrs. Rosenblatt got a 2-pound 5-ounce bass and Eddie came off with a 4-pounder.

Get well wishes are extended to Mark Bledsoe, who had a tonsillectomy in Northwest Community hospital last Thursday. Mark will be a first grader at Ridge school this fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bledsoe, 724 N. Fernandez.

THE WALTER Cordas, 923 N. Kaspar, made their cottage at Land-O-Lakes, Wis., headquarters for their vacation activities, which included attending Walter's high school class reunion at Bessemer, Mich. They also visited relatives in Wakefield, Mich.

Saturday the Bill Rudys, Frank Psotas and Murray Wooleys had dinner at the Polynesian room of the Edgewater Meach hotel before walking a short distance to the Playhouse to see rubber-faced Hans Conreid in "Not in the Book." Sarina and Bill Rudy were dinner guests of his boss and wife at Greenacres country club in Northbrook Wednesday evening.

When it comes to camping, the Dean Shumates, 717 N. Salem, feel they have lots of experience after a 3-week vacation trip to California. They took the southern route out and northern route back and visited about every stop of interest along the way.

JANET AND Dave Bone, 704 N. Salem, are expecting guests Saturday, but not just ordinary guests, These will include the Secretary General of the Chamber of Commerce of Madrid, Spain, and at least four others, all from important cities in Spain. Janet will pick them up Saturday, and she and Dave plan to invite several of their friends into meet them. Friends of Janet and Dave, Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Stein, share their enthusiasm fr the guests from Spain and plan to have them and the Bones for dinner Saturday evening. There will be at least one interpreter in the group to keep the conversation running smoothly. Mr. Stein is a young leading Chicago attorney and the conversation just might lead to his favorite subject, law. On the eve of Janet's guests arriving, she plans to have a party, along with Mrs. Robert Stein of Mt. Prospect, for the preschool music play group they conduct.

Another project which Janet has undertaken has already brought much enthusiasm to several people here and the end result will bring unmeasured happiness to a little Egyptian boy who will fly on a United Airlines plane to O'Hare field July 29 from Egypt. The 4-year-old has a serious heart operation awaiting him in Chicago, and it is Janet's plan to have a gift wrapping party toward the end of the month so that he will have a present a day to open while he is recuperating. The presents needn't be large and expensive and anyone interested in sending him one may get in touch with Janet at CL 3-0290 before July 25.

JIMMY MACHAS was literally speechless Saturday during his birthday party. His dad bought him a 2-wheeler. Jimmy was 6 Saturday and the following friends came to the party: Jeffrey Kunen, John Kevin Walsh, Andrea and Jimmy Polites, Gregory Andrews, Pamela and Randy Munson, Andrew and Eleni Ladas. He is the son of the Stafford J. Machases, 1019 N. Salem.

A transfer from Medford, Mass., brought Mr. and Mrs. William Cokash and children to 906 N. Illinois. He is with Lumberman's Mutual Insurance company. Three children are in their family, Karen, 5, who will be in kindergarten at Ridge school this fall; Christine, 4, and Kenneth, 2. They have already found out what a friendly town we have and are beginning to feel quite at home.

Jean Callahan was 12 June 29 but she didn't celebrate the occasion until July 2. Nancy Clark, Nancy and Francy Palmatier, Kathy Lee, Patty Ewalt, and Bonnie Helfers came for games, swimming and a wienie roast. Jean and her family, the George Callahans, live at 1014 N. Ridge.

SUNDAY the Robert Chaplins, 815 N. Fernandez, had their infant daughter, Nancy Eileen, christened at St. James church, with Father Lane officiating. Don and Helen Keenan were Nancy's godparents. Afterward the Chaplins entertained friends and relatives at a party honoring Nancy.

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Bill Colgrove, 811 N. Fernandez, wish her a speedy recovery now that she is home from the hospital.

Summer time is company time for the William Griffins, 1521 Oakton. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Weber, spent a week with them two weeks ago before returning to their home in Omaha. Right on the heels of their visit, his father, Col. John Griffin, paid them a visit. Col. Griffin had been hospitalized at Wright-Patterson Air Force base, near Dayton, Ohio, and stopped here to see his son and his family before returning to duty.

It's a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kubik, 914 N. Kennicott, their second. Laura Diane is the name they chose for their fourth child who was born June 30 in Walther Memorial hospital, Chicago, and weighed 8 pounds 4 onuces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Kubik of Chicago and the Martin Glandorfs of Williamsburg, Iowa. Laura will be christened Sunday at Zion Lutheran church in Chicago and her sponsors will be Mr. and Mrs. Ted Smith of Elmhurst. Her brothers, David and Mark, and her sister, Taryn, will arrive Sunday with their grandparents for the christening. The children have spent a month on the farm with the Glandorfs and have had such a good time that it would take a new baby sister to bring them back home.

THIS SUMMER, when the Bruno Waaras, 480 N. Ridge, went to Manistique, Mich. to visit her mother, they were there during the centennial. The men of the town had grown beards and the women dressed in long dresses to celebrate Manistique's 100th birthday, which also came during the Fourth of July weekend. The Waares also enjoyed swimming, fishing and golf while there.

Marge and John Raitt, 928 N. Fernandez, were at the Grant park concert last Friday and Saturday evenings, she in the audience and he playing first bassoon with the Grant Park Symphony orchestra. Friday night three piano soloists vied for the Michaels award, and the judges were unanimous in their decision to nominate Miss Marilyn Neeley for her rendition of the fisrt movement of Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto No. 1. Marge found Friday night's program enjoyable, but Saturday's was even more so. Robert Merrill was the soloist and even though the rain came down in spurts, up went the umbrellas, and neither Mr. Merrill nor the audience were much disturbed by it.

The Lions convention in Chicago started some plans for the William Luxions, 821 N. Princeton, that began when they met his sister and her family, the Clifford Marshes of Bangor, Pa., at Corey Lake in Michigan for the Fourth of July weekend. They brought them back here for a visit, and since Mr. Marsh is a Lion they all spent two days in Chicago at the convention. The adults went to the Tenthouse theater in Highland Park Monday evening to see Imogene Coca in "The Four Poster."

Mrs. J. Edward Wilmotte, 729 N. Fernandez, is trying to speed up her recovery from surgery in Elmhurst Hospital June 23. She will be attending her daughter, Valerie's wedding Saturday. The whole family is happy to have her back home, especially in time for the wedding.

A TRIP TO Fairmont, Minn., over the Fourth of July weekend turned out to be a family reunion for the Werner Beckers, 1004 N. Ridge. Her oldest sister came form Grand Fork, N.D., and brought their mother been visiting there. All the relatives gathered at her brother's home, the Richard Kahlers, to celebrate the holiday. The Beckers returned home last Tuesday.

From Sherwood

Everyone at the George Thiemans, 1122 N. Patton, has had his own vacation this summer. All the boys went in different directions, Greg with Steve Zeisler to YMCA Camp Kroehler near Hayward, Wis., for three weeks, and word comes back that Greg has already passed the swimming test required to go water skiing. Doug Thieman has been up at Camp Hastins near Lake Villa for two weeks and came home Saturday full of enthusiasm. Scotty had his first plane ride, a jet, when he visited his grandparents in Aurora, Ind., where he went swimming every day in the nearby pool. While they were gone Ruth played golf three times, went to the International Trade Fair and took in a day at the races.

Each year, when the Arlington race track opens, the Carl Palmers, 1023 W. Burgoyne, entertain 16 of the men who work for him, as well as their wives, and Saturday was their day. The Palmers entertained them for lunch before the whole crowd took off for the races. Afterward they all came back to the Palmers for an outdoor barbecue.

The James Pooles, 1106 N. Princeton, are back from a 3-week vacation to Mexico. On the way down they made stops in Muskogee, Okla., and Dallas to see relatives and they also visited Jim's old homestead in Edinburg, Texas, in the heart of the Rio Grande valley. From there they headed for Mexico and Monterey, taking tours and sidetrips into the the mountains. They were delighted with Padre Island and spent several days there before returning to the states. Some interesting pieces of furniture are on their way up here from Mexico, and the Pooles are quite excited about them. They are quite different from what we have here and should look nice on their patio. They also picked up a goatskin rug as a reminder of a lovely trip to Mexico. (A

Anthony Stavros Service Is Held

Funeral services were held Saturday, July 9, in St. Demetrios church, Chicago, for Anthony Stavros, of 3115 N. Buffalo Grove rd., Arlington Heights, who died Wednesday, July 6, in Alexian Brothers hospital, Chicago.

Interment was in the Elmwood cemetery, Chicago, with Rev. Evagoras Constantinides officiating.

Mr. Stavros, a resident of Wheeling township for many years, was born in Greece in 1888. His death was attributed to a stroke. He had been recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident in early June.

MR. STAVROS was united in marriage with the former Helen Triantafilopoulos in Chicago in 1914. He was self-employed, having operated both a farm and the Stavros Farm Equipment company, Wheeling.

St. Peter Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, has scheduled the second confirmation class Reunion service for next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

In observance of its centennial year, the confirmation classes of 1930 thru 1949 will be honored.

More than 800 invitations have been mailed to those who were received into communicand membership at St. Peter Lutheran church between the years 1930 and 1949. The Rev. Harry C. Fricke, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church from 1927 to 1946, will be guest speaker.

During his pastorate approximately 90 per cent of those received into communicant membership were instructed and confirmed by him. He now has his pastorate at El Paso, Ill.

Following the reunion service, a fellowship hour is planned in the cafeteria, with refreshments.

The pastor of the congregation, the Rev. Robert O. Bartz, and the congregation's vicar, Douglas Lorig, will serve as liturgist. (A

Ambitious Building Dream Has Collapsed

Brickman Abandons Ela Plan

by DICK HOFFMANN

The grandiose, audacious billion-dollar development Builder Joseph M. Brickman wished to introduce to Ela township has apparently been abandoned; austere "For Sale" signs rearing up along Rand rd. bear testimony to this thought.

The wedding of rural and suburban elements never seemed to come off; as "Father of the Wedding," Brickman did his best to court the landed gentry around Long Grove, Kildeer, Hawthorn Woods and Deer Park.

But they answered his overtures for "peaceful coexistence" with cries that his billion - dollar investment threatened their existence, and that he was trying to create a captive community in order to build corridors through their land. They said he was trying to sacrifice thousands of acres of "beautiful countryside. . .to. . .personal ambition," and incorporated a protective ring of villages to throttle this "ambition."

BRICKMAN'S "Blueprint for the Future," a vast building empire of homes, apartments, schools, golf course, et al, has been filed - it appears - under "D" for dreams.

"It was a magnificent plan," a Lake Zurich resident commented this week, "but it showed an utter disregard for what existed."

Only terse reminder of the giant - size proposal - 18 typical three - bedroom tract development homes just south of Rand rd. east of Cuba rd., representing 80 acres of land - is also up for sale. The families living in the Sturm subdivision rent the homes.

The Brickman farm - where the builder held two rodeos (proceeds were donated to the Clinton Corners school to anticipate an influx estimated to reach 60,000 to 80,000 persons) has been sold, reportedly to Arthur T. McIntosh, developer of Inverness in Palatine township.

The farm, whose barns flank both sides of Long Grove rd. on a rise between Rand rd and Illinois 53, includes a swimming pool and a number of now vacant barns. This is where Brickman used to wow the gentlemen farmers at barbecues with chuck wagons which groaned under their burden and five bartenders stationed at an outdoor bar. Here, he hoped to unfurl his "Blueprint for the Future."

THAT THE blueprint has probably been shelved is due to the "For Sale" signs which bear the name of Moehling Realty company, the firm which helped acquire many of the holdings on which Brickman Home Building, Inc., hoped to build:

- 16,000 homes, 6,000 apartments, one high school, four junior highs, 29 grade schools, fire and police station, library a 21 - store shopping center and five neighborhood - sized shopping centers, 10 per cent of a proposed development of 6,222 acres for light industry, 10 churches, and a multi-million dollar utility company.

A Brickman employe this week refused to comment on the property in question, referring all queries to Brickman himself, who is reported to be ill. He did, however, make a passing reference to "time heals wounds."

Brickman's dream hinged on rezoning of 554 acres of land he held from farmland to residential and business as a first step, the petitioners said, to development of 2,000 acres he owns or has under option in Ela township.

"Brickman laid out the subdivision so as to surround the gentlemen farmers and make it so miserable for them that he could buy cheap," commented the same Lake Zurich woman who had followed the matter from the time the builder began purchasing land in 1957 until the Circuit Court of Lake county turned thumbs down on Brickman's request for a declaratory judgment to force the rezoning in November 1959.

"The golf course he had planned was on the estate of a woman who had no intention of selling," she claimed.

FOLLOWING what has become the almost classic pattern, the Lake county zoning board of appeals - perhaps reflecting the strident vocal opposition which had swelled up - recommended to the county board of supervisors that the zoning petitions be denied. The 35 supervisors, including Mrs. Charles Froelich, supervisor from Ela township who had given direction to public opinion aroused against the project, voted as one against rezoning.

Brickman sought relief in the courts through the familiar device of the declaratory judgment. Circuit Court Judge Bernard Decker termed the plaintiff's attack on the ordinance "a scatter - gun approach generally applied in zoning cases," i.e., the ordinance (requiring one-acre lots; Brickman wanted quarter-acre lots) was "arbitrary, discriminatory, unreasonable and confiscatory."

Litigation also sprang up on two other fronts when Deer Park, Hawthorn Woods, and Kildeer tightened their defenses with protective incorporations to girdle Brickman's property holdings. A suit challenging the Kildeer incorporation procedure wound through the judicial maze to the State Supreme court.

A SIMILAR challenge as to whether Hawthorn Woods had a legal right to exist as a village also found its way to this august body of jurists.

"The villages were set to hold elections to "re-incorporate' if the Supreme court decision went against them," said one observer. "In fact, they twice published election notices, but then the court decision went in their favor."

Thwarted in his plans to incorporate a village because of the requirement that approval of villages within a mile must be secured, the Brickman forces moved toward city incorporation.

It prompted the late Guy Reed, Long Grove village president who had helped to crystalize opposition, to charge that Brickman, saddled in his attempt to form a village by the proximity of other villages, "is now housing hundreds of transients in barns, sheds and other outbuildings in an attempt to gain the 1,000 population necessary to incorporate as a city."

MRS. FRANK Calkins, who rents one of the Sturm development homes said: "There's no one out here now who works for him (Brickman)," although she understands there was at one time.

In Judge Decker's opinion on the case, he ruled on one portion of the plaintiff's claim that the one - acre zoning ordinance requirement represented an uneconomic use of the land, that this argument "boils down to the bald proposition that the residential use of the land with smaller lots would find more customers and create a greater demand than presently exists for the larger lot sizes in the same area.

"In presenting his evidence, plaintiff recognized that he was required to show more than the mere fact that his properties would become more valuable if they were zoned with a different zoning classification."

If the defensive incorporation moves of surrounding villages could be called the step-children born of the Brickman blueprint, then so could the newly formed Ela area planning board, represented by five villages in Ela township.

Although such speculation is, according to the board's chairman, John Quay, a Barrington architect who lives in Kildeer, like asking: "Would America have been discovered if Columbus hadn't found it?"

IT WAS ALMOST a historic clash, this collision between the advocates of gracious country living and the school calling for suburban tract developments. Even the pledges of Brickman, which were almost generous to a fault ($500 offered for each house sold for schools, with schools and the land they were to sit on donated free of cost), could not sway the corps of countryside subscribers.

The barns which used to echo the yells of rodeo rides are mute; the 18-room home subdivision, advance guard in the march of 16,000 houses, looks like a retarded cousin to its country neighbors. Only the "For Sale" signs remain now to remind folks of the "Blueprint for the Future."

EIGHTEEN homes built off Rand rd. near Cuba rd. in Ela township was as far as Builder Joseph M. Brickman got with plans for a billion-dollar development. With failure to secure zoning he wanted, Strum development and some of the other properties he holds in the township are now up for sale. (B8 FARM where Brickman staged two rodeos has also been sold. Bleachers have been torn down, but a number of vacant barns remain at site on Long Grove rd. about a mile from Rand rd. (B8

Wins Travel Scholarship

World Tour Leaves Impact On Mount Prospect Student

by NATALIE McKENZIE

(First of a Series)

Marie Martin is home now — full of gothic cathedrals, byzantine mosques, interviews with famous men, sights of scenic vistas, mountains, desert, official receptions, the most poverty ridden slums of humanity.

Marie Martin is home now — about to be college girl, U.S.A., with a travel appetite that has been whetted by a whirlwind nine-months around the world. She comes home, little changed according to her family, the Richard Martin's, 506 S. Elmhurst, Mt. Prospect. Inwardly, though, Marie Martin has grown, absorbing a smattering of the world's great literature, history, and politics, on the spot where it was made.

Let us follow her as she reads the Greek tragedies in the shadow of the Acropolis, takes exams on humanities, a stone's throw from the pyramids, follows the Italian renaissance across Florentine bridge, through Venetian palace, Roman cathedral.

MARIE'S adventure in international living began last September, when she joined 21 outstanding high school seniors — about to be — and six adults in Boston. Winner of a $5,000 scholarship presented by the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools, sponsor of the tour, Marie packed her allotted 44 pounds of luggage and about 30 pounds of school books for her senior year in high school. However, the classrooms of Arlington were replaced by the Italian pension, the Japanese school, the Chinese home, the Roman YMCA.

Marie and the 27 were many when they began. They became welded into one during their nine-month trail around the world. From Boston the group went to Washington, D. C. From there, they flew to San Francisco, Hawaii, then into foreign territory. Tokyo was stop one.

Her memories of Japan are of beautiful schools, a warm Japanese family where she made her home, baths in boiling water in a big wooden tub, sleeping on short roll-out mats traditional in Japan.

"Boys especially had trouble with those mats," she remembered. "You know the Japanese are usually very short people. Thus their mat-beds are short — woefully so for a six footer."

BATHS were wonderful. "First the scrub outside the tub. Then I would gingerly work my way into the boiling water and relax."

Other memories of the Japanese include the way they love to have their pictures taken. They even brought the servants in for Marie's camera to capture for posterity.

Remembering Japan also brought forth a comment most Americans can make immediately upon leaving the English-speaking world. "An amazing amount of English is spoken everywhere," Marie said. "It puts us to shame."

After a few weeks in the Islands of Japan, the group moved on, to the island, Hong Kong. This is where Marie started keeping her diary, a ledger that was to almost fill three books. This is where Marie fell in love with the Chinese. This is where Marie had her English flannel jacket made — a lovely toast colored, soft wool, tailored exquisitely.

OF HONG KONG, "It's a wonderful city," she said in her open, friendly, natural way. Smiles crossed her eyes and lips, as she silently remembered some incident, a special friend, a spot of beauty.

In Thailand Marie lived with an American diplomatic family. Most rewarding part of this experience was seeing first hand how the career diplomats actually live abroad. Do they disprove or substantiate the view familiar to many after the Burdick-Lederer picture in "The Ugly American"? (Incidentally, the author team was interviewed by the students during their stay in Hawaii).

Marie learned that Americans are as self-contained as possible. "They want to find nice quarters. This is difficult. They can't use electrical appliances, so they hire help. Labor is inexpensive. They want to talk and socialize with persons of their own caliber. This is also difficult. So they stick with each other," was Marie's explanation of the way some Americans live abroad. In Thailand it was a true colony.

HER FAMILY had rented a home from a Thai gentleman who spends much time in the States. Differences in our ways of life she pointed up with the screen story. The Thai's are used to letting bugs come and go through their homes. Means of protection were in the house Marie's family found. But the Thai gentleman considered the bugs just a part of life. He left the house open, the insects had free access. Americans had the house tightly closed.

Cambodia was notable for an early morning rising—5:30 — to watch the dawn over the hills. Notable for fascinating, mystical torchlight processions that natives have been carrying on for centuries.

Of India, poverty, people, dirt, poverty. These are what Marie remembers. "Never have I talked with a man who answered so many questions without answering them as Nehru," she said.

Calcutta is jammed with persons and animals that live in the streets. The American students watched them bathe in public pumping places. They noticed the enormous numbers of dogs.

"I've heard it said the Indians maim their children to be beggers," Marie said. "I don't know whether this is true, but we saw an awful lot of maimed people, with arms and legs twisted and misshapen."

From poverty in Calcutta, the youths went on to find more poverty in Bangok. There the dirt piles outside the Red Fort are the people's homes. We saw hundreds of little children with women about to have more, Marie recalled. The people are born, live, and die in that dirt field. There is no place for them to go; no way for them to get there if they could move on.

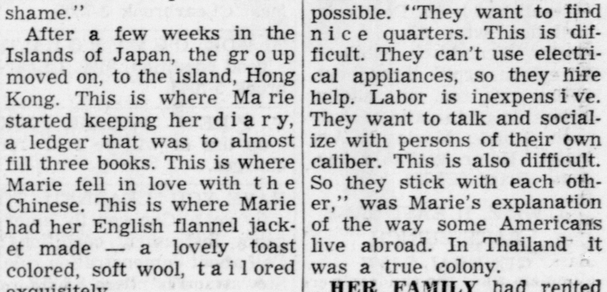
THERE ARE 200,000 people in India who make less than 10 cents a day. With eight mouths in a family to feed, this is less than nothing. — hence, poverty, disease, squalor.

Thus, the eyes of the group were forced open. They saw for themselves the raw materials of which national revolutions and international disputes are made. They talked with newspapermen, humanitarians and heads of state. Let us follow them as they go to Egypt and see nationalism at its peak; to Istanbul, the crossroads between East and West; to Europe where they greet spring.

(Next: Egypt, nationalism, semester exams). (B8



AN AVID COFFEE drinker, Marie Martin is poised with cup in hand to admire her simply but elegantly tailored jacket made to order in Hong Kong. Other remembrances of her trip around the world this year are dolls, some jewelry, leather goods, gloves, and of all things — a camel saddle! (B8

Golf Ball Collector

Unique Pastime Keeps Palatine Man Hunting

by JACK MARTIN

Capitalizing on the "one man's loss is another man's gain" axiom, a Palatine man has come up with a unique hobby.

George Richter, 58, of 464 N. Benton, Palatine, collects golf balls, and he hasn't spent a cent on his hobby since he began the diversion over a year ago.

Richter's proximity to the Palatine nine hole golf course at the junction of Northwest hwy. and Rt. 53 affords him all the golf balls he needs. He has worn his own paths through a wilderness which stretches along the curve in Northwest highway and which attracts the errant shots of golfers playing the short number five hole across the road.

But Richter isn't interested in just any golf ball which may have blasted into the weed-grown field. He keeps only one of each type, and in case there are any misconceptions about the variety in golf balls, Richter can produce 197 different balls, and his collection is still growing.

ALTHOUGH HE has yet to make a complete inventory, the amiable Master of Palatine's Masonic Lodge has the balls classified according to sporting goods companies, professionals' autographs, and numbers.

He also finds balls which bear the names of companies, such as Quaker Oats, International Harvester, and a Palatine firm, Sellstrom Safeguards. Golfers who have their own names on their golf balls evidently hit stray shots also.

"I've tried to lok up some of these names in the phone book but seldom have any luck," Richter says. The collector is especially proud of his full set of "Sammy Snead" and "Cary Middlecoff" balls, all of which, like the others in his collection, are in excellent shape.

MOST OF THE balls, which are stored in egg cartons, look as if they had never been hit.

"The amazing thing about it all," Richter points out, "is that it takes a terrific hook (for the non-golfers, a hook is an improperly hit shot which violently takes off to the golfer's left, usually ending up out of bounds, accompanied by some choice words) to end up in this field. It would be more understandable if I were on the slice side." (Slice—opposite of hook—same results—although great variety in choice words.)

Although the combination of Richter's unusual hobby and his good-natured personality makes him a constant target for ribbing from his friends and family, many others take golf ball searching more seriously than he does.

"One friend, a realtor who drives a Cadillac, will pull up in front of the house and he and I will head for the 'pearl field,' as we call the vacant lot," Richter smiles. "Everyone likes to find golf balls."

NEIGHBORHOOD BOYS often join in the search, trading Richter one "collector's item" for six duplicates.

The balls often bear foreign manufacturers' seals, and one, a Scottish make, is smaller than the standard American ball. Some are colored, and others are quite old. "The old ones are much simpler in design, the modern trend seeming to be to add a lot more writing to the golf ball," the collector informs.

One group of balls in the collection bears names of country clubs as far away as Florida and California.

"And here's my prize," Richter beamed as he proudly got out a ball individually wrapped in a plastic bag.

"Surely you didn't find this one in Palatine," the reporter gasped, viewing a golf ball which bore an American flag, an eagle, and the signature of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

THE RICHTER smile broadened as he explained. When he retired as personnel manager for Illinois Bell two weeks ago, fellow workers gave him a party in the office. His desk was decorated to resemble a nine hole golf course, and he was presented wth the Eisenhower golf ball, which a couple of enterprising office workers had produced via paint brush and black ink.

"Even I have been caught up in this hobby," Mrs. Richter admits. "My sister and I were driving to Pal-Waukee airport to pick up George when I spotted something along the road. 'Stop!' I yelled. I got out of the car and picked up two new golf balls for the collection."

Richter, who began the hobby as half-hour breaks from paper work connected with his job, also enjoys flying. "My son and I will be flying over some golf course and I will yell out "Hey, look down there."

"That's no golf ball," his son admonishes. "That's the top of some tower."

Richter plays golf himself, but friends who see him from their cars think he is a pretty poor golfer. He's always over in the rough looking for golf balls. (AF

Scout Study Tells Facts Of Boy's 'Summit Years'

The needs, concerns, activities, interests, and organizational memberships of 11 to 13-year-old boys are revealed in a preliminary report received by the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America, from the national office of the organization. Frank B. Newton, scout executive of the local council, this week discussed the findings.

The study was recently completed for the Boy Scouts of America by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. The findings are based upon individual interviews conducted by trained adult interviewers with 1,435 (11-13 year old boys) selected from all over the United States by probability sampling methods.

THE Boy Scouts of America sought to learn all it could through this process. This is a companion study to one conducted for them by the same research organization five years ago dealing with 14, 15, and 16 year old boys.

These are in a sense the "summit years" of being a boy. They are generally full of activity and fun and come just before the tensions and complexities of adolescence.

Some of the study's findings?

Forty-one per cent do not belond to any organized club or group such as the Boy Scouts, YMCA, church or school clubs.

Fifty-six per cent do not belong to any kind of organized athletic team or program.

THOSE living in big cities and rural areas are least likely to belong to club groups. Those who live in small cities are those most likely to belong to club groups.

Among the boys interviewed, 25 per cent are Boy Scouts.

Forty-four per cent belong to national activity clubs including the Boy Scouts.

Eighteen per cent belong to school clubs, 18 per cent to church clubs, and four per cent to other clubs.

Activities for their own sake and experimentation with new activities are clearly strong needs for this age.

Out of 38 typical activities listed, less than 50 per cent of the boys have experienced only 11 of the activities.

AMONG ALL who participated, the level of expressed enjoyment is exceedingly high. Only gardening drops below 80 per cent and that to only 70 per cent.

Even for those activities actually experienced by very few 11-13 year olds, such as water skiing (nine per cent), sailing (12 per cent), and skin diving (13 per cent), the proportion who have participated and liked the activity plus those who think they would like it (if they had a chance) brings water skiing to 64 per cent, sailing to 71 per cent, and skin diving to 65 per cent.

Sixty-five per cent are concerned or worry about achievement, about "passing" or making the grade. This is true despite the fact that 66 per cent of them spend less than one hour per day on homework.

In contrast, 90 per cent of them spend one hour or more per day watching television and 41 per cent confess to three or more hours at the TV set.

Fifty-four per cent have some ways of earning some money — not allowance — in or outside the family, but for 70 per cent of these, this requires six or less hours per week.

AS THEY dream about their future adult occupations, one sees more clearly the extent of unreality in their expectations.

Sixty-three per cent plan (now) to be professional men, with engineers, doctors, and scientists leading the parade; 12 per cent to be professional athletes and players; five per cent plan to be business men.

They are deeply dependent upon their families.

When they grow up, 53 per cent desire to be like some relative or member of their immediate family.

Thirty-four per cent pick their own father as the image; 12 per cent pick sports, TV, or movie stars, and nine per cent pick popular heroes.

St. Viator High Names Principal

The Rev. Francis E. Williams, C.S.V., pastor of St. Patrick Church, Kankakee, has been named Principal of the new St Viator High School being constructed by the Clerics of St. Viator at Arlington Heights.

Born in Champaign Nov. 29, 1915, Fr. Williams attended St. Viator Academy and College in Bourbonnais, receiving his bachelor's degree there in 1937. He did graduate work in science at De Paul, and at the University of Illinois from which he received the degree of Master of Arts in Education in 1947. His seminary training was at Kenrick, with ordination in 1941.

He has had wide experience in teaching in Viatorian High Schools, having been assigned to Cathedral Boys High School, Springfield, Archbishop Stepinac High School, White Plains, New York, Gorman High School, Las Vegas, Nevada, Spalding Institute, Peoria, and was also for a time on the staff of St. Philip High School, Chicago.

HE COMES TO St. Viator High School with unusual experience in setting up High School faculties: he organized the Viatorian faculties at both Las Vegas and White Plains, and was the first Superior of the religious in both institutions. He has also been active in parish work, at St. Patrick Church, Eau Claire, Wisconsin, and has been pastor of St. Patrick's, Kankakee, since April, 1959.

Father Williams has been a member of the Building Committee for St. Viator High School since last fall, under the chairmanship of Fr. Charles R. Williams, C.S.V. He will continue to advise on the construction of the building, assisted by Fr. Paul Jasinski, C.S.V., formerly of St. Philip Basilica High School, newly appointed Supervisor of Building and Grounds at the new High School. Father Williams will also be responsible for the drawing up of the curriculum of the School, the selection of the staff, and the setting up of the administration.

Work is now progressing on St. Viator High School, at Dryden and Oakton in Arlington Heights. The school, to accommodate 1600 boys, is scheduled for completion for the fall of 1961. (B8

Student Is Honored By Scholarship

Wayne Meyer, an Arlington high school senior, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer, 1322 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, were honored at a formal dinner June 26 by George C. Douglas, general agent, and Henry J. Hasz, district representative of the Aid association for Lutherans.

At this occasion the Rev. Robert C. Bartz, pastor of the St. Peter Lutheran church, presented to Wayne the A.A.L. Schlarship to Valparaiso university.

Wayne Meyer is one of the five winners of this $2,800 Valpo Schlarship. The winners are chosen from among more than 250 applicants throughout the nation.

He will enter Valparaiso in September, probably majoring in the physical sciences.

News Of Kildeer Countryside

Long Grove Anxiously Waits Impending Road Repair Plan

Village road commissioner, William Salzman, reported at the July 7 Long Grove board meeting that public notices asking for bids on road repair would be in the newspapers July 14 and 21. Consequently, trustees will hold a special evening meeting in Kildeer school July 25 in order to make a decision on the bids.

The awarded contract will set in motion Long Grove's road repair program, as set up by engineers Baxter and Woodman of Crystal Lake, whose services trustees agreed to engage when they met last March. Costs will be paid with state motor fuel tax money. To keep work moving while Long Grove waits for its share, trustees at the June meeting allocated an emergency road fund to keep up with expenses.

PRESENT AT THE July 7 meeting was Mardan Woods road chairman, James Korbelik, who attended with his committee, Clifford Marx and Robert Reed. The committee's presence was the result of a decision Mardan Woods association members made at their June 22 meeting "to cooperate financially" with the village on road surfacing and ditching in their area. Notice was made of the state's approval of east and west Mardan drives being termed as "arterial streets."

Trustees agreed that the one free gas light available to Long Grove from the Northern Illinois Gas company will be installed at the fire station and that the two, to be provided at cost, will be offered to Kildeer school.

There was discussion on how the proposed re-routing of rt. 53 might affect Long Grove. Notice was given that Harold Wilder, chairman of the village plan commission, will call a meeting at Kildeer school July 26 at 9:30 a.m. for discussion of the problem which the relocation presents to this area. Present will be county and state highway officials. Representing the village will be trustee Mrs. Henry Herrick.

JULY 15 promises to be an important date for many from here who have signed up as members of the new Brae-Burn country club, being started on an 80-acre tract on rt. 83, a quarter mile south of U.S. 45. The date will mark the official opening of the club, which proprietor Phil Simpson has decorously embellished with a Scotch plaid emblem at the gate.

Local families, among the 135 already enjoying their memberships are the Roy Andersons, the John Walgrens, the Joe Youngs, the Milton Wingquists, the Harold Wilders, the Heinz Loefflers, the Floyd Gustafsons and the Robert Coffins. Architect, Robert Coffin, has designed plans for the club house. First local worker to be hired there is Stephen LaBue. The area will include one 18-hole and one 9-hole course, with a tennis court and swimming pool among soon-to-be-added features. Home sites will adjoin the golf grounds, both course and home sites comprising a total of 166 acres.

KILDEER SCHOOL classmates and other friends of Paul Koller are asked to take regular intervals from their play-times this summer to remember him during his coming 5-week stay in the hospital. After recently undergoing two weeks of tests at the hospital, Paul's happy experience was to spend a few days in the home of his class buddy, Larry Jacobs.

The Jacobs family hopes that his stay with them will provide him with glad memories in the days ahead when he convalesces after a heart operation. Others, too, can help by sending him a card at Children's Hospital, 700 S. Wood st., Chicago, Ward 56. Paul's parents, formerly of Aptakisic rd., now live 300 miles away, at Xenia, Ill.

THOUGHTS OF Mrs. Otto Knauth's major surgery June 8 are far behind her as she and the rest of the Knauths looks forward to son Karl's wedding in early August. The bride-to-be is Miss Joyce Johnson of Watseka, a graduate nurse, who finished her training at Northwestern, having been "pinned" June 13. From July 15-29 Karl will serve a period with the Marine reserve at Yuma, Ariz. Following the wedding, the couple will operate a farm in Watseka, where the wedding will take place.

Welcome to newlyweds, just out of high school, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moehling, who have moved into the Joseph Brickman house, at one time lived in by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Phelps. They are here temporarily while their new house is being completed. He is from Half Day and she is from Park Forest.

Nan and Rob Rileys' grandparents, the E. B. Rileys of Okmulgee, Okla., have a 1100 acre farm and 200 head of cattle, which made it a fun vacation for Nan and Rob recently. During their stay two Palomino mares each had a colt, keeping the action lively. While there, the Long Grovers also visited nearby with Mrs. Riley's mother, Mrs. George Jones.

LOCAL FACES seen at the Lake Zurich circus July 5 were the Harry Keeleys, Hal Wilders, Hal Gimlin, Barbara Young and the John Kruegers.

Summer isn't only for playing, according to the many who are taking advantage of study courses. Mrs. Robert Hill and Linda are regularly driving to Northwestern; Betsy Coffin is going to New Trier; and among those enrolled at Ela-Vernon are Ralph Opsal, Gail Steckroth, Ginny Van Benschoten, Barry Hill, Jeanie Smith, Kathy LaBue, Tom Torch, Bonnie Weidner, Dave Terrill, Hal Gimlin, Richard Green, Scott Wilder and Richard Keiler.

Bring a box lunch for your family and a blanket to sit on and be a part of a gathering of folksy togetherness July 22. In charge of the activity on the Kildeer school lawn will be Long Grove's 28 teen age actors, the "Goat Barn Kids," who have been meeting weekly in the Riley's converted goat barn to polish their talents, with Mrs. Robert Hill giving a guiding hand.

They're calling the new type venture "A Folk Affiair" and will include numbers by members plus audience participation. A hat will be passed for donations. Folks will open their box dinners about 6:30 p.m. and settle back for the entertainment at 8.

HERE FROM their Copper Canyon ranch in Greystone, Colo., recently were Mrs. Kingsley Karnopp and daughter, Ruth, who dropped in to see Willowbrook neighbors. The one-time Long Grovers, now dude ranchers, were called to Evanston by the death of Mrs. Karnopp's aunt, Miss Marion Carpenter.

"I received so many cards from my Long Grove friends that it surprised me," commented Mrs. Ed Wickersheim of Dundee, during her hospital stay in Sherman, from which she returned recently. Proof, once again, that Long Grovers read their papers and respond where they can do a bit of good.

When the Joe Keislers' relatives, the Reuben Sankens and son, Spencer, of Hutchinson, Minn. rang the Keislers' door bell one day last week and no one answered, they went on to spend the day and night with other cousins, the George Umbdenstocks. Coming back to the Keislers later, they remained as their houseguests.

"TONS OF little fish but nothing big," was the way the Charles Bucks described their catch during a week's stay in Walloon Lake, 15 miles from Charlevoix, Mich. They ferried to Ludington, boarding the steamer at Milwaukee.

"I brought back my great grandmother's 5-legged walnut extension table," joyously remarked Mrs. Harold Evans, in commenting on the 4-day visit the Evanses and Steven made to Ida Grove, Iowa. They visited with her mother, Mrs. Emma Fornay, and drove to Sac City to see her sister and husband, the Walter Wellendorfs.

The 40th wedding anniversary of the Henry Bockelmans of Barrington was reason for the open house July 3 which was attended by relatives, the Elden Gadkes and the Ed Lauffenburgers and son, Carl. The Lauffenburgers were also guests at a dinner held earlier that day for close relatives.

Among Willowbrook activity was the French luncheon and swimming party the William Mells gave for 10 friends and the Sunday dinner party at the Robert Coffins. This week the Eric Mells are away on a business trip to Atlantic City.

The Agate Martins are expecting Mrs. Martin's sister and family from Baltimore to arrive some day this week.

SYMBOLIC OF America's "melting pot" is the name of Mrs. Harry Paine's French teacher, Mrs. Jacque Jones, who accompanied her home for a holiday from Northern Illinois university, where Mrs. Paine is taking special courses.

The Tony Bergs took a breather from their business in getting Mr. Berg's mother settled in her new house in Homewood and visited last Sunday with the Elden Gadkes. Welcome to Mrs. Berg's mother, Mrs. H. V. Mailland, here from Des Moines. Also guests at the Gadkes were the Orville Helds.

Mrs. William Park's college mates and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. John Ambrosius and the Walt Stoffels of Manchester, Mo., were house guests in the Park home last week.

Highlight of the week for Mrs. Park was to win 25 gallons of gas from Wilbert Luerrsen's service station in Lake Zurich. Hers was the lucky raffle ticket at the annual Lions club dinner, which the Parks attended at Waukegan's Charcoal House as guests of the David Goldbogens of Lake Zurich.

Added social event for the Parks was the recent 50th wedding anniversary celebration they attended at the Woman's Club, Wilmette, given in honor of lifelong family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parsons.

FRIENDS ARE meeting Charles Johnson's parents, the J. D. Johnson of Claremont, Cal., who will be here until July 19. Randy Johnson has been busy hosting college friends from Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., where he's been pursuing a course in nuclear physics.

Latest meeting place of the advanced art group was Mrs. John Rackow's home, Rainbow rd., Barrington. For their next session the group has been invited to Mrs. Millard Eiseman's home.

The Andrew Sims' 9-month-old grandson, Peter Hinrichs, was the object of many an exclamatory remark at the Fourth of July steak fry they held for the 18 relatives who gathered at their home. Peter's parents, Rev. and Eimo Hinrichs, who have as their pastorate the American Lutheran church in St. Donatus, Iowa, were here for the occasion.

Mrs. Hinrichs is the Sims' daughter. Excuse for getting the relatives together was Andy Sim Jr's 21st birthday, welcome relaxation from the calculus classes that have been furrowing his brow at Lake Forest college.

FOUR EGGS have been laid by "Yrtle," the snapping turtle that is being penned temporarily in the John Walgren yard. Discovered by Jimmy Walgren, Billy Buck and Jack Briggs, she will be taken this week to her permanent home in Hawthorn Mellody zoo.

"The doctor has informed us that any day now you will become the grandparents of twins," came the words over the wire that woke the Everett Wigginses up last week one morning at 4 a.m. It was son, Donald and his wife, calling from Hawaii, where he's been stationed the past nine years. The new additions will bring the grandchildren total up to 22.

Fourth of July goings-on for the Martin Wulffs consisted of a barbecue picnic they attended at the home of her parents, the Arthur Malms of Half Day. Occasion was a birthday celebration of a friend, Lois Schuman.

Sharing Fourth of July barbecue fun on the Henry Herrick lawn were out of towners, the William Painters and family, Mrs. B. L. Painter of Evanston, the Richard Vernons and Mrs. Elsie Clemetson of River Forest.

For the Burt Schells the holiday meant a 250 mile trip to Jacksonville, Ill., to visit Mrs. Schell's mother, Mrs. John M. Butler, and other relatives.

THE JACK SCHAUMS also took to the road, making a 350 mile trip to the Wisconsin Rhinelander region. There in the area of Wisconsin Highlands they relaxed while pulling in pan fish from Crystal Lake, nestled in hundreds of birch trees. With them was Mrs. Schaums' mother, Mrs. Mary Crause of Sparta, N. C., who flew here enroute from Wash., D. C., where she's been visiting relatives.

The weather was made for swimming last Friday at Jimmy Anderson's class party for next year's eighth graders. The fun was from 5 to 8 p.m., with lively antics taking place at the Leighton Wilkie pool. Later a picnic followed at the William T. Anderson home.

Luring Fred French and Lynn away from home last Saturday was the Antique Auto show.

Afternoon guest in the Charles Herschberger home last Friday was Mrs. Bertha Ritzenthaler.

"Most important part of my vacation in Wash., D. C., was visiting the place where the Civil Was battles of Manassas were fought," Rushton Williamson commented, "and I learned how Andrew Jackson came by the name of "Stonewall." Rushton and Earnest, with their mother, visited with grandparents, the L. E. Woods.

WHERE WILL antique hunters be going on the afternoon of July 23? Down Port Clinton rd., of course, to what was Gridley school in the pre-consolidation period. Now used as the American Legion hall, the building will be the scene of an antique auction. Among items offered will be those from the "Old Inn" at Half Day. The "Old Inn," built in 1844, is a well known landmark in northern Illinois at the corner of rts. 21 and 22. Now the home of Mrs. Myron Moore and Mrs. W. A. Nordstrom, its items will include remnants of stock from the days when the "Old Inn" served as a general store in the years before 1900.

ITEMS WILL include cast iron, copper, pewter, brass and tin, furniture, which includes the "grandmother of all primitive kitchen dry sinks," handmade quilts, wooded kitchen tools, antique cookie cutters and glassware.

Birthday wishes to Tommy Turner, July 16; and to Pamela French and Virginia Anstrand, July 16.

"IF YOU buy your bird seed from the fifth and sixth grade church school class you'll be helping a nursery school in Hong Kong," say the members, who, in addition to sunflower seeds, are looking forward to a big crop of corn, squash, tomatoes, watermelons and pumpkins. After worship each Sunday they tend their plots, across from the church, as parents take turns in giving a helping hand. In charge of last Sunday's work and worship period were the Tony Bergs. Lined up as helpers in the future are the Glenn Millers and the David Hultquists. (CP

Form New Choral Club In Area

The first meeting of a newly-formed choral group was held June 24 in the home of Mrs. Ellen Janda, 1402 Lynnwood, Arlington Heights. Officers elected at that time were Rose Pfeiffer, business agent; Bob Dulski, treasurer; Gloria Kalous, publicity; Ellen Janda, librarian.

Director will be Anthony Citrona of Lake Zurich, who has directed symphonic and operatic productions in New York. Citrona is also a vocal teacher, organist and pianist.

PLANS FOR the group include a variety in music from musicals to the classics with orchestrational background.

Next meeting of the chorus will be held August 12, again at the home of Mrs. Janda, at which time a name for the organization will be under discussion. Men singers and women in the second soprano and alto ranges are especially needed. Anyone interested may call FLanders 2-0891 or CLearbrook 3-8841. (AMPK

Invitation to Bid

The State of Illinois School Building Commission will receive bids for the construction of a sixteen classroom and multi-purpose room elementary school building for Cook County School District No. 26, Feehanville, Illinois.

Sealed proposals for the construction of a new elementary school building located at Euclid Avenue and Wheeling Road in Cook County School District No. 26, Feehanville, Illinois will be received by the State of Illinois School Building Commission, Room 222 Marycrest Plaza Building, 2112 West Jefferson Street, Joliet, Illinois until 8:00 O'clock P.M. Central Daylight Saving Time on July 26, 1960, and will be publicly opened and read at that time. Any proposal received after the above time and date will be returned to the bidder unopened.

Separate proposals must be submitted on the following categories of work:

GENERAL WORK
PLUMBING WORK
HEATING AND VENTILATING WORK
ELECTRICAL WORK

Each proposal submitted on the above categories of work must be accompanied by a certified check or bank draft as bid security made payable to the State of Illinois School Building Commission in an amount not less than 5% of the base bid. All such checks and bank drafts will be returned to the bidders upon rejection of their bids or immediately after the award of contract has been made. All bidders shall note that bid bonds are not acceptable. Proposals must be submitted in duplicate on forms provided by the architect.

The successful bidders will be required to furnish a performance bond satisfactory to the School Building Commission in the full amount of the contract price. Cost of said performance bond will be paid by the contractor.

Drawings and specifications are on file and may be examined after June 27, 1960 at the office of the architect, M. K. Young and Associates, 221 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, and in the office of the Illinois School Building Commission, 2112 West Jefferson Street, Joliet, Illinois.

Contract Documents, Plans and Specifications may be secured from the architect at the above specified address. One set of Documents may be received upon the deposit of $25.00 which will be refunded to the Contractor upon the return of said Documents in good condition. Additional copies of Plans and Specifications may be secured at the price of $15.00 per set which is not refunded.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time of receipt of bids or for a period of thirty (30) days thereafter. The State of Illinois School Building Commission reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, to waive any informality in bidding and to award a contract in the best interest of the State of Illinois.

Teenager Charged in Accident at Drive-In Accidents on northwest suburban highways showed no appreciable increase this week, despite the increased traffic the roads bear with summer vacationers, District 3 state police reports indicate.

Among the more serious accidents this week, state police: - On Sunday, cited Patricia Mancini, 16, of 100 N. Louis, Mt. Prospect, for failure to yield the right-of-way and having no driver's license after she pulled away from a stop sign at an outdoor theater entrance onto U. S. 12 a short distance from Illinois 53 and collided with a car headed southeast on U.S. 12 driven by Donald J. Day, 20, of 3415 N. New England, Chicago.

Day suffered bruises in the mishap, and was taken to Northwest Community hospital, but a passenger in each of the cars and Miss Mancini escaped injury. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $950.

ON SATURDAY, police charged Jerome C. Carroll, 20, of 2103 S. Old Plum Grove rd., Palatine, with failure to yield the right-of-way following an accident at Old Northwest hwy. and Quentin rd.

Police said Carroll was headed south on Quentins rd. when he pulled across the intersection and was hit by a car headed west on Old Northwest hwy. driven by Paul L. Listhartke, 19, of 64 N. Ela rd., Barrington.

Listhartke was taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries. His car had gone off the road after the collision and hit a tree. Carroll and a passenger in his car escaped injury. Damage to the two cars was estimated at $1,000.

On the same date, Gary W. Wyand, 18, of 4817 Irving Park rd., Chicago, was cited for following too closely after he ran into the rear of a car while headed west on Illinois 68 at Buffalo Grove rd.

Driver of the other car, James L. Kincaid, 74, of R.R. 1, Box 288, Palatine, was pulling off the road at the time of the mishap. A passenger in Wyand's car, John H. Stark, 15, of 6121 Addison, Chicago, suffered bruises in the crash. Damage to Wyand's vehicle was figured at $200 while Kincaid's auto was described as a total wreck.

ALSO ON Saturday, two Chicago residents were taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries after an unknown vehicle forced the car in which they were riding off the road while headed west on Illinois 72 a quarter-of-a-mile west of Arlington Heights State rd., with the car crashing into a utility pole.

Injured were Emanuel G. Glyman, 21, of 4422 W. Congress, Chicago, and a passenger in the car, Helen Klimczyk, 15, of 1106 N. Paulina, Chicago. Damage to the vehicle was estimated to be about $700, with $200 damage done to the utility pole.

On Friday, James R. Sanders, 16, of 7404 Elmira, Des Plaines, was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way following a mishap at York rd. and Touhy ave.

Police said he was headed east on Touhy ave. and struck a car going north on York rd. driven by Lewis G. Moore, 39, of 717 N. Lombard, Elmhurst. Moore and his two sons who were riding in the car with him, Robert, 11, and James, 13, were shaken up in the crash. Damage to the vehicles stood at around $400.

ON THE same date, two motorists were injured following a collision on U.S. 12 two miles north of Illinois 58. One of the drivers, Franklin J. Barta, 49, of R.R. 1, Box 571, Cary, was charged with driving too fast for conditions after he was going north on U.S. 12 and rammed into the rear of a car which had slowed for a one-lane construction area. Driver of the other car was Jerome E. Moss, 33, of 203 S. Maple, Prospect Heights. The drivers were taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries suffered. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $850. (B8

Q. Is it proper at the dinner table for one to use one's hands when reaching for a slice of bread, or is one supposed to use the fork?

A. By all means, help yourself to the bread with your fingers, being careful to touch only the slice you are taking. Never, never use your own fork or any of your own individual pieces of silver to help yourself from a common serving dish.

OBITUARIES

Pauline McElhose

A former resident of 816 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights for many years, Mrs. Pauline McElhose, wife of the late Arthur McElhose, late resident of Hayes, Kansas, died there Monday, July 11. Services will be held Friday, July 15 at 2 p.m. in Faith Lutheran church, Arlington Heights. Pastor Behrens will officiate and interment will be in Memory Gardens cemetery. She will be in state at Blacks Memorial home until the services.

Mrs. McElhose helped found the Sunday school and Dorcas Aid society of St. Peter Lutheran church; was superintendent of beginners department and taught Sunday school for about 35 years later becoming active in the Ladies Society of Faith Lutheran church. She was also a member of the American Legion auxiliary, and the "Old Time Mothers Club."

She was an active member of all, until she moved to Kansas two years ago, where she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Virginia Herzog.

Besides her daughter, Virginia, she leaves a son, Herman of Waterloo, Iowa, and a daughter, Florence Middlebron of Chesterton, Ind. (B9

May B. Saunders

Mass at 10 a.m. was said for Mrs. May Beatrice Saunders, 75, 1 Hillside, Prospect Heights, July 11 in St. Alphonsus church, with Fr. Saunders officiating. Interment was in St. Joseph cemetery, River Grove.

Mrs. Saunders was born May 3, 1885 in Brookline, Mass. and died July 7 in Great Lakes Naval hospital. Her husband, Edward, who was in the auto body business in Chicago, preceded her in death in 1949.

She leaves one son, Rev. Edward J. Saunders, a colonel in the army chaplain corps.; four daughters, Beatrice Conway and Constance Ernst, both of Prospect Heights, June Susen of Bay Village, Ohio, and Sister Mary Laurita, SSCC of St. Mary, Riverdale; and 12 grandchildren. (B9

Louis Goebbert

Wednesday, July 13, services for Louis Goebbert, 89, 160 E. Algonquin, were held in St. John Ev. Lutheran church, with Rev. W. B. Streufert officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. He was born in Elk Grove township April 2, 1871 and was married to Martha Tonne May 3, 1896 in St. John Ev. Lutheran church, Elk Grove, by Rev. Haake. Mr. Goebbert died July 10 in Plum Grove Nursing Home. His wife, Martha, preceded him in 1955.

He leaves seven children: Theodore H. of Des Plaines, Paul of Palatine, Mrs. Rose Rowlett of Elgin, Mrs. Violet Busse of Dundee, Mrs. Alvina Boergener, Alfred and Walter, all of Arlington Heights; 22 grandchildren; 29 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by three brothers and a sister.

Louise Edelman

Chapel services for Mrs. Louise Edelman, 71, 55 W. Johnson, Palatine, will be held Thursday, July 14, at 1:30 p.m. in Tharps funeral home, Palatine. Rev., Olson will officiate and interment will be in Irving Park cemetery.

She leaves a son, Karl of Mexico; six grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren. Her husband and one daughter preceded her in death. (B9

Herbert W. Post

Services for Herbert W. Post, 73, 934 N. Kennicott, Arlington Heights, were held July 11 in an Evanston chapel. Interment was in Memorial Park cemetery.

Mr. Post, a retired food company executive, had served as treasurer and a director of the Beatrice Foods Co., 120 S. LaSalle. He retired as a director last month after serving more than 50 years with the firm.

Summer Stage Announces Cast for Wilder Comedy

Casting for "The Skin of Our Teeth" was announced this week by Judy Speer, director for the Summer Stage play.

From the tryouts on July 6, a total of 26 people were cast in the three-act comedy by Thornton Wilder. "The Skin of Our Teeth" was the outstanding play of the World War II period and has been called a philosophical extravaganza. In 1957 Wilder was distinguished when the West German book industry awarded him the Peace Prize for the balm he brought to war-shattered Germany with "The Skin of Our Teeth."

THE PLAY IS centered around the family of Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus in New Jersey. The family includes Mr. Antrobus (Jim Brunberg) who invents the wheel, the alphabet, and the number 100. He is ably supported by his wife (Rosemary Barry) who is president of the Women's Auxiliary Bed and Board Society and the mother of two children, Gladys (Connie Beckway) and Henry (Jerry Greer). Henry begins his rather hateful life by killing his brother Abel with a slingshot. His resentment for the nickname, Cain, and for his father increases as he matures with the result that he becomes "The Enemy" in the dozen wars which the Antrobuses survive by the skin of their teeth.

To add to the confusion and comedy, Lily Sabina (Grayce Beckway), the Antrobus' general utility maid, often steps out of character to assure the audience that she does not understand a word of the play.

OTHERS IN THE cast include: Mr. Fitzpatrick, Gar Simmons; Fortune Teller, Lynn Shaughnessy; Hester and Mammoth, Diane Waterman; Ivy, Martha LaRose, Dino saur and conventioneer, Fred Walters; Telegraph boy, and conventioneer, Mike Hampton; Doctor, actor, and conventioneer, Pat Thomes; Mr. Tremayne, professor, and sleeping conventioneer, Dave Starnes.

Judge, defeated candidate, and actor, Jan Rogozinski; Homer, conventioneer, and actor, Frank Embrey; usher, conventioneer, and Fred Bailey, Bob Cornog; usher and conventioneer, Ralph Milman; chair pusher and actor, Gary Gappert; chair pusher and actor, Mike Seef.

BROADCAST official, announcer, and conventioneer, John Sterba; assistant broadcast official, conventioneer, and actor, Tom Stewart; crying woman in audience and actress, Lois Marutka; Miss M. Muse, lady conventioneer, and actress, Judy Petry; drum majorette and actress, Jan May; drum majorette and assistant stage manager, Ginger Altera; Miss T. Muse and actress, Sharon Luczak.

The first rehearsal was held July 11, and a general meeting for crews was called for July 13 at Pioneer Park. Both Forest View School in Elk Grove and Pioneer Park in Arlington have been secured for rehearsal halls. (ACM

Forest View School

In the meeting of July 6 the Forest View school board confirmed a welcomed rumor that Elk Grove has agreed to take Forest View seventh and eighth graders into their Junior high this fall, on a tuition basis. Bob Palmer, Forest View board president, commented, "This is real good news. It will relieve some of the pressure at Forest View and help coordinate activities in the forthcoming merger between Forest View and Elk Grove." The board wants to remind all residents of Forest View that members will be calling on them with merger petitions for signatures. Completing this petition is a most important step in effecting the merger, and the support of all Forest View residents is needed.

The Anderson family left June 25 and went camping around Lake Michigan, arriving home July 1. They left again Saturday to spend the weekend at Devils Lake, Wis. Fourth of July the Andersons and Rosemary Luker attended the Cubs ball game and were entertained at the Luker home in the evening.

Mrs. Phoebe Jane Garland is home recuperating from surgery in Northwest Community hospital. Mothers club members are urged to visit her, as she is new in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gorr and son, Dick, visited the Ray Muggenbergs of Westmont, Ill., Sunday evening.

MARGIE HANKE left with her aunt, Lillian Peterson, for St. Petersburg, Fla., for the rest of the summer.

Mary Lou Larson's cousin, Tom Keegan of Chicago, is spending the week with the Larsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Masko and Don, along with Richard Koepke, spent a week's vacation in Bent, Minn.

Paul Vita of Indian River, Fla., spent a week with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lauing. Paul's father, Don, works for Convair on missiles at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

House guests of the Carroll Carters were the Leslie Ghastins of Richmond Center, Wis. While here the families saw the Cub-Milwaukee ball game.

A July 4 buffet supper was served by the Tilford Foys and Culley Berlins to their guests, the Dan Mussers, Bill Hugos, Leonard Arnolds, Stan Luczaks, Charles Kleinofens, John St. Germains and Stan Fills. Individual polaroid pictures were taken by Mr. St. Germain of his fellow golfers and a group picture of their wives and hostesses.

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not confuse form e r ly (previously) with f o rm ally (in a formal or conventional manner).

Do not say, "I promise you that this is the truth." Say, "I assure you."

Do not say, "A period of six months have elapsed." Say, "Has elapsed." "Period," and not "months," 'is the singular subject.

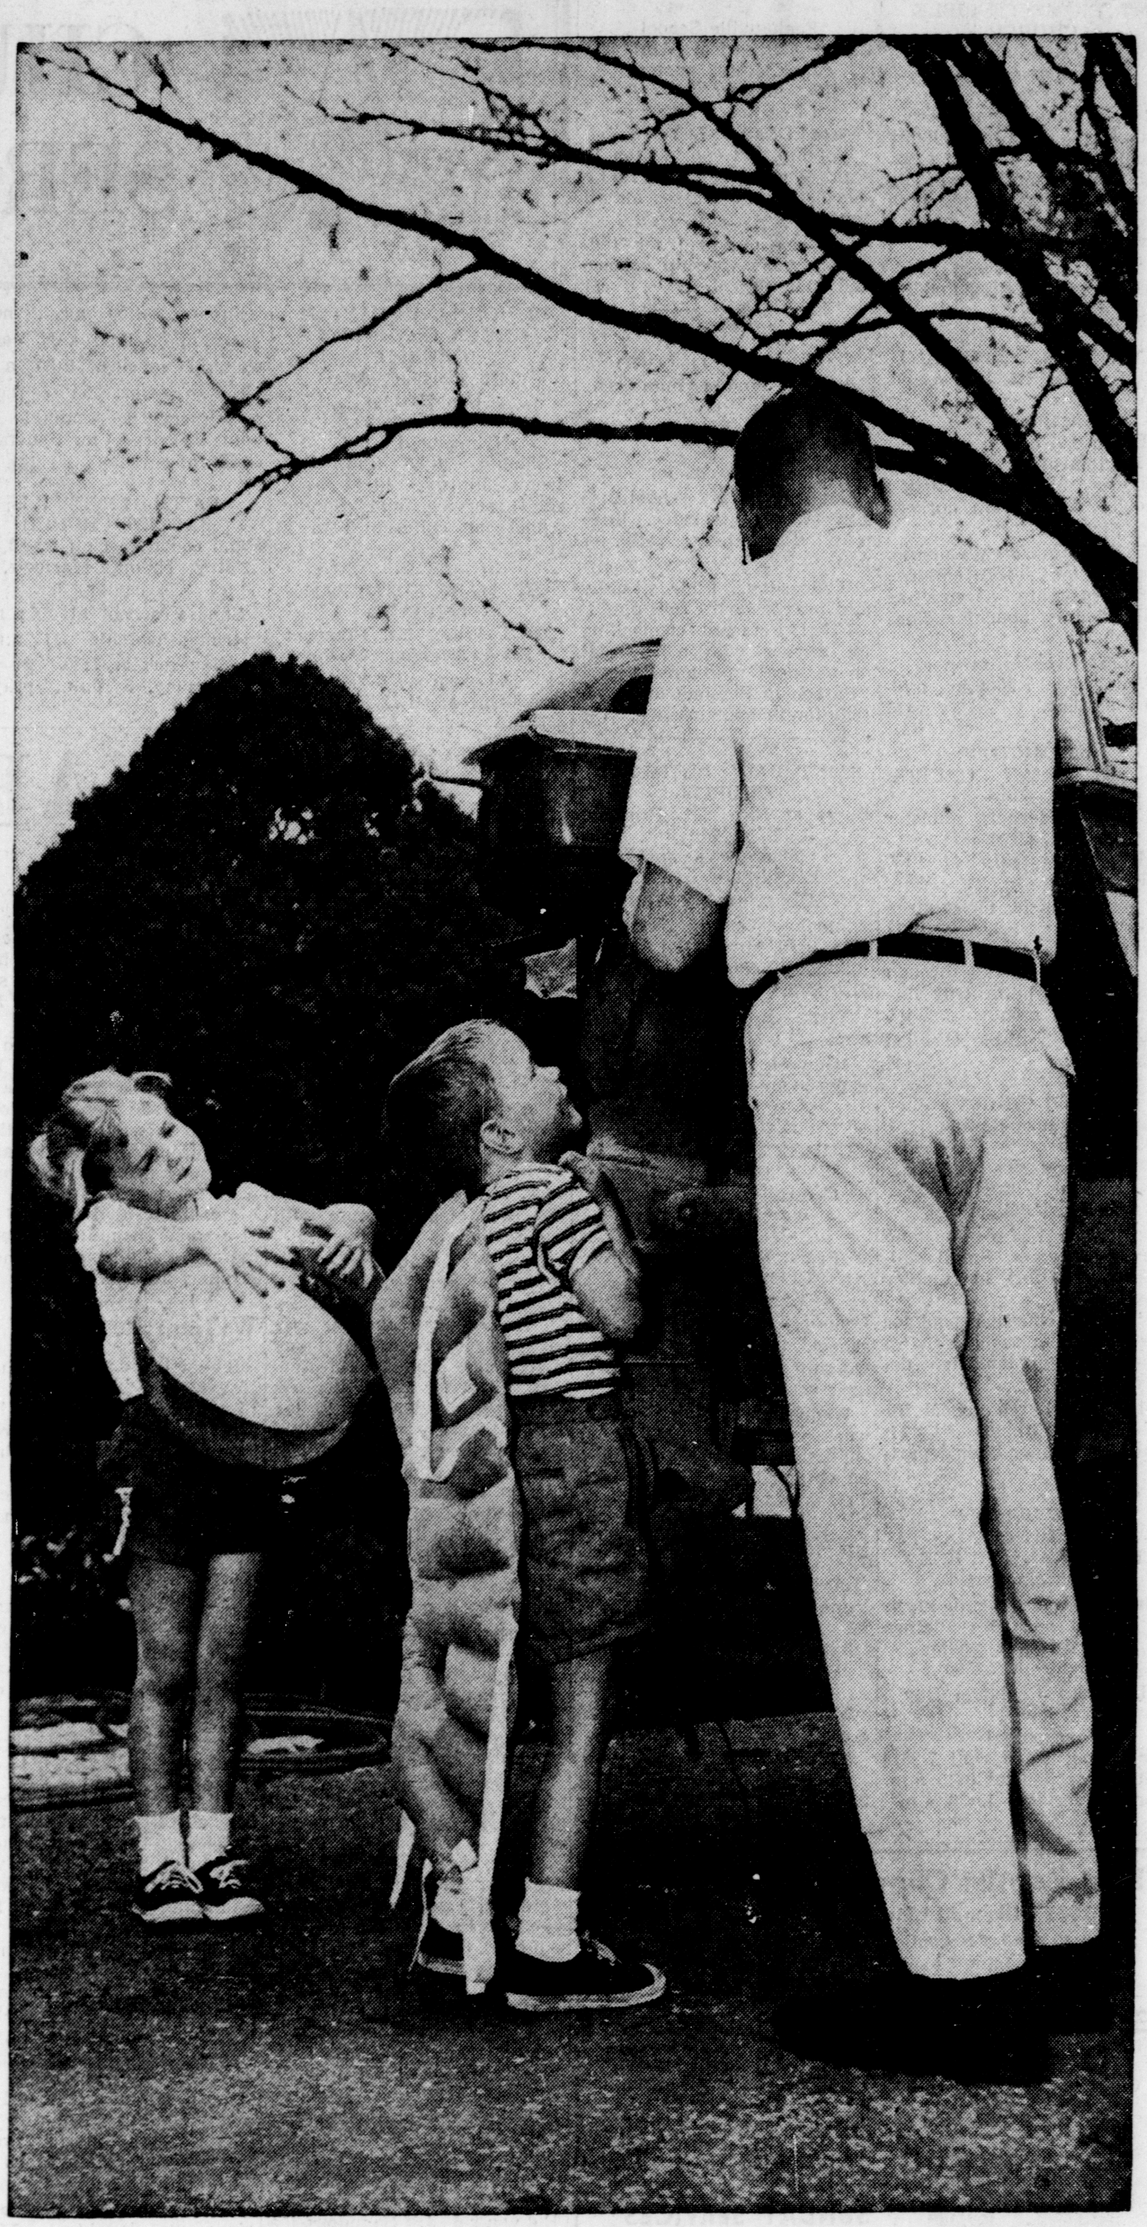
Do not say, "It was just two years ago that they got married." Say, "that t h e y were married."

THE 50TH STATE salutes the Mainland now with beach fashions based on native Hawaiian designs, and stateside ladies are finding the lure of lanai-dresses, templesets, houseboy jackets, sarongs, and happi-coats, irresistible. The flower prints, usually on sturdy cotton, and the garments themselves, are produced in the famous "Island Paradise" and are slated to give a refreshing new look to the beaches of the U. S. A. this summer.

'Peeping Tom' In Stonegate?

A "Peeping Tom" was reported to Arlington Heights police this week by a Stonegate resident.

A S. Windsor st. homeowner while emptying garbage inquired of his wife what it was the builders had left on the roof of the house under construction next door. Before she could reply, a man leaped off the roof and dashed away.



NEW WORLDS UNFOLD...

"Will you let me steer the boat, Dad, all by myself?" "How far is '50 miles'?" "Why can't we go NOW?" The summertime world of water and sand and hot sun and no shoes is waiting and tomorrow is never, never going to get here. You smile an indulgent, adult smile at their excitement . . . but to tell the truth, you're pretty excited yourself about trying out the new motor. You can almost feel the spray, the slap of the waves on the bottom of the boat and the sun baking the tension away. And all of a sudden, you can't wait either. That's the way it is when you head for the lake with a boat, a motor and a family to enjoy it. Are you missing out? Why not take a look at the Want Ads. There are some wonderful boat and motor bargains listed.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

THE UNITED STATES has lost ground in the last 10 years in international tennis competition. There was a time when U. S. was always the favorite for the Davis Cup and American men and women were always finalists or winners at Wimbledon and Forest Hills in the big tennis tournaments. This year Wimbledon had an all Australian final in men's singles. No Americans were challengers in the women's section of the tourney. However a 17-year-old Californian and a Mexican sophomore at University of Southern California took the doubles championship.

It appears that the U. S. is stronger in the junior division than in many years so perhaps there is hope that we may again reach the top in this sport. One of the problems is that in only a few areas of the country, particularly California, is tennis training of young people carried on extensively and with expert coaching. Certainly many high schools in metropolitan areas have tennis teams but, like golf, do not employ coaches for the sport who really are skilled and can teach the boys and girls the correct fundamentals. Until some area besides California really pushes this sport, the U. S. can be expected to take a back seat in big time tennis.

FOR MANY YEARS IN THIS COUNTRY only the well-to-do class of people engaged to any great extent in golf and tennis for the simple reason that golf courses, tennis courts, and the equipment and time involved in making a success of the sport were not within the means of the ordinary citizen. The public has been slow to see the value of these sports in relation to the cost so public tennis courts and golf links have had low priority as tax supported projects. It has been only in the last 15 or 20 years that these sports have been taken on by public schools and then only to have teams and not as a sport taught to all the students.

Unfortunately the real season for golf and tennis does not fall within the school term of nine months except for the month of May. This means that competition starts with little pre-season practice and the students must play on their own in the summer to gain practice and experience for school playing the following spring. All warm weather sports suffer in quality and standards in the middle west and northern states due to the handicap of weather. Actually September and half of October present better weather conditions for tennis and golf than do April and May. However, we are bound by the football tradition in this country so strongly that no sports may conflict with king football in the fall even though many of the athletes interested in these so-called minor sports do not go out for football.

Principals and superintendents talk a good deal about having a high school program of baseball in the summer and tennis and golf in the fall but never get to the point of doing much of anything about it mainly due to traditions and public pressure. In most schools nearly all the athletic staff work in some capacity in the coaching and handling of football. Some of these men are assigned to golf and tennis in most schools and would not be available in the fall. To our way of thinking tennis and golf should be played in two short seasons each year with competition between schools in the month of May and early June and in September and the first two weeks in October. This would move both sports up to the status of major activities. Baseball should be practiced in April with no games until the second week in May and a schedule played through the months of May and June and at least to the 4th of July.

A CHAMPION TEAM or individual in sports usually has something in addition to skill and ability which cannot be measured or accurately rated. It may be called "morale," "competitive spirit," "a do or die attitude," "a never give up spirit," or given some other label. Anyway, it is an inner sport of some sort which brings about the best performances when the pressure is the greatest and carries the team or athlete through with that little extra indefinable something which is the difference between winning and losing.

Sometimes it is the coach who can instill this spirit if he has the right kind of competitors. Sometimes it is a team leader who by example sets a team on fire to accomplsih what may have seemed impossible. We just thought about this when we read the Sunday paper and saw that the San Francisco Giants are still losing. Last year they folded with the penant within their grasp and this year, picked as having the talent to make a runaway of the National League race, they are now floundering in the second division 8½ games off the pace. San Francisco has changed managers and the decline has become more rapid. They have the leading hitter in the league in Willie Mays and the best pitching talent in the majors but they seem to lack that something which makes champs.

PALATINE HIGH has been assigned a sectional wrestling tournament to be held next February 17-18. This is the tourney in which the winners and runners-up advance to the state tourney . . . Honorary referee of the state track meet this past May was Robert Woodruff of Oak Park who is this year retiring as teacher and coach. He is the only coach to direct five state champions in track . . . Chris Meller of Barrington who was an All-North Suburban Conference halfback and captain of the Bronchos last season, has a grant-in-aid scholarship at Tulane University. The National Education association has issued statistics of which every school superintendent has been well aware for many years. There are more teachers being prepared in boys' physical education teaching than for any other subject in the high school curriculum. At that, the 7,753 such teachers turned out in 1960 is a drop from former years. There are so many more prepared in this area that a rumor of a P. E. and coaching job in any town brings 100 applications in a matter of a few weeks. In contrast, teachers of English and mathematics are insufficient to anywhere near meet the demand of our expanding school systems.

Morse Appointed Chairman

Marvin L. Morse, 146 Chandler lane, Hoffman Estates, had been appointed the 1960 All-Star Luncheon committee chairman.

The All-Star Luncheon, sponsored by the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce and Industry, will be held Tuesday, August 9, at 12:15 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Palmer House.

The Jaycees will be hosts to the 1960 All-Star football squad, 200 orphans and under-privileged children, Miss All-Star, and a variety of Chicago notables.

Leo Fischer, sports editor of the Chicago American will serve as emcee at the luncheon which will highlight Duffy Dougherty, Michigan State University football coach, as the principal speaker.

Ticket Campaign On at UI

Thousands of orange and blue envelopes, filled with information about the 1960 Illinois football season, have been mailed to alumni and other fans and Ticket Manager George Legg now is accepting orders.

The 1960 mailing includes order cards, a pocket schedule card, and a handy return envelope. The campaign was delayed because delivery of the envelopes was late.

Deadline for ordering season tickets for Illinois' five home games is Monday, August 15. Price of season tickets is $20.00, and each season ticket provides the same seat, in a preferred location, for each of the following games:

Sept. 24 - Indiana.
Oct. 1 - West Virginia
Oct. 8 - Ohio State (Homecoming).
Oct. 22 - Penn State (Dad's Day).
Nov. 12 - Wisconsin ("I" Men's Day).

Orders for tickets for individual games in Memorial Stadium may be placed at any time. Orders are filled on a date-received basis.

Tickets also are available for games away from Memorial Stadium: Oct. 15, at Minnesota; Oct. 29, at Purdue; Nov. 5, at Michigan; Nov. 19, at Northwestern.

Complete ticket information and 1960 order cards may be secured by writing: Football Ticket Office, 102 Illini Hall, Champaign, Ill.

Area Legion Nines Have Disastrous Week

Area Junior Legion hopes received a severe jolt last week as Mount Prospect dropped two of three contests and fell to second behind Des Plaines.

Arlington lost a couple of heartbreakers to Des Plaines and Park Ridge over the weekend while Rolling Meadows extended its winless streak to eight to complete the disastrous week.

Park Ridge leaned into the Prospect outfit 13-1 last Wednesday at Mount Prospect in a game called after six innings.

Chuck Staral, Prospect hurler, proved no problem to the Park Ridge nine as they blasted him for a total of 13 hits. Steve Benson, on the other hand, limited the losers' attack to a scant three hits.

THE VICTORS opened up a 3-0 lead in the second stanza and added two each in the third and sixth and six in the fourth.

Benson helped his own cause with a four-base blast in the big fourth.

Mark Thorne belted a round - tripper to account for Mt. Prospect's solo tally in the fifth.

BOB KUNKEL hurled a 3-hit shutout Monday as Des Plaines nipped Prospect 4-0 in a showdown battle for first place.

Amundson walked to open the Des Plaines first and moved to second when Doug Halpenny beat out a bunt. Amundson and Halpenny successfully executed a double steal while Dan Humay fanned. Rowlee then lined a single to center knocking in Amundson but Halpenny was nailed by Fred Lussow's perfect throw to the plate.

A walk to Murdock, Gene Ciezaldo's double scored Des Plaines' second counter in the fourth. The winners also added runs in the fifth and sixth.

MT. PROSPECT notched its only triumph of the week against Northlake by a 6-3 count Saturday.

Tom Polzin fanned nine opponents to rack up the win for coach Gus Holzrichter's outfit.

Trailing 1-0 after two innings, Mt. Prospect jumped on Northlake hurler Carlin for four runs in the third.

Tom Petrosino opened the frame with a double and raced all the way home on Lussow's sacrifice fly to center. Staral walked and moved around to third on Dick Palmer's 2-bagger. Both Staral and Palmer scored ahead of George Pomey when the latter belted a 3-run homer.

PROSPECT picked up another pair in the fourth. Polzin was safe at first on an error by Northlake shortstop Bieneman. He moved around to second on Mel Aukamp's sacrifice and scored on Lussow's 2-bagger. Lussow stole third and tallied on Ron Schaefer's squeeze bunt.

Lodding homered with the bases empty for Northlake in the first.

DES PLAINES came up with six runs in the bottom of the sixth to edge Arlington 10-8 Friday in a game halted after six frames by darkness.

Skip Witt walloped a homer to give the Fernstroms a temporary 1-0 edge in the top of the first. Al Carstens' Des Plaines nine roared back with three runs in their half of the frame, however, to take the lead.

Arlington moved back into the lead with three runs on four hits in the second and maintained the edge until Des Plaines big sixth.

Bob Kunkel was credited with the victory for Des Plaines while John Lane absorbed the defeat on the mound for the losers.

A FOUR-BASE error by Fernstrom right fielder Furlong gave Park Ridge an overtime 4-3 win Saturday.

DeVito, who had homered earlier, belted a sinking liner to right that skipped on past Furlong.

Tim O'Gorman blasted a 2-run homer in the loser's 3-run third for Arlington's big blow of the contest. Benson set the Fernstroms down on one hit for the remainder of the contest.

ARLINGTON'S scheduled battle with Northlake was called off Monday because of wet grounds.

Hapless Rolling Meadows was pounded into submission by two foes last week with Northlake rapping out a 16-0 win and Des Plaines collecting a one-sided 24-3 triumph.

Monday's scheduled Palatine-Rolling Meadows game was postponed by wet grounds.

A Reminder: Golf Tourney August 28!

Paddock Inter-League golf tournament eligibility date is fast approaching, with first place golfers in 18 twilight leagues as of Aug. 13 eligible for the big event Aug. 28 at White Pines golf club.

The tournament has always been popular with local golfers, and this year's event will be no exception. Golfers and duffers alike all have a chance to make the grade in the tournament by simply being in first place on the vital date.

IN EVENT of ties in the leagues, loop officers will determine just which foursome will represent the league involved. Up for grabs will be individual medals for first, second and third places, plus a large traveling trophy. A dozen golf balls will be given for low individual net.

Greens fees of $16 per four man team are to be paid at time of making entry with tourney manager. There will be no other costs to golfers. Official entry blanks have been sent to secretaries of the 18 loops involved.

Rain Cancels Full Schedule Of 16-Inch Play

Rain forced the cancellation Sunday of a full slate of games in the Rolling Meadows Softball League. This was the second straight week of washouts.

Yearbook On Sale

The Chicago White Sox new revised Yearbook, in color, is on sale at Comiskey Park, by mail and on newsstands. Mail orders should be sent to Yearbook, Chicago White Sox, Comiskey Park, 324 W. 35th st., Chicago 16. They are 60 cents by mail.

Mt. Prospect Nine Falls To Second

Rolling unbeaten through its first nine encounters, Mt. Prospect's Junior Legion nine hit the skids with a pair of defeats last week to throw the Ninth District race into a three-team affair.

By virtue of three victories during the past week, Des Plaines moved past Mt. Prospect by a few percentage points into the top slot. The clincher was Des Plaines 4-0 shutout win over Prospect Monday.

Des Plaines has now won eight of nine games but is faced with a strenuous slate of four tilts during the next seven days.

Mt. Prospect, now 10-2, slipped into second place a scant half-length ahead of third place Park Ridge, winner of nine of 11 matches.

COACH GUS Holzrichter's outfit was humiliated by Park Ridge, 13-1, last Wednesday but did manage a win over Northlake, 6-3, Saturday.

In fourth place is Arlington with four triumphs and six setbacks followed by Palatine and Northlake who have both lost six of nine decisions.

Arlington dropped a pair of contests last week and was rained out of another while Claude Bailey's Palatine squad won its engagement with Edison Park.

EDISON PARK has now lost seven of eight games and is seventh in the league standings followed by winless Rolling Meadows, losers of eight straight.

The feature battle of the coming week matches Park Ridge against Des Plaines at Des Plaines Saturday, Park Ridge faces elimination if they drop this crucial test.

Mt. Prospect has only one game on tap for the week, that one at Palatine Saturday. Although its record doesn't show it, Palatine is certainly no push-over and will give the Prospect squad a real battle.

Two games have been scheduled for today (Thursday). Park Ridge will journey to Edison Park while Des Plaines plays host to Palatine.

ROLLING MEADOWS will seek its first victory at Arlington Friday but doesn't figure to get it.

In addition to the Mt. Prospect-Palatine and Park Ridge-Des Plaines clashes, Edison Park will visit Northlake Saturday.

Northlake at Park Ridge, Palatine at Arlington, and Des Plaines at Edison Park round out Monday's schedule.

Northlake will host Des Plaines in Wednesday's lone encounter.

Unbeaten Swimmers Clash

Two undefeated swimming teams, Arlington Heights and Park Ridge, will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Park Ridge, pool.

The local park district team swamped St. Charles, 335-109, last Thursday.

Margurite Dalton, Bob Brown, and Dick Leckband were triple winners for Arlington in individual events. Swimmers registering two firsts were Todd Behrens, Jackie Bruscato, Dick Evans, and Roger Fredrickson.

Taking home one blue ribbon were Cindy Miller, Bonnie Luster, Dick Merkle, Bill Raasch, Priscilla Reed, Frank Zeller, Jane Schaefer, Barbara Raasch, John Ericson, Barb Johnson, Paul Hemol, Sue Crawford, Doug Rice, Dorothy Anderson, and Gail Brooke.

ARLINGTON captured 32 of a possible 36 firsts in the swimming events, all 10 relays, and two firsts in the diving events as Sally Moore and Sue Crawford won both age groups.

Arlington has also beaten Mt. Prospect, 286-66. Park Ridge has defeated Mt. Prospect and Barrington.

This will be the first conference meet away from home for Arlington.

Special Events At O'Hare

Action and excitement will be keynoted through added special events for the stock car races slated Friday and Saturday nights at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. First race nightly is at 8:30 p.m.

Torrid demolition racing in which entries crash at high speed until only one car is left running as the winner, is on tap both nights and Friday there will also be Go-Kart racing. These tiny, bodyless cars, America's newest craze in speed, can go up to 70 m.p.h.

Chicagoland's top driving stars will be back in the stock car action as Roy Czach of Chicago continues his search for feature race victory glory. Among his rivals who have already reached this charmed circle are National Champion Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst and Eric Johnson of Highland Park.

Newcomers to O'Hare who made successful 1960 debuts last weekend and will be back to improve their stature Friday and Saturday nights include Lou Fegers of Glenview and Dave Longobardo of Chicago. Gates open at 6 p.m.

Sox Keep Pace

After their first 76 games this season, the Chicago White Sox were exactly even with their pennant pace in 1959 when they also won 42 and lost 34.

Arlington Heights little league fans saw the usual combination of well-pitched games and slugfests the past week.

Three no-hitters were reported, all in Southside Junior action.

McDougall of the Padres blasted a grand slam home run as well as twiring a no-hitter in leading his team to a 15-0 victory over the Angels.

Keith Schneider struck out nine, allowing three runs on no hits, as the Wrens defeated the Colts, 19-3, in a three-inning match.

A three-inning no-hitter was also pitched by Lasworth for the Beavers in a 13-3 decision over the Stags.

In 20 contests the teams combined for 20 runs or more. Much of the slugging was done in the Junior and Intermediate leagues.

SOUTHSIDE Major action saw the Yankees take over first place, winning two games and tieing one.

Whiteman registered both victories, hurling his team to an 8-5 decision over the Red Sox and a 6-3 victory against the Athletics.

SOUTHSIDE MAJORS (2nd half)
Yankees	3½	1½

Red Sox	3	2
Athletics	2	3
Senators	½	4½

The Yankees won both games with rallies in the final inning, scoring three runs in the seventh against the Red Sox and five runs in the sixth against the A's.

The Yankee catcher, Keller, drove across the winning markers with a three-run triple against the A's. Jimmy Bashleben hit doubles in both games.

The last place Senators tied the Yanks, 3-3, in the final frame on Brian Burke's double. Ben Gow socked a two run homer for the Yanks in the fourth inning.

THE WHITE SOX won two of three contests. Epperly slammed two round trippers in pacing the Hose to a 10-2 decision over the Tigers. Pingle banged out three hits for the Tigers, the only batter to solve Bogan, the winning pitcher.

Robinson outlasted Gregory in the White Sox 6-5 squeaker over the Athletics.

The Hose failed to score after the first inning, dropping a 6-2 contest to the Red Sox. Winning pitcher Wadzita hit a four-bagger and Hoppe a triple to pace the Red Sox's 10 hit attack.

Wadzita won his second game of the week and hit two doubles to pace the Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Tigers. Third baseman Kevin O'Connell drove across the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning with a triple.

Johnson threw a two-hitter as the Athletics plastered the Senators, 16-1, in a four inning contest.

IN NORTHSIDE Major play the Cubs continued to dominate action, taking over the second half league lead. They also are in first in first half action, with a few make-up games still to be played.

The Cubs smashed the Braves 22-0, racking 16 hits, including a home run by Kransell. Martin pitched a Rallying for two runs in two runs in the final inning, the Cubs beat the Giants 4-2. Nagle, the losing pitcher allowed only two hits. The Giants registered eight off Martin, but failed to score until the sixth inning.

O'Fallon hit a three-run homer to give the Pirates a 7-4 decision against the Cardinals. Baer got the victory.

THE DODGERS and Pirates battled to a 3-3 deadlock. Mahoney went all the way for the Dodgers. Willy and Dix shared pitching duties for the Pirates.

Koeppen bested T. Collins, 4-2, as the Braves defeated the Dodgers. The Braves' Kehe had the only extra-base knock, a triple.

Luckman hit a four-base clout for the Giants, but they still lost to the Cardinals, 6-3. Ostermick was the winning pitcher.

In first-half make-up games, the Braves bested the Dodgers, 8-1, and the Giants outscored the Cardinals, 7-1. Seven Braves scampered across the plate in the final inning to give Koeppen the decision. Koeppen also hit a triple.

Donnahue out-pitched Hagg in the Giant-Cardinal match.

IN SENIOR league activity no team was able to pull away from the pack during second half action last week. Only one game separates the first place Indians from the last-place Red Legs.

The luckless Browns dropped two games by one-run before they defeated the Red Legs, 6-1.

Tom Ashley, pitching his first game for the Browns, allowed eight hits, but only one run, in the Red Leg duel.

A run in the fifth inning gave the Indians a 4-3 decision over the Browns. Henken outpitched Spencer.

The Hawks rallied for four runs in the sixth frame to sneak by the Browns, 5-4. Spencer and Brodnan were the big guns, each rapping out a double and triple. Berg was the winning hurler.

Behind the pitching of Martin, the Lions triumphed over the Indians, 6-4.

Salima relieved Proud in the first inning and allowed only one hit to pitch the Red Legs to a 5-2 victory over the Bears.

In first half make-up games Murphy allowed only two hits as the Indians outscored the Hawks, 6-0. Gow, with a home run and triple, led the Indian attack.

Ted Staahl of the Browns struck out 15 men and allowed only one run, a home run by Indian catcher Ewart, to give his team a 4-1 win.

IN VARSITY league competition the Vikings took the first half championship, but the Eagles have an early lead in second half play.

The Eagles started showing their muscles when they gave the Vikings a 23-0 walloping in a first half make-up match. However, the Vikings had already cinched the first half championship.

After three innings there was no score, but the Eagles tallied 8 in the fourth, 6 in the fifth, and 9 in the sixth.

Pacing the Eagles' 19 hit attack was Skip Dunnom, who socked two circuit drives, one with the bases full, and a triple. Johnny Ungaro, Eagle moundsman, who allowed only four hits, slapped a three-run double.

IN SECOND HALF action the Eagles stunned the Rams, 17-1, and won on a forfeit from the Phillies. Becker gave up only two hits as his team mates took advantage of eight Ram errors to coast to a victory.

Webber pounded out four hits and Shawhan had two triples and a single to pace the Vikings to a 6-4 extra inning triumph over the Falcons. The Vikings registered two runs in the eighth inning to give relief pitcher Daly the win.

Committing six errors, the Vikings handed the Orioles a 4-3 decision. Brunner was the winning pitcher, while Webber absorbed the loss.

In first half make-up games, the Rams dropped two tilts. The Eagles took advantage of nine Ram errors to win, 11-5. Ungaro was credited with the win.

Horcher and Brune hit for the circuit as the Falcons plastered the Rams, 11-6. Horcher was the winning hurler. O'Keefe was charged with both losses for the Rams.

IN SOUTHSIDE Junior competition, the Oaks and Padres are tied for the top spot.

Although three no-hitters were registered, the league can hardly be considered a pitchers' paradise.

The least runs scored in any game was 15.

In addition to the no-hitters, mentioned at the beginning of the story, eight other games took place during the week.

The Oaks vanquished the Buckeyes, 14-12, and the Beavers, 17-4. Kimball boomed a grand slam home run for the Oaks to support Buttenob's two-hit pitching in the latter match.

TALLYING 58 runs in three games, the Padres clouted the Wrens, 21-15, the Angels, 15-0, and the Colts, 22-2.

Henken was the victorious pitcher in the 21-15 bout, and McDougall hurled a no-hitter in the Angel match.

Scoring 13 runs in the first, four in the fourth, and five in the fifth, the Padres gave pitcher Wheeler plenty of support against the Colts.

Seventeen men batted for the Padres in the big first inning, who registered eight walks, two hit batters, and four singles. The game was called after three innings, when it was an hour and half old.

The Wrens, in three innings, walked over the hapless Colts, 19-3. Only three hits were registered in the game, all by the Wrens, as Schnieder threw a no-hitter.

IN ANOTHER three-inning duel, the Wrens scored eight runs in the second inning as they defeated the Atoms, 12-8. Schnieder was the winning pitcher again.

The Stags saw plenty of action, winning two and losing one. Leo Murray was credited with both wins, 9-7 over the Colts and 11-7 over the Buckeyes.

Jim Chalifoux slammed two home runs, a double, and single to lead the Stag attack against the Buckeyes. Bob Graham also knocked a four-bagger for the Stags.

Lasworth threw a no-hitter at the Stags as the Beavers took a 13-3 match. Bill McGrath hit a home run with one on base; Behrens slashed a three-run triple; and Lasworth socked a two-run triple to highlight the Beaver attack.

The Spartans took it on the nose twice, losing by 9-8 counts to the Angels and Atoms. Burkett and McCarty were the winning pitchers.

Prochaska of the Angels stole home with the winning run in the fifth inning against the Spartans. McNamara's grand slam home run was the big blow for the Atoms as they outhit the Spartans, 14-6.

IN NORTHSIDE Junior action the Gophers handed the Sox their first defeat in second half competition.

Behind 9-6 in the last inning, the Gophers' Ostler hit a grand slam home with two out to give his team a 10-9 win.

The Gulls, who trail the first-place Sox by half a game, won two games. With Kregmborg blasting a home-run and two triples, and Warman hitting two triples, the Gulls ran away from the Gophers, 20-2. Crain allowed only two hits for the win.

A home-run by Leet and a triple by Ohargin led the Gulls to a 14-4 decision over the Blues.

Before losing to the Gophers, the Sox picked up a 10-5 win over the Owls and a 14-8 triumph over the Blues. Dave Glantz was credited with both victories.

ALSO REGISTERING two wins were the Owls, 15-12 over the Robins and 13-10 over the Bisons.

Swodboda was the winning twirler in the Robin match, and Johns in the Bison duel. For the Bisons, Ross hit a home run, Schaefer two triples, and Luxion two doubles.

Ross of the Bisons pitched a two-hitter as his team mates took a 10-1 decision from the Millers.

Olson and Langhart busted home runs for the Badgers, but they still lost to the Millers, 11-7. Spink was the winning pitcher.

Mike Brophy pitched the Larks to a 7-1 victory over the Badgers. In a game that ended in an 8-8 tie, Spindler hit a grand slam home run for the Robins against the Larks.

IN NORTHSIDE Intermediate activity, the Bruins are setting the early pace in second half competition.

They defeated the Hornets, 9-7, the Colonels, 14-1, and the Lancers, 14-8.

A one-hitter by J. Funk of the Bruins was the outstanding feature of the contest against the Colonels. He was supported by a 14-hit attack, including triples by Drake, Koss, and Schultz.

Baker hit two round trippers for the Hornets, but they failed to defeat the Bruins. Hitting four-base knocks for the Bruins were Riedy and D. Smith.

Schultz slammed a four-run circuit drive and Riedy hit two doubles to pace the Bruins against the Lancers. Schneider clouted a homer for the Lancers.

Brandau was the winning pitcher in both games.

THE SECOND place Colonels won two games after losing to the Bruins. Irmen hit a four base drive to help Jim Saflarski take an 8-6 decision over the Saints. Saflarski struck out 10 batters.

After the Red Birds had taken a 10-9 lead with a seven run rally in the top of the fifth, the Colonels came back with three runs to win a 12-10 match. Hicks socked a home run for the losers. Brown won in relief for the Colonels.

Following their loss to the Colonels, the Saints registered three victories.

A 12-2 decision over the Hornets saw the winning pitcher, Frase, swat a grand slam homer.

Tossi of the Comets banged out two home runs, a double, and a single, but his team went down before the Saints, 16-12. Arndt, the winning pitcher, was supported by a 16-hit attack, including a circuit clout and three singles by Friese.

Twenty-nine runs scored on 31 hits as the Saints marched over the Red Birds, 16-13. Kieck was credited with the win.

No report was made this week from the Southside Intermediate league.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

(Sports Editor Bob Frisk is on a two week tour of active duty with the United States Air Force at Sheppard AFB, Tex. The column will be resumed on his return.)

Krieger Wins 4th Feature Event At Waukegan

Only inches separated the first and second place drivers at the finish line in Sunday nights modified stock car racing program at the Waukegan speedway.

Greg Krieger, Milwaukee, became the feature victor for the fourth time this season as he edged out veteran driver Milt Curcio, Racine, by less than 12 inches in an action packed thriller that had fans screaming their favorite on. The narrow margin prevented Curcio from scoring his first 1960 feature victory at Waukegan.

Action was plentiful throughout the event as Racine's Ron Larson, making the surprise showing of the year, grabbed the lead at the start and expertly fought off repeated attempts by Erik Johnson, Highland Park, to maintain the lead.

THE TWO HAD built up a quarter lap lead over the rest of the field, but on the 20th lap, Larson was forced to give way to Johnson who had a more powerful car.

Lap number 2 and the drive shaft on Johnson's car let loose and he was forced from the competition, and Curcio, Krieger, Norm Nelson, Racine, and Gary Sheldon, Beloit, stormed past Larson as Larson drifted too wide on the south turn and nearly spun out.

Krieger finally found his opening on the north turn coming in for the checkered flag and "gunned" the car down the chute to edge out Curcio.

Larson finished fifth behind Sheldon and Nelson. Nelson making his first appearance of the year took a close third placing immediately behind Curcio. Krieger's average speed was clocked at 50.34 m.p.h.

EARLIER IN the event on lap number 13, Krieger had tangled with Eddie Stillman, Milwaukee, on the main straight-a-way and nearly spun out, causing flagman Duane Sweeney to scurry for shelter behind his concrete [illegible] barrier. Krieger brought the car under control in usual unexcitable manner and went on for the win.

For the seventh consecutive week, Krieger posted the evening's fastest qualifying time when he turned the slick oval at a speed of 51.70 m.p.h. He has been the only driver all season to be able to set the fast time of the night. Eight programs have been held but on one, rain prevented qualifying runs and drivers drew for positions.

Krieger, however, was stopped from making a clean sweep of events when Bobby Ratajczyl, Kenosha, took the fourth heat race away from Curcio, with Krieger placing third in that event.

THE NIGHT'S amateur race for the strictly stock automobiles was another scorekeepers nightmare as 25 of the jalopies took to the track for 15 laps. Surprisingly 13 managed to finish, and after the race was over, the undisputed winner was Herb Damron of Lake Villa who had led from the start of the event and expertly managed to avoid the spins and crashes of other drivers to go on for the win.

A heavy overcast sky, threatening weather, and early Sunday rains kept the crowd down to only 1,900 persons. The track was quite slippery and accounted for several of the spins and crashes in all events.

Koop's Edge Stan's

The season's big match between the first place Stan's Standard Service team and the second place Koops Mustard squad, ended in a 9-3 win for Koops in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League last week at Roselle country club.

Out of the five matches played, Koops won three and tied one to gain three and a half of five possible points. They also gathered four and a half of a possible six points for low net.

Koops also took the point allowed for low net total, giving them the 9-3 victory and first place.

OUTSTANDING score of the evening was turned in by John Makinson of Black's Memorial Home, a gross 38 and a low net of 28. Makinson birdied the 255 yard third hole and the 375 yard seventh hole.

Bill Schoepke of Arlington Heights National Bank rammed home birdies on the 255 yard third hole third nine and the 455 yard sixth hole. However, he lost his match.

Don Magnuson of Black's Memorial Home tipped par on the 460 yard fourth hole and the 375 yard seventh.

OTHER BIRDIE shooters were Don Kiel, 170 yard third hole; Ken Seeger, 455 yard fourth; Bud Horcher, 120 yard seventh; Charles Staadt and Park Allen, 260 yard ninth; Bob Williams, 345 yard fifth; Bill Gappert and Cecil Jamison, 455 yard sixth; and Ron Dattilo, 320 yard ninth.

Don McGowan was not mentioned in the article last week, although scoring his first birdie of the year.

Moran Triumphs For Tie

Moran Furs picked up an easy victory Thursday evening to pull into a first place tie with Spooner Engineering in League No. 1 of St. Raymond's Holy Name Society Twilight Golf League.

Ackerman Insurance also experienced a successful outing as they gathered eight points and vaulted from fifth into fourth place. Only 11 points separate the leaders and Ackerman's.

In League No. 2, Illinois Range maintained its grip on the top slot. Meeske's, however, drove from fifth to third place during the week. Trapani Plumbing also moved forward from seventh to sixth.

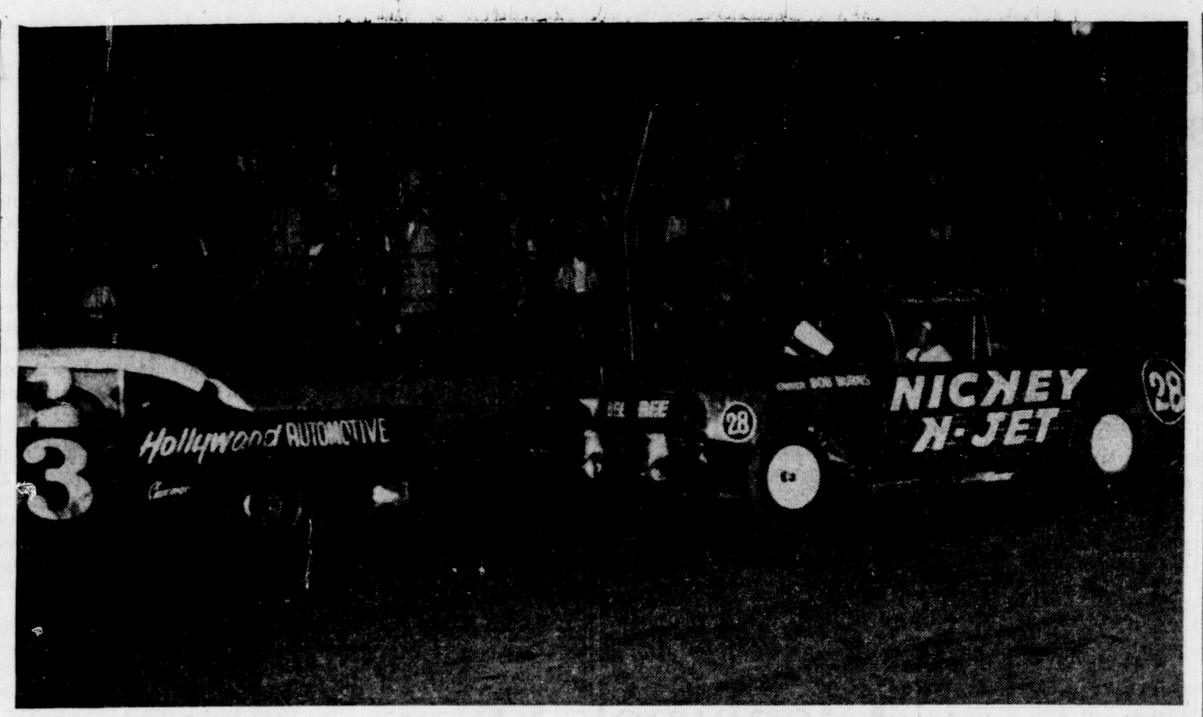
KEEFER'S Pharmacy had a match contested last week and, as a result of a decision of the board of directors, they were deprived of two points.

The two leaders on August 1 will be selected to represent St. Raymonds in the Paddock Tournament at White Pines.

HOT CORNERS: R. Becker, 40; R. Broeren, 40; E. Guintini, 40; J. Moran, 40; D. St. Denis, 40; R. Di Vall, 41; W. Lohrer, 41; C. Sobol, 41; W. Sommers, 41.



DUPAGE COUNTY'S contribution to national stock car racing fame, Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, charges down the main stretch at O'Hare Stadium before a capacity crowd in his famous Nickey K-Jet as he prepares to pass Roy Czach of Chicago (No. 33 at left). Lorenzen has for the past two years reigned as the United States Auto club's National Stock Car champion. He's the only driver in history to have annexed this title twice in a row.

Elmhurst Driver Sparkles At O'Hare Stadium Oval

One of the brightest new stars today in auto racing anywhere is 25-year old Fred Lorenzen of suburban Elmhurst who competes regularly at O'Hare Stadium.

Handsome, blonde and ruggedly built, Lorenzen ran a good third in the big "Firecracker 250" July 4, a 250-mile stock car grind over the tremendously fast 2.5-mile speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla. His average speed in his own 1960 Ford over the entire distance was over 145 m.p.h.!

Contrary to what might be expected, Fred was happier with this third place finish than with many of the victories he has posted in championship events all over the country in the past three years. His good feelings were centered around one word... N-A-S-C-A-R.

SITTING ON the pit wall beside his gleaming yellow No. 28 after the Daytona classic, he exclaimed, "Sure I'm happier than I have been for a long time. This was my best showing with NASCAR so far. Don't kid yourself...these boys GO and faster than any in racing anywhere.

"I found this out the first time I got on the Daytona track in February (He finished eighth in the 500 miler there February 14) and felt pretty good doing a consistent 140 m.p.h. Then I learned that the leaders were going closer to 150 and I knew this wasn't going to be a cinch."

Lorenzen, it should probably be explained, was for the past two years the United States Auto club's National stock car racing champion and among the stars he defeated numerous times were the winners of the last three 500-milers - Jim Rathmann, Rodger Ward and the late Jim Bryan.

"LAST WINTER," Fred relates, "I had an important decision to make...to stick with USAC and eventually get into the big race at Indianapolis or join NASCAR, the world's largest auto race organization which specializes in stock car events.

"Since stock cars are the type of racing I know the most about and since NASCAR's prize monies for stock car events are the highest anywhere, I made my change. Up to now, however, I must admit that I had begun wondering if I had made the right move and if I was actually good enough for NASCAR.

"This third place finish does feel real good and makes me feel much better about the change, but I'm still looking for what most of the top NASCAR drivers have...a good sponsor who'll provide me with a good crew so that I don't have to do so much of the mechanical work myself and can concentrate more on improving my driving."

LORENZEN IS a genuine rarity in his studious attitude toward racing. Although he'll still tell anyone he has to improve more, he is actually one of the best drivers in the nation today. This is both through natural ability and his constant studying efforts toward all aspects of the sport.

Several rival competitors scoffed and joked when Fred had his pit crew practicing tire changes for eight hours before the 500 miler at Daytona in February, but after the race was over it was found that his pit stops ranked as among the very fastest.

And there were others who doubtless would have smirked had they this season seen Lorenzen spend an hour looking over every slope and contour in the quarter-mile banked oval at O'Hare Stadium before the start of the season. Net result: More feature wins at O'Hare this year for Lorenzen than for all other drivers combined.

IT IS THIS sincere devotion toward constant improvement, however, that is undoubtedly one of Lorenzen's strongest assets and a big reason behind his success that made him the first man in history to capture the USAC stock car title two years in a row.

Fred got his start in late model stock car racing at O'Hare Stadium and was on hand to run in the first races ever presented there five years ago. He this season is expected to score his 100th victory at O'Hare with no other driver even close to the mark.

His O'Hare popularity and excellence have prompted Bill Cherney and Tex Wooten, the track's co-promoters, to issue a blanket challenge to any and all of the so-called NASCAR 'Rebel hot dogs' to try and beat Lorenzen on his home track that's O'Hare. "Let 'em try - that's all they'll do."

NOW THAT HE hopes he has broken the ice toward reaching the top level in NASCAR competition, Fred will, nevertheless, continue his efforts to "improve my own ability to keep up with the constant improvements coming out of Detroit and through the race car mechanics and builders.

"Anyone can laugh if he wants to, but if I'm up at the front when the prize money is being paid out, I'll be the one who'll be much happier...with more in my pocket too!"

Warder Captures Tourney

The Hoffman states Ladies 59'ers Golf League had their Mixed Two Ball Foursome Sunday at the Roselle country club. The winners were: 1st - Virginia McAvoy, John Oltyan. 2nd - Bob Broadstock, Louise Volkening 3rd - Harold Magee, Dorothy Broadstock. 4th - Herb Gibson, L. Matson. 5th - W. Volkening, Marie Pickering.

THE SPRING Handicap tourney was won by Dorothy Warder who defeated Gloria Borkenhagen 3 and 2.

The event for last week was 1/3 handicap of the Short Holes. Winners were: Tues: Helen Sutherland, Mary Gillespie, Dorothy Lamberti, Dot Sicher, Barbara Ross. Wed: Shirlee Griffith, Erika Grover, Dorothy Warder.

Snyder Hoffman's Moves Into First

The Snyder Hoffman Drug Team, bird dogging the leaders for the past five weeks, have turned up on top of the heap as a result of last weeks matches.

Jack Brooks, the team's new No. 1 man, permitted Jerry Emrick of Plaza liquors to out-flub him in scoring a win. Tom Glessner was another match winner as was Herb Keesee. Scott MacEachron was the only match winner for losing Plaza Liquors.

Big point winner for the week was Pizza Cottage with 14 out of a possible 16. Roy Jenkins turned in a tidy 43 in winning his match with Jim Gannon, captain of the Buggy Whip team.

HAROLD GILLESPIE, Bill Hanson and Mully Mullendore also swept all points at stake in their matches. Bob Boedicker's Gross 39 was good enough to win a split decision over Ray Larson thereby earning the only two points his team won.

Harve's Food Mart's position was elevated to fourth place from the eighth spot as Captain Bob Rivines, George Davis, Dick Excell and Lindy Clark contributed wins against the opposing Kruss and Barry Sinclair team.

Don McCully was the only match winner for Sinclair, contributing three of the four points they salvaged.

DICK Thompson of the Rainbow Inn turned in a high voltage round of 41 to lead his team to victory over Angie Patel and Ramble Construction.

George Robb, Bill Ross and Tony Montikas were match winners, Tony scoring a 46-14, net 32 which is four under par. Fred Sitzes contributed three of Ramble Construction's four points, Big Angie adding the other.

Bowes Motors, led by Harry Grover, Roy Donovan and Veryl Hootman, took 11 points from the slipping Roselle State Bank team but failed to negotiate a rise out of the cellar.

Jack Sheridan and Frank Marek were match winners for the losing team. Roy Palmer, Captain of State Bank, unconsciously adopted someone else's swing and stumbled around the nine to the tempo of a 53-6, net 47.

Engineers Move Into Top Spot

Position Night in the St. Raymond's Holy Name Society league resulted in some significant changes. Moran Furs, in League No. 1, was nosed out of first place by Spooner Engineering. Busse Automotive put on a spurt that had them taking over fourth place. It's still a close race for there are only eleven points difference between the first and fourth place teams and it's still early in the season.

In League No. 2, Illinois Range is still maintaining its pacesetting groove. Van Driel's Drugs took over third place and Strass' Ladies Wear moved up from seventh place to sixth.

Elks, Redlegs Pace Mount Prospect Loops

The Elks and Red Legs continued to set the pace in the American and National divisions of the Mt. Prospect minor league as they both won their eighth straight games last week.

National division pitchers still are trying to recover from the Elk barrage last week. They walloped the Red Sox, 35-5, the Senators, 14-10, and the Hornets, 15-1.

Mark Kitzing received credit for the win in the Red Sox match, with Bill King racking up the other two wins.

RALPH Anderson's bases-loaded home run helped the Dukes overtake the Hornets, 18-16.

The Indians' Bob Demmert pitched his team to a 15-5 victory over the Sox. Connell Carlson slammed a four run home run for the Indians.

Despite home runs by Carlson and Bach, the Indians lost to the Yankees, 11-7.

In American division action the Red Legs scored an 8-2 triumph over the Pirates.

THE BRAVES moved into second place with a 16-14 victory against the Knights.

Meeske was the winning pitcher in the Giants 14-10 decision over the Phillies.

AAA Cubs Retain Top Slot

by ED COREY

The AAA Cubs strengthened their hold on first place in the Rolling Meadows Little League last week with a 10-8 win over the second place Sox.

After the Cubs jumped off to a three run lead in the first inning, the Sox came back with four runs in their half of the inning.

The Cubs regained the lead in the top of the fifth only to have the Sox go ahead again with a three run rally in the bottom of the fifth.

LARRY GOESKE, the league's leading home run hitter, smashed a two-run four-bagger for the Sox in that inning.

Bob Hickey received credit for the victory and slashed out three hits. Mike Lebben took the loss.

In other games, the Indians overcame a five run Brave lead with a six run fourth inning to beat the Braves, 8-6. Tom Kelly had three base knocks for the winners. Jim Bejrowski was the winning pitcher, with Mike Nolan suffered the defeat.

THE YANKEES moved into a third place tie by scoring five runs in the first inning and coasting to a 12-5 win over the luckless Cardinals.

Micky Muldoon tripled and Alan Butler hit a two run home run for the Cardinals in the fifth inning. Alan Hasse was the winning pitcher, while John Caltagirone absorbed the loss.

Weir Registers First No-Hitter In Palatine LL

Doug Weir fired the first Little League no-hitter of the season in Palatine June 30 to lead the Cubs to an 11-0 win over the Braves in a National Minor League contest. The game was halted at the end of five innings by darkness.

New Season High

When Roy Sievers of the Chicago White Sox hit safely in his 14th straight game July 9th it set a new season high for a White Sox player. Meanwhile, Al Smith has hit safely in 45 of his club's last 55 games.

Glenbrook Entry, Dennis Pietrzak, Cops Jaycee Title

Before a large gallery last Saturday afternoon, Dennis Pietrzak, a 16-year-old Glenbrook lad, won the Arlington Heights Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament at Rob Roy Golf Club.

Twenty-eight young golfers, ranging in age from 10 to 17½, and representing Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Palatine and several neighboring communities, teed off in what ,proved to be an exciting display of youthful talent and perseverence.

IMMEDIATELY after the last three-some holed-out on the 18th, a sudden-death playoff was necessitated between Pietrzak and Chris Bersted, of Mt. Prospect, both registering 78's, and Reggie Hawkinson and Roger Haenggi, also of Mt. Prospect, who netted 79s.

The results of the playoffs found Bersted second, followed by Hawkinson and Haenggi. All four golfers will be sponsored by the Arlington Heights Jaycees at the State Tournament in Glenview later this month. Trophies were awarded the first three finalists.

Kowal Registers No-Hitter

A pitcher and a hitter continued to terrorize opposition in the American league division of the Mt. Prospect little league last week as the Cardinals moved into a comfortable lead.

Greg Kowal tossed a no-hitter for the Cardinals in a 2-0 victory over the Orioles. Kowal fanned 13 and issued three walks. He has struck out 44 in his last three outings.

Jimmy LaRocca, the Oriole hurler, allowed only three hits, giving up base knocks to Kowal, Doherty, and Weber.

WAYNE KUKLINSKI of the Bruning Sox hit for the circuit, a single, double, triple, and home run, to give the Sox a 15-2 win over the Yankees.

He also pitched, allowing only one hit, a bunt single, and struck out 12. The home run was his ninth of the year.

Stevens got the only hit for the Yankees. Al Gibbons socked a home run for the Sox.

The Cardinals took their tenth victory in 11 games, a 7-2 triumph over the Merchant Cubs. Winning pitcher was Manderscheid, who also hit safely twice. Kowal slammed a homer and single for the winners.

THE LOSING pitcher, Byrne, had two of the three Cub hits.

Paced by the hard hitting of Rick Henderson and sound pitching of Mike Carroll, the Yankees defeated the Cubs, 7-3.

Annual LL Day Slated By Sox For August 13

The Chicago White Sox will stage their annual Little League Day at Comiskey Park Saturday afternoon, August 13. All Little Leaguers in uniform and their managers and coaches will be admitted without charge on that date.

The Little Leaguers will enter the park through gates 1, 2 and 11. The Little Leaguers should be at the park by 12 noon.

Three Battle For Lead

The Cardinals, Cubs, and Yankees are still battling for first in the Mt. Prospect Pony league, but they better watch out for the Pirates.

Losers of seven of their first eight games, the Pirates won two straight last week to move out of the league cellar.

Paced by the hitting of Nelson and Ryan, both of whom had two safties, the Pirates dumped the Indians, 18-17. Keith Barger was the winning pitcher.

Behind the pitching of John Davis, they edged the Tigers, 7-5.

THE TWO-HIT pitching of Mike Burke gave the Braves an 8-0 win over the Sox. Burke struck out 14.

Slugger Paul Swanson powered the Indians to two victories, 6-4 over the Cubs and 14-11 over the Cardinals.

Swanson slammed a three-run home run in the sixth inning to give Bob Koopman a victory over the Cards.

He also hit a four bagger, his fourth in as many games, against the Cubs. Ron Moehling was credited with the win.

Arlington Netters Take Two Matches

The men in two Arlington tennis groups registered impressive victories last week, but the women did not fare as well.

Arlington Heights' park district team composed of pre-high school boys edged Hinsdale, a town that has produced some of the best high school tennis squads in the state, 7-6.

ARLINGTON Tennis club men defeated Elmhurst 10-2, losing two doubles matches.

Park district girls lost all four matches to Hinsdale, and the Tennis club women dropped two of three to Elmhurst.

Arlington Tennis club is scheduled to face Wheaton this Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Arlington high school courts.

Lions Increase Loop Lead

The Lions won two games last week to edge away from the second place Schwan Senators by a game and half in the National league division of the Mt. Prospect little league.

They defeated the Builders, 9-6, as Nenckranz received credit for the win. He also tripled, as did Mueller. Ken Traversone knocked a four-bagger for the Lions.

Busse smashed two triples for the losers.

TRAVERstone pitched and hit his second home run in as many games to lead the Lions to a 19-13 win over the Bankers. Nitch and Mueller also hit four base drives for the Lions.

Rick Froehmling busted two home runs in the second inning to lead the Schwan's attack in a 18-8 triumph over the Indians.

Jerry Besenhofer was the winning pitcher.

Union Trails Gunnell

Gunnell Lanes is holding a two point lead over Union hotel in the second half of Friday night league play at Arlington country club.

There were nine birdies recorded in last Friday's action.

Bill Durant pitched up a bird on the first hole. Anton Lenio and Leonard Baeuchler had birds on number two, and Jim Schade on number 3. Warren Erven and Bill Grandstaff birdied the fifth hole. Bud Haut, Bob Noble, and Al Walter were one under on the eighth.

AL SNELL'S eagle on the 14th hole highlighted play two weeks ago.

Snell socked his tee shot 40 yards from the pin, and sank a nine iron approach shot for the only eagle of the season.

Bob La Starge birdied 14, as did Roger Hartel. Hass Gallmeier scored a bird on 12. Doc Drazba birdied the tough 435 yard par four 15th.

BOB NOBLE, Lou Sacdecky, Bud Haut, and Chuck Currie scored birdies on 17.

Union hotel took over the sponsorship of the Grisby team, which won the first half championship.

Lil Benda Triumphs In Golf Loop

Lil Benda won the first flight in the par four holes, less one half handicap, event of the Tri-City Woman's Golf League last week.

Other winners were Evie Rahn, flight B; Reva Adams, flight C; Mary Tures, flight D; and Marjorie Carr, flight E.

Idle Hour Team Cops 1st Place

An equestrian team representing Idle Hour Stables in Park Ridge came home with a first place in a show at Lake Forest July Fourth.

The winning unit, trained by Homer Adcock of Idle Hour, registered a perfect score with no faults in the competition.

Making up the entry were Heather Rodericks, 207 Withorn lane, Mt. Prospect; Evelyn Bacigalupo of Oak Park; Christine Warner of Rockford; and Sharon Sudrick of Half Day.

Idle Hour, located at 8600 Higgins, Park Ridge, will stage a big show Sunday, July 24, with several events slated for the day-long competition.

Pedersen On Golf

Use Same Basic Swing For Each Iron Shot

IMPROVING YOUR IRON PLAY

Hitting your irons is one of the most important parts of the golf game for this is the shot that usually puts the ball in the position for pars and birdies.

When you hit your nine iron to your two iron it is the same basic swing. The loft of the club and the length of the club will determine the distance and the height of your shot.

You want to try and play the ball in the left center of your stance for all of our iron shots, for by doing this you will be swinging the same every time. Some people play the shot a little toward the center of their stance. Try out these two positions of the ball and use the one with the best results for you.

THE NEXT TIME you hit a full shot with a short iron count the number of seconds it takes for the ball to leave the ground and return to the ground. You start counting at the moment of impact and continue until the ball hits the ground. The first bounce will probably be at the count of six or seven.

Then repeat the above procedure with your long irons. Count one at the moment of impact, the ball will bounce at the same count as the short iron. This proves one thing (barring wind resistance); a nine iron shot and a two iron shot will stay in the air practically the same amount of time.

By doing this, you will prove there is little sense in hitting one iron any harder than another. In other words, the secret in good long iron shots is to hit them in the same tempo as the short irons.

IN THE PICTURE at the right you will see two clubs on the ground, one near his feet and one farther away, both in a straight line pointing at the object where the ball is to be hit. By practicing this way you will develop a sound basic swing.

The full swing required of an iron shot calls for a maneuver that for some reason is usually broken into two classes: 1., the pivot and 2., the weight shift.

What ever else the pivot may be or do it consists actually of pulling the right hip out of the way on the back swing and the left hip on the down swing just enough to allow the hands free passage.

THE WEIGHT shift is the end result of the three actions already discussed. First, you swing the club head back with the hands, arms, and shoulders as a unit.

Second, you pause at the top of your swing as with the pitch shot. Third, you hit down on the ball, this is an essential action in all iron shots.

Doing all this there is no other course for your weight to take other than to shift from left to right on the back swing and right to left on the down swing. Practice this and your irons shots will cut strokes off your game.

FRED H. MUELLER, 702 E. Sha Bonee Trail, Mt. Prospect, illustrates the proper technique used in practicing direction. Both clubs are placed in a straight line pointing at the object where the ball is to be hit.

Golden's Extends Hot Streak

The Golden Boys of Golden's Food Shop racked up another victory last Tuesday night in the Mt. Prospect Twilight League while Vern's Pure Oil suffered another heavy defeat and the whole picture has again changed as the league moved into the second half of the 1960 season.

Golden's, extending their hot streak into the fourth week, subdued Licht's Paint Store, 7½-2½, and moved out in front of their rivals, Vern's Pure Oil, by exactly 7½ points as Vern's slipped to second place after falling victim to a clean-sweep 10-0 victory administered by second division Mt. Prospect Electric Construction Co.

MT. PROSPECT Bowling Lanes missed their chance to move above Vern's in the standings as they dropped their match with last place Carl's Food Shop, 6-4. Fourth place Keefer's Pharmacy also lost their match with Kerstings Garden Center, 7-1/6 to 2-5/6, and remained where they were at the start of the evening's activities.

A glance at the league standings will show that while, with the exception of Golden's, there was little actual change in relative positions, the night's activities served to bunch the middle ten teams within a range of less than ten points and a hot streak by any one of them could make decided changes in the final picture.

It is interesting to note that both Vern's and the Bowling Lanes were knocked off by second division teams which would indicate that the new season's handicaps are beginning to have their effect in equalizing the competition.

Low gross for the night was a 38 turned in by Gene Raasch of Carl's Food Shop. The single birdie for the night was scored by Jim Driscoll on the first hole.

League standings July 5:

Golden's Food Shop	58
Vern's Pure Oil	50½
Mt. Prospect Bowling	48½
Keefer's Pharmacy	46 5/6
Morton's Pontiac	46½
Wille Lumber	45½
Kersting's Garden	44 1/6
Licht's Paint	43 1/6
M.P. Elec Constr.	42½
Kirchoff Insurance	42

Three Land Big Fish That Barked Like Dog

by BILL AND BARBARA STRICKLER

Many of us can still remember the thrill of our first fish or our first big fish.

An "oft told tale" in our family and one of my favorite memories is of when I was about seven years old and we were fishing on Penny Slew near Kewanee, with my parents, some friends of the family and their children.

We had been having a grand time, even the littlest girl, 4, had been catching one pan fish after another. Suddenly the fish stopped biting and we separated and went into areas farther apart. We were using bamboo poles and cork bobbers, when we got to a sheltered cove maybe 20 yards from our friends, John and Dorothy and their kids. Dad baited my hook and I threw it in, managing to get the line over a treee limb.

WELL, LET ME tell you, I didn't get a chance to get the line off that limb because when that bobber and hook with the worm hit the water I had a bite and what a bite. I yelled for my Mom and when she got to me, after getting her feet wet and muddy in the hurry to help, she called Dad who had gone off a ways to dig for some more worms, I had our last one inside that fish.

Between the three of us we got that fish in, though the pole broke over that tree limb and Dad had to wade in knee deep to keep the top of the pole and "my fish" from going their merry way. When we finally landed it, what a disappointment.

John said, "It's a dog fish."

Mother questioned "Are you sure? It is such a big fish and if it is a dog fish we will have to throw it back. Barb will be so disappointed. It's her first big fish."

The reply was "Don't you hear it bark?"

AND SURE enough we could hear a small bark. What a disappointment to me and what a joke later, for I found out that dogfish don't bark. John was having fun with everyone with his newly acquired ventriloquist talent.

I sometimes think of that fish and how in later years we found that you could eat dog fish, though it was not as tasty a fish as many others. Yet, I still have to laugh at naive me at 7 really believing a seven pound dog fish could bark!

CANADIAN CAMPING VACATION

Is your vacation coming up? For those of you that like the outdoors, try a camping vacation in the Northwoods. It can be inexpensive and very enjoyable.

Traveling along Route 70 out of International Falls onto Route 17, you will find lakes by the hundreds that offer excellent natural campsites with wonderful fishing, and many have natural sand beaches for swimming and boat launching.

TAKING THE Red Lake road still farther up from Route 17 will put you in contact with still more lakes, bodies of water virtually unfished. Most of the water is so fresh and pure that it can be used for drinking and cooking purposes right from the lake.

Don't forget to take your camera along. There is a good chance to get pictures of wildlife in its natural habitat, such as black bears, moose and deer, and small predator type animals. Also sometimes on the scene are beautifully plummaged, ruffed grouse, flocks of mallards and other type ducks.

A new road has been opened up along the Northern border of Lake Superior that is virtually uninhabitated with many, many lakes and natural campsites. It can be reached by going to Fort William and taking Route 17 to Nipigon where the road heads east to Ste St. Marie.

AS YET THERE are few stores or filling stations along the highway. It would be wise to stock up on supplies and an extra can of gas in case of emergency.

We have spent some very happy and eventful vacations hunting and fishing in this province of Ontario and have never been disappointed in the country or with the people who are courteous and helpful all the time. The custom authorities have been very swift in their inspections and are through in a matter of minutes.

For those who prefer cabins instead of camping, there are many at reasonable prices in most of these areas.

LOST CAMPERS

In this popular era of family camp outs one of the precautions is the prevention of getting lost while exploring the area. It is very easy to get your directions turned around, especially for children.

A supply of inexpensive whistles should be taken with. These should be attached to the childs belt or pocket with twine. A whistle can be heard much farther than a child's voice. It should also be instilled in their minds to sit down and blow the whistle at intervals when they are unsure of the camp's direction. Be sure to tell them that mother or daddy will find them much faster if they remain still instead of wandering around as children can easily be missed in unfamiliar places.

FOR ADULTS simply use common sense and a combination of eyes and brains if without a compass. For example sighting objects for walking in a straight line and using a watch and walking in a square or rectangle. Such as walking east for five minutes, north for five minutes, west for five minutes and south for five minutes, turning a right angle at the end of each walked direction. This should bring you right back to your campsite.

$50,000 Equipoise Mile On Arlington Park Card

The tempo quickens and the competition becomes sharper at Arlington Park as the popular northwest suburban plant Saturday presents the 20th running of the coveted $50,000 Equipoise Mile, annually one of the fastest, most hotly contested handicaps of Chicago racing.

The Equipoise, which salutes the famed Chocolate Soldier who for years owned the Arlington mark for one mile, highlights the Saturday program and will be the lone stakes of Arlington's second week of sport at its home base.

Heading the banner roster of eligible for the Equipoise Mile is Brookfield Farm's Intentionally, now successfully gliding along the comeback trail with a recent victory in the Toboggan Handicap at Belmont Park, and remembered for a thumping victory in last year's Wright Memorial at Washington Park in which he sizzled the mile in track record time of 1:33 1/5, equalling Swaps' world mark for the popular distance.

ALSO LISTED prominently among the nominees for the Equipoise is E. B. Johnston's Fleet Nasrullah, whose victory pattern in California the past few months numbers triumphs in the $100,000 Californian and $20,000 Hollywood Premiere Handicaps.

Another possible invader is Emil Dolce's Camden Handicap winner, Manassa Mauler.

The home guard won the outclassed, however, Calumet Farm's eccentric On-and-On is being groomed for the Equipoise as is Kerr Stable's Top Charger, winner of the Citation Mile a month back at Washington Park.

MRS. PRISCILLA D. Willis' Little Tytus, who was a close-up third in the Citation, also a definite candidate for the Equipoise, while Sunnyside Stable's speedy Resolved, best known for his grass course exploits, and Fred W. Hooper's hard-hitting Olymar also should be at the startime block Saturday.

A strong challenger will be Charles H. Wacker III's Clandestine, who returned to his winning ways a week ago at Washington Park.

Among other stout contenders are Kennedy-Veale Stable's Alavin, Kerr Stables' Demobolize and Hasty House Farms' Martini II., whose late charges already have found him third in the Grassland Turf and a close up second to Dunce in the recent Stars and Stripes Handicap here.

From June 17 to the 28th was vacation time for the Robert Swiercz family of N. Beverly ave. Their destination was Odessa, Texas where they visited with Mrs. Swiercz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Meadows. Enroute to Texas Mr. and Mrs. Swiercz, Toni and Randy stopped in Tulsa to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard DePrimo. Renewing old acquaintances took up most of their time in Odessa, but the Swierczes did manage a side trip to the Carlsbad Caverns.

A fun-filled week of hiking, boating and swimming has been enjoyed by Barbara Buschart of 622 N. Beverly, who has just returned from Lake Geneva Youth camp.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson entertained 12 guests at a picnic in their backyard at 628 N. Beverly. The ladies in this group are members of a club which has been meeting for 23 years and which was formed when they were all neighbors in Chicago.

ALTHOUGH THE weather was quite cool, fishing was very satisfactory in Minnesota where Mr. and Mrs. Emil Engquist of 634 N. Beverly, spent their vacation. For two weeks they divided their time with friends at International Falls and at the Isle of View Lodge in Northome.

Over the weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Richter of N. Dryden, were Mr. and Mrs. Al Depies and their daughter Jane of Belgium, Wis. The Richters are happy to have their son Bill home for summer vacation. He is a student at the University of Denver.

Happy birthday wishes are sent to John Behrens who celebrated his first birthday June 28. Besides aunts, uncles and cousins, grandmothers Mrs. Robert Catherwood and Mrs. Carl Behrens came for the occasion. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jan Behrens of Brighton pl.

A BUSINESS trip to New York city for Dad was an occasion for a vacation for the rest of the Edgar Neas family. Mrs. Neas and children, Philip, Carolyn, David and Betsy, accompanied Mr. Neas by car to New York where they stayed at the Abbey hotel. While Mr. Neas took care of business matters his family viewed all the wonderful sights of New York.

Other returned vacationers are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glader of N. Brighton. Accompanied by their 4-year-old son Gary and friends from Elmhurst, they spent five leisurely days at Christiana Lodge in Edwardsburg, Mich. Swimming, rowboating, golf and the wonderful food at the lodge, made their vacation time seem all too short, but they are looking forward to a return trip next year. (A

Round 'n About Westgate

Last Thursday afternoon Paul, son of Mary and Bob Richard, 307 S. Illinois dr., celebrated his fifth birthday with a luncheon for neighborhood friends. Those invited were Dennis O'Connell, Vicky Meline, Bobby Bledsoe, Francine Willis, Dianne Glomsky, Gary Teletzke, Johnny Dasher, Michael Lazor and Jimmy and Patty Dasher. Paul's sister, Robin, and brother, Jimmy, were also on hand to help celebrate.

Lillian and John Ulizzi, 1516 W. Grove, returned Saturday afternoon from a week's visit with Lillian's mother, Mrs. Arthur Breaux in Homer, La. While there the Ulizzis and their daughters, Kathy, Dale and Debbie, visited many friends and relatives. John enjoyed fishing and returned home with a good catch. Kathy stayed for a longer visit with her grandmother and will return with another sister, Rosie, and her family.

Last Thursday Sandy, daughter of Ann and Jim Wroe, 206 S. Yale, entertained several friends with a cookout at her home. After playing games in the yard they went inside to dance. Guests were Kathy Dean, Diane Baker, Nancy Hey, Rick Fanner, Peter Loris, George De Palma, Jeff Davis and Steve Castor. Marsha Grey was unable to attend.

Gary, son of Elaine and Jerry Teletzke, 1407 S. Illinois dr., celebrated his fourth birthday July 11 with a luncheon party. Those invited, Chris McCall, Paul Richard, Carl Blackman, Bobby and Donny Bledsoe, Bobby Cinnato and Michael Lazor, were excited over the birthday cake decorated with a tiny wooden train.

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the Chicago Figure Skating club, including Marian & Joe Reinhardt, 205 S. Yale, met for a 4-day get-together last weekend in East Lansing, Mich., where they used the rink at Michigan State university. The Reinhardts' children, Glenn and Allison, enjoyed a visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lahtimen, in their summer home in Michigan while their parents were away. A younger daughter, Vanessa, stayed at home with the other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reinhardt.

Gianna and Gordon Reifstahl, 204 S. Yale, have had Gianna's sister and husband, Lily and Tino De Palma, for a visit. This called for many get-togethers. While here they visited Chicago sites and had luncheon at the Pump room. Last Friday they went to the Glenview Officers club for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Porter of Barberton, Ohio, visited their daughter, Carol, and husband, Dick Mooney at 204 S. Illinois dr. recently. While they were here the Mooneys took a weekend vacation at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton. Their daughter, Carol Beth, returned home with her grandparents for a 3-week visit.

Illene and Bob Dasher, 1505 S. Illinois dr., and their children, Bobby, Mary Illene, Johnny, Jimmy and Patty, returned Saturday evening from a 2-week stay in Elyria, O. They went there to look for a home, as they will soon be moving. They also stayed with friends, Norma and Dallas Mc Kean, at their lake cottage for a few days.

MILLIE AND BUZZ Nelson, 120 S. Reuter, and their daughters, Jan and Janee, returned last weekend from a vacation trip to Lake Tetonka, Minn. Millies' sister, Esther, and husband, Mur Hermel, joined them for a week of fishing and sunbathing.

Margaret and Bill Meinhardt, 208 S. Reuter, reported a wonderful 3-week trip through Colorado. A week at a lodge in Shoshone National park offered many activities such as hiking, swimming, horseback riding and fishing. They went on to Colorado Springs, where they visited former Westgate residents, Betty and Fred Hoffman.

Mary Depew and children, Jimmy, Kathy and Nancy, have returned from a visit with Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Clarke, in Westfield, N. Y. While there they spent much time at the beach on Lake Chautauqua. Jimmy is home recuperating from a tonsillectomy Tuesday in Northwest Community hospital.

Ann Hanson has returned from a trip to Peoria, bringing home her daughter, Karen, who had been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carroll, for the past two weeks.

Illene Dasher entertained the ladies of Illinois dr. in her home at 1505 S. Illinois Tuesday evening. Those invited for the monthly get-together were Rosalind Mc Cracken, Dee Perry, Mary Sowers, Ann Hanson, Peggy Keller, Mary Glomsky, Onita Blackman, Norma Cinnato, Elaine Teltzke, Mary Richard, Lauretta Willis, Becky Hackbarth, Carol Mooney and Sarabel Lazor.

A LUNCHEON birthday party celebrated the seventh birthday of Kevin, son of Beverly and Jack McCall, 1406 W. Grove, Saturday afternoon. After lunch his friends, Mark Botterman, cousin, Michael McCall, and brothers, Jeffrey and Chris, attended the showing of "Dumbo" at Arlington theater.

Friends and neighbors extend sympathy to Edward Margel and family, 126 S. Dwyer, on the recent death of his wife. (A

Vi and Ray Downing and daughters, Bonnie and Debbie, are in their new home at 103 W. Orchard, Mt. Prospect. They formerly lived at 407 N. Yale.

Last Friday Joyce and Skip Akerlund and son, Doug, had a going-away party for Carolyn and Bob Herigodt and family. First they treated them to dinner at Brandts, then returned to the Akerlunds, with them and Ruth and Steve Stein, Barbara and Tom Ferguson, Bernice and Barney Callanhan, Olive and Pat Moran, Lil Zavison, Andy Graczyk, Dorothy and Bob Agnes and Betty Lou and Bill Townsend.

Larry Smith Jr., 1611 Johanna terr., returned Wednesday night after having spent five days visiting a classmate from St. Procopius, who lives in Joliet.

Esther and Tony Van Bladel, 108 N. Reuter, and children, Gerald, Alan, Kenneth, Robert and Patricia, returned Monday afternoon from a week's camping trip to Devils Lake, Wis. They visited the Wisconsin Dells, where Tony took the boys on the duck trip and Esther took their daughter to Santa Claus Village. Two trips were made to Baraboo, one to visit the Circus Museum, and the other when Tony took Alan to the hospital with a cut finger. Their oldest son, Tom, had other commitments and spent the week batching it at home.

Shop Acquires New Ownership

Two Chicago couples, Dolores and Ray Ebeling and Margaret and Walter Kuhn, took over the Terri Lee Specialty shop in Elms shopping center, Arlington Heights, July 1.

The former owner, Francis Peters, 1103 W. Burgoyne, Arlington Heights, is moving to Pompano Beach, Fla., with her husband this fall.

Mrs. Peters started Terri Lee in the shopping center on Northwest hwy., just east of State rd., moving to Elms when that shopping center was built.

Four Winners Named In Marathon Contest

Roselle Woman Named

NORMA THIEMANN

Miss Norma Thiemann, 124 North Prospect st., Roselle, has been named an editor in the Guidance Services department of Science Research Associates, 259 E. Erie, Chicago.

SRA is one of the largest educational publishing firms in the U.S., serving schools, government, foundations, business, industry, and individuals.

THE DEPARTMENT in which Miss Thiemann is employed develops educational, vocational and personal guidance materials for use in schools and other youth-serving organizations.

For the past 12½ years Miss Thiemann has edited Aglite, the monthly employee publication of the Illinois Agricultural association. She had prior service in the public relations department of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, and the sales departments of Rit Products corporation and Hotpoint, Inc.

Miss Thiemann is a graduate of Wheaton Community high school and attended Northwestern university.

Four winners were announced this week in northwest suburbs as part of the Marathon Picnic Sweepstakes.

This week's prize is a Kodak Brownie 8 movie camera. Prizes in the Sweepstakes are awarded every Monday by Marathon dealers in Addison, Palatine, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

THE WINNERS and the stations:

David A. Hurd, 22 N. Michigan, Addison, at Frank and Harold's Marathon Service, 45 E. Lake, Addison.

Gustavo Rodriguez, 484 Central, Highland Park, at Ed's Marathon Service, Hicks and Dundee rds., Palatine.

Hanover Builders Caters To Veterans

• BUSINESS • BUILDING • IMPROVING

SUBURBANITES IN THE NEWS — Design for Living

World War II Veterans will be getting special attention from July 9th through the 24th to enable them to use their G. I. home loan rights in northwest suburban Hanover Park.

Matt Toolis and Barney Dahl, owners of Hanover Builders, Inc., announced a unique "sell-a-thon" to accommodate the G. I. home-seekers whose eligibility rights will expire on July 25, 1960.

To qualify under Veterans Administration rules announced last week, a World War II veteran must have made a bonafide application prior to the expiration date on a specified property accompanied by his honorable discharge or certificate of eligibility. Individual requests by the veterans themselves would not be considered by V. A., it was said.

"BEGINNING July 9th, our doors will be open at 9:00 a.m. and will stay open all day long until Midnight, or later ,to accommodate even splitshift and graveyard shift workers," said Teolis.

"We do not want any eligible veteran to miss out on his last opportunity to buy a house. If necessary, we will stay open 24-hours a day. We expect this will be the case on week-ends," he said.

Teolis estimated that there are several hundred thousands of World War II vets in the Chicago area who have not used their G. I. home loan rights, coupled with an untold number of other vets who have already used their rights but who, under certain conditions, can qualify for a second G. I. loan.

ANOTHER untapped and possibly un-informed group are those vets who have previously been told they were not eligible to buy elsewhere, but who actually are eligible.

"The Veterans separation or discharge papers could be the most valuable papers he owns, if he is eligible. The 5¼% G. I. Loan with no down payment terms is unquestionably the biggest bargain in today's mortgage market. A veteran who is in doubt should not leave it to chance that he may or may not be eligible, but should investigate at once," said Teolis.

Teolis also made the announcement that Hanover Builders will have new FHA terms available to all home buyers by the time the G.I. Bill expires for World War II vets, with terms as low as $450.00 Down and payments of $84.12 a month.

HANOVER Builders began its current sales program late in April of this year, offering five three-bedroom models including colonials, ranches, T-shapes, contemporaries and split levels available in 27 exterior variations. The homes range in price from $13,900 to $18,500, including a complete house and 65x120' fully improved lot.

All homes are available with or without basements, garages and face brick trim. All have natural gas forced air heat. To date, the building firm has racked up 152 sales, most of which are under V. A. warranty.

Of its 376-home subdivision, Barney Dahl, who heads the construction end of the business says 110 homes are now under construction with another 90 homes slated for completion and occupancy before the end of 1960. The balance of the homes will be built early in 1961.

Hasbrook Builders Offer Four Bedroom Model Home

Home-buying families are bigger today than ever before, so an Arlington Heights home builder is bringing out a four-bedroom model to meet the demand.

The home, a single-level ranch model with attached garage, two complete tiled baths, and separate dining room, was announced recently by Hasbrook Construction Co., Inc., which is building 532 homes in the suburb.

OTHER FEATURES of the home which adapt it to large family living include a 19 x 11-foot family room adjacent to the kitchen, and a mud-room where the children can shed their outer clothes before going through the house.

The colonial-styled home has 1,676 square feet of living area, and 1,956 square feet under roof. Insulated brick veneer and frame construction is used. A basement is optional.

Numerous Chicago housing experts have cited the home for good design. Among its features usually associated with luxury-class homes are a tiled entry foyer with guest closet, rear-facing living room, and island-type kitchen with snack bar, built-in electric range and oven, birch cabinets, and formica counter tops.

THE MASTER bedroom, measuring 13 x 11 feet, has a private bath complete with vanity and dressing closet. The 12 x 12-foot dining room is a room to itself, separated from the living room and kitchen, yet accessible to both.

Price of the house is $23,750, with VA, FHA, and conventional mortgages available. Included in the price is a lot approximately 66 x 135 feet, seeded lawn and foundation shrubs, oak hardwood flooring; gas forced warm air and hot water heat; and all improvements.

The Hasbrook subdivision, which now has nearly 300 families, is located in the northeast section of incorporated Arlington Heights. The model is on Palatine road three blocks west of Arlington Heights road.

Public and parochial schools, fast Chicago & North Western rail service, bus transportation, churches, and shopping are conveniently located. (BB

THIS COLONIAL-STYLED ranch home by Hasbrook has four bedrooms, a separate dining room, rear-facing living room, two complete tiled baths, island kitchen with snack bar, and attached garage. It provides 1,676 square feet of living space, and is priced at $23,750. Model is located on Palatine road three blocks west of Arlington Heights road in incorporated Arlington Heights.

Draftsman Retires At Edison

HARRY OAS

After 37 years of service with Commonwealth Edison company's engineering departments, Harry Oas, 905 W. Ellis st., Arlington Heights, retired July 1.

He started in 1922 as a draftsman, became a senior draftsman in 1949 and since 1954 had been a designer in the drafting department.

Gardening and photography are Oas' favorite hobbies and he is active in Masonic organizations. He is a member of Arlington Heights lodge, A.F. & A.M., Royal Arch captain of the Palatine Royal Arch Masons, member of Cryptic council of Elgin and Bethel Commandery of Elgin. He is also a member of Our Saviour Lutheran church in Arlington Heights.

Married 22 years, Oas and his wife, Florence, have a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Selan, of 704 S. Dunton st., Arlington Heights. They plan to travel in the United States during their future leisure.

Lawn-Boy Dealer Offers Program For Youngsters

John Bowen of Bowen Hardware, 121 East Davis st., Arlington Heights, a Lawn-Boy power mower dealer in this area, is presenting a student summer income program which promises to keep acres of local lawns well groomed this season, as well as grooming some future businessmen among ambitious local youths.

The project is called the "Lawn Boss" program. It offers boys of high school age and up a chance to own their own power mower, outlines a sales plan for boys to acquire their own customers for regular mowing chores, guides the lads in good business practices, and will reward one of the industrious participants with a share of valuable corporation stock.

JOHN BOWEN of the local dealership launched his "Lawn Boss" program recently for local boys. Each boy, or his parents, purchases a Lawn-Boy power mower, according to the plan. The boy may acquire the mower for cash, or with a down payment to the dealer, or he may accept financing from his parents. In any case, the boy pays for the mower from earnings by mowing lawns.

A kit of his own "business" materials explains how the boy can solicit customers, contract for an agreement to keep his customers' lawns and yards mowed and attended weekly, provides a bookkeeping system so he can repay the money for purchase of his mower, how to fix fees for lawn mowing, and finally how he may end the Summer activities with a fair profit for his endeavors.

"Uniforms" in the form of "Lawn Boss" tee shirts and baseball-type caps are given without charge to each boy who participates in the mowing program.

IN ADDITION, an opportunity to compete in an essay contest at the end of the Summer, opens the door to the boy for local and national recognition, and for the chance to earn a valuable share of stock in Outboard Marine corporation, Waukegan, manufacturer of the power mower. Lawn-Boy is a division of Outboard Marine corporation.

Local boys may enlist in the "Lawn Boss" program or may acquire additional details, alone or accompanied by a parent, by visiting the local Lawn-Boy dealer's place of business, located at 121 East Davis st., Arlington Heights. (BB

Employees Honored For Ideas

At recent ceremonies, 46 employees were presented with gold or diamond pins by the Bell & Howell company in recognition of their award winning ideas.

In addition to the pins, they received a total of $34,200 for their ideas which saved the company in excess of $93,000.

Local diamond pin winner was Bruce Renc, 1035 Cedar lane, Elk Grove.

GOLD PIN winners included Ronald F. Ralph, 1004 Gregory, Mt. Prospect, and Delmer G. Gerth, 262 N. Schubert, Palatine.

Norman S. Andersen, 286 Lincoln terrace, Buffalo Grove was honored with both pins.

An employee receives a gold pin for submitting three suggestions that are accepted during a 12-month period. Diamond pins are awarded for a suggestion that saves $1,000 or more. (BB

Expansion Program Planned For Shalom

More than 36 acres, at an additional cost of approximately $250,000, are being developed as part of the expansion program of Shalom Memorial Park, Rand and Wilke roads, Palatine, only all-Jewish garden plan burial ground in the Middle West, it was announced by Leo E. Aronson, president of the Park.

According to Aronson, contracts have been let for work on four new sections. This will more than double the developed area of Shalom, dedicated in 1956. Work being done includes grading, drainage, roadways and seeding of grass. Planting and landscaping is scheduled for 1961.

Aronson explained that "with more than 3,000 families having provided family estates at Shalom Memorial Park, it has become necessary to inaugurate this latest development program to amply meet the needs of the community. Sixteen synagogues and the Jewish War Veterans, Department of Illinois, have sections at Shalom Memorial Park, and the additional developed area will enable the Park to serve more congregations and families."

HE ALSO STATED that "we anticipate that this program will be adequate for the next 5 years at the present rapid growth of the Park." More land is available for development in the future, he added.

The work is being done under the supervision of Herschel Auerbach, executive vice-president of the Park organization. Architect is Max Alper of Alper and Alper, Chicago, while landscape design is by Hilbert E. Dahl and Associates, Louisville, Ky. Engineers and surveyors are Peco and Associates of Chicago, with Harold Olson acting as consultant.

Contracts have been let to Doetsch Bros., of Wheeling, for grading; William Ziegler & Son, Inc., Round Lake, for drainage; and Skokie Valley Asphalt Co., Des Plaines, for roads and paving. Raymond Russow, superintendent of Shalom Memorial Park, is in charge of gardening and planting. (BB

Nursing Home Holiday Picnic

Mrs. C. H. Kramer, administrator of the Plum Grove Nursing Home of Palatine, and Paul Ellingsen, of the Arlington Heights Rest Home, were among the 90 nursing home administrators from the United States and Hawaii who attended the Institute on Nursing Home Administration.

The Institute was conducted by the American Hospital with the American Nursing Home association June 29 through July 1 at the new American Hospital association building on Lake Shore dr. in Chicago.

The object of the Institute was to bring nursing homes and hospitals into closer cooperation with each other and with other community health services, and to continue raising the standards of patient care.

The sessions were conducted by top personnel in the hospital field and discussed such subjects as standard setting, financial problems, community health services and personnel procedures.

Safety Council Advises Caution With Firearms

"Bang! Bang! You're dead!"

Sound like a child's game? It is! Yet, many adults play the game unintentionally with real guns.

Every year, the National Safety Council points out about 2,400 persons are killed accidentally by firearms. The main victims are persons 15-24 years of age, and children under 15, in that order.

MANY FIREARMS fatalities come in off-hunting months, such as during the summer. Firearms take about 200 lives every month of the year. Exclusive of home deaths, people using the weapons kill 1,200 persons annually.

The 1,200 away-from-home firearms deaths don't always involve hunting, according to the Council, whose records show only 1 out of 3 away-from-home firearms deaths results from a hunting accident.

In Illinois, for example, more deaths in a recent year came from such assorted activities as playing with a gun, handling a gun and target shooting than from actually hunting.

WHAT ACTIONS led to the Illinois firearms fatalties?

Handing a gun to another person and wrestling for a gun, for instance. One death came in a freak accident: Someone thought Russian roulette would be greater sport than hunting.

How can firearms accidents be avoided?

1. Treat all firearms as if they were loaded.
2. Don't release the safety until just before you shoot.
3. Never fool around with a lethal weapon, loaded or unloaded.
4. Don't clean a firearm when lots of people are around. Make sure all cartridges have been removed from the weapon.
5. Keep firearms unloaded and out of reach of children and irresponsible adults.
6. Never point a weapon at anything you don't intend to shoot.
7. Don't practice-shoot at bottles or tin cans. For one thing, it's easy for bullets to ricochet. (BB

Rezoning Planned For Barrington

Plans for rezoning 200 acres on the eastern edge of Barrington to single-family residential sites intended for professional and buiness executive homes was presented to the Barrington plan commission Tuesday evening by Chicago Construction company, developer of comparable sites in Deerfield, Glencoe and Northbrook.

The public hearing, in the village council chambers, served as a guide to the village board in considering the company's request for annexation of the property.

The area is adjacent to the eastern boundary of the village and is bisected into approximately equal 100 acre sections by County Line road.

CHICAGO Construction Company, 707 Dundee rd., Northbrook, has revealed plans to develop the area into a residential community of luxury homes along broad curvilinear streets on irregularly shaped lots averaging 15,000 square feet. A new sewer system financed by the builder, is part of the proposal.

Brothers Harold and Ben Friedman, owners of the company, say they plan ultimately to develop a community of 344 homes on the property, with construction spread over a period of years. First model homes could be built on the site within 90 days of annexation, but acutal move-ins could not be expected before the summer of 1961, they said.

Of major interest to villagers is the company's plan to construct a $150,000 sanitary sewer system to serve its own property and the north side of the village, which has suffered a lack of adequate sewer facilities for some time.

Oil Dealers Honored By Shell

Some 250 service station dealers from Illinois and Indiana were guests of the Shell Oil company June 28, at a luncheon held in the Congress hotel, Chicago.

The dealers who attended were winners in Shell's 1960 clean-up campaign. Prizes were awarded each dealer and following the luncheon they attended the Chicago Cubs - Milwaukee Braves baseball game in Wrigley Field.

"Shell honored these dealers," said Harry O. Krass, 418 W. Wilson, Palatine, retail manager of Shell, "for the high standards of cleanliness maintained at their service stations."

Health Dept. Moves To New Quarters

On July 1, exactly 20 years from the day they moved in, the Cook County Department of Public Health moved its administrative office to new quarters at 329 S. Wood st.

The old offices, nestled between the giant wings of the County hospital at 737 S. Wolcott st., was literally bursting at the seams with personnel, equipment, and files. The new office provides much needed space, plus greater accessibility for the public.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners, under the direction of President Daniel Ryan, authorized the move earlier this year and made funds available in the current budget to cover the costs.

THE SUBURBAN area served by the department of health has more than doubled in population in the past twenty years to well over a million people. The staff of the health department has similarly undergone tremendous change. In 1940, for example, the department was able to offer little more than a rural nursing service.

However, the department now contains a complete public health team, under the direction of Dr. John B. Hall. Public health nurses work in homes, schools, and assist community groups. Sanitarians and engineers perform vital functions to safeguard public and private water, food, milk, and sewage supplies. Also, physicians, dentists, nutritionists, health educators, statisticians, and a veterinarian all employ the tools and skills of their professions in the cause of protecting the health of the public.

However, Dr. Hall has a pressing problem in locating additional qualified workers for employment. More help is needed, to keep abreast of the "population explosion" and its staggering load of health problems but, unfortunately, the entire nation is faced with a shortage of professional health personnel.

The new quarters will be a significant step forward for the department. Not only should the public find the new location more accessible, but the health department staff shall also be greatly assisted by the modernized facilities and increased room. And, future expansion of services will be much easier to accomplish in the new building. (BB

Heidkamp Joins Staff

George L. Heldkamp, of 141 Forest Park lane, Roselle, has joined the administrative staff at MacNeal Memorial hospital, Berwyn, for a year's residency to complete requirements for a master's degree in hospital administration.

The residency program will take Heidkamp through all departments involved in hospital operation under the supervision of Francis J. McCarthy, MacNeal administrator. These include personnel, maintenance, central supply, dietary, nursing, accounting and other important hospital administrative departments.

Heidkamp was born in Chicago in 1930 and is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame. In 1957 he received a master's degree in business administration from the University of Chicago. His second master's degree will come from Northwestern university's hospital administration program.

Heidkamp served as an Infantry officer with the U.S. Marine corps for three years and saw overseas service in Korea. He and his wife, Alice, have five children.

Commuter Coaches To Be Pre-Cooled

Chicago and North Western railway's new air-conditioned commuter streamliners will be pre-cooled at all coach yards and terminals before commuters hop aboard for trips to and from the loop.

Special "plug-in" facilities at ten points in Chicago and the suburbs are now being installed by Public Service company and Wisconsin Electric Power company to be ready for the road's complete modernization of suburban service in coming months with air-conditioned, electrically heated, push-pull trains.

THE TRAINS WILL be pre-heated by the same electrical outlets during the winter months.

Called "Electric Service Centers," the powerful transformer facilities are already installed or under construction at West Chicago, Des Plaines, Barrington, Crystal Lake, Harvard, Lake Geneva, Waukegan, Kenosha and in North Western's downtown terminal and Chicago coach yards.

F. V. Koval, director of commuter service, explained that current for cooling and heating the push-pull trains while en route is provided by the locomotives. Each of the streamlined locomotives is equipped with an auxiliary Each bi-level coach with seating for 161 riders has air-conditioners of 16-ton capacity.

But for both pre-cooling and pre-heating in outlying coach yards on nightly layovers, the push-pull streamliners will be plugged into utility company power lines.

ELECTRIC current coming into the service centers is stepped down to 480 volts for plug-in use by the railway. This same voltage is supplied by the diesel generators when the trains are on commuter runs.

Total cost to the North Western railway for the stand-by installations will exceed $120,000, Koval said. But the troublesome freezing of steam piping in sub-zero weather and the maintenance of steam piping in coach yards will be eliminated by the new electric outlets.

"The fully automatic cooling and electric heating of the new coaches takes the guesswork out of temperature control, summer and winter," Koval said.

INSTALLATIONS in Chicago, Des Plaines, Waukegan and Kenosha are already completed, work will start at Harvard and Williams Bay.

With 33 push-pull trains already in weekday service on North Western's three divisions, C&NW will receive delivery of the remaining coaches for complete modernization of all trains starting about August 1. The bi-level coaches will be delivered at the rate of approximately 10 each month, Koval said.

Heaviest Traffic Over Tollway During Holiday

An estimated 544,000 motor vehicles traveled approximately 15,700,000 miles over the 187-mile Illinois Tollway over the four-day Fourth of July weekend.

Although it was the heaviest concentration of traffic since the tollway opened, there were no traffic fatalities. A total of 14 accidents were reported of which three involved personal injury and eleven property damage.

Charles L. Dearing, executive director of the Illinois Toll Highway Commission, reported that traffic revenue for the four-day weekend was $357,891, 38.5 per cent higher than the same holiday period in 1959, establishing a new high record for a holiday weekend. Saturday, July 2, established a new high for a single day's revenue, $96,142.

PRELIMINARY traffic revenue of the Illinois Tollway for June of this year was $1,900,409 as compared to $1,471,930 for the same month a year ago, an increase of $428,479 or 29.1 per cent.

Revenue figures, subject to audit adjustment, indicate traffic revenues of $8,353,471 for the first six months of 1960 as compared with $5,663,659 for the same period of 1959, an increase of $2,689,812 or 47.5 per cent.

Average daily toll revenue for June, 1960, was $63,347 compared to $49,064 for the same month a year ago, an increase of $14,283 or 29.1 per cent. Average daily toll revenue for the first six months of 1960 was $45,898 as compared to $31,291 for the same period in 1959, an increase of $14,607 or 46.7 per cent.

Commercial t ffic revenue for the period January 1 through June 22, 1960, amounted to $1,735,647 as compared to $1,034,242 for the same period in 1959, an increase of $701,405 or 67.8 per cent. (BB

Local Girl Receives Wings

NANCY ANN MARCIS

Nancy Ann Marcis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo J. Marcis, of 325 Diana ct., Bensenville, recently won her silver wings as an American Airlines stewardess and is now assigned to flight duty out of the company's crew base at Buffalo (N.Y.) Airport.

Miss Marcis graduated from York Community high school, in Elmhurst, and attended Northern Illinois university, at De Kalb, where she majored in general education. She did general office work before entering stewardess training.

Before winning her wings she completed a five and a half week course at the company's stewardess college, in Ft. Worth, Tex., during which she studied many subjects ranging from conversation and food service to meteorology and radio navigation.

A blue-eyed blonde, Miss Marcis is 5'4" tall and weighs 120 pounds. She was winter carnival queen during her freshman year at Northern Illinois University.

Keep Seeds In Cool Location

Enthusiastic gardeners often inquire whether it is advisable to save seed from this year's annual flowers.

G. M. Fosler, University of Illinois floriculturist, says you can save the seed for use next year. But he points out that it will often not produce flowers like the original variety, particularly if other varieties are now growing nearby.

IN THE NEW F-1 hybrids, such as in petunias, marigolds and snapdragons, much of the seed is set. Because of the genetic nature of these varieties, however, you almost never get plants with flowers resembling the parents. They will usually be a mixture of colors. Therefore, it is always advisable to buy new seed of the F-1 varieties, Fosler advised.

For best germination next spring, seed that you save or buy should be stored in a cool, dry location. For further details, see Illinois Circular 796, "An Easy Method for Germinating Flower Seeds Plus Seed Storage Hints." You can obtain this circular from your county farm adviser. (BB

Oak Park Savings Pays High Dividend

John P. Domeier, president of Oak Park Federal Savings, reporting on the association's growth, said, "On June 30th we paid to savers a dividend of more than a million and a half dollars--a new all-time high record for a single dividend period. Oak Park Federal Savings has paid a total of nearly 15 million dollars to savers through the years, in uninterrupted semiannual returns.

"Today's total resources of $110,000,000.00 represent an increase of more than 600 per cent over 1950's figure of $16,900,000.00," he added.

"We received our federal charter in 1934, a bad depression year. But by the end of that first year our association was on its feet, with $59,000 in resources, and almost $400 in reserves. Six years later -- in 1940 -- resources had climbed to more than $390,000.00.

"IN 1950 OUR earning rate was 2½ per cent. Today savings earn at a 4 per cent rate. "Our own progress, and that of other financial institutions, reflects a healthy pattern of continued security consciousness in our country," Domeier continued.

"We place strong emphasis upon savings safety and availability; upon customer service; and upon the greatest savings profit possible, consistent with our interpretation of savers' safety. These policies are helping Oak Park Federal Savings and other associations who think as we do, to realize another great savings year in 1960," he explained.

At St. Ambrose

Steven Miller, son of Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Miller, 908 Emerson ct., Mt. Prospect, has been accepted as one of 141 students from outside the local area as freshmen for the fall semester at St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Iowa.

Steven is a June graduate of Notre Dame high school in Niles. His father is a St. Ambrose alumnus. (CC

At Wisconsin

Patricia Sheruey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sheruey, 26 Stonegate Dr., Prospect Heights, visited the University of Wisconsin Campus during the past week to register for studies at the university in September.

Patricia was taking advantage of the summer advance registration—orientation program for new freshmen. The program was established to help young people make their transition into university life easier both for themselves and their parents.

At Southern Illinois

Fifty high school students are attending specialized workshops in journalism, radio and television, debate, drama and art at Southern Illinois university at Carbondale this summer. It's the fourth year in which SIU has sponsored such programs through which superior high school sophomores and juniors are given a chance at additional training.

The workshops began July 5 and conclude August 1.

Attending the journalism workshop from Palatine are Margo Englehardt and Bonnie Mastin.

At St. Procopius

Nineteen winners of Illinois State scholarships have enrolled in the freshman class at St. Procopius college in Lisle for the fall semester.

Among those planning to attend the college are Peter Weiler, 209 S. HiLusi, Mt. Prospect, and Miles Patterson, rt. 3, Palatine.

Kosmach Celebrates 47th Year

Nearly a half-century of service from bookkeeper to head of a $110 million savings institution -- that's the career story of Frank P. Kosmach, president of St. Paul Federal Savings & Loan association of Chicago.

Kosmach has just celebrated his 47th year with St. Paul Federal, giving him the distinction of being one of the Chicago area's veteran financial executives. In 1913, when he first joined St. Paul, assets were $101,000. He learned all phases of savings and loan association operation as he progressed through the ranks, becoming secretary in 1938 and president in 1945.

He has been closely identified with St. Paul Federal's tremendous growth in the past 15 years, from $3,000,000 in assets in 1945 to over $116,000,000 in 1960, and now ranks as the 6th largest in Illinois. As president, he has seen the association engage in two building and expansion programs.

A MODERN TWO-story building was completed in 1953 at 6720 W. North ave. Today, just six and a half years later, this building is being doubled in size and work is now in progress.

The St. Paul president received the Slovenian Award in 1955 for his outstanding civic leadership and business achievements. He is a member of the board of directors of the Cook County Council of Savings and Loan associations, a member of the Oak Park Elks club, Lions International and the Illinois Athletic association, a member of the Board of Governors at Gottlieb Memorial hospital, and a member of the Olympia Fields country club.

Northwest Suburbs Show Labor Market Increases

The northwest suburbs have shown an increase of some 18,566 workers in the last four years, according to recent Illinois Labor Bulletin statistics.

The Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Park Ridge area showed the largest percentage of increase of laborers (employees covered under the Illinois Unemployment Compensation Act. Although all suburban areas showed substantial boosts in the labor market, the northwest area's 124 per cent increase (from 14,986 to 33,552) was tops.

THE OAK PARK area contributed the largest numeric increase--more than 32,000 workers--or 47 per cent, in the four-year period.

Total increase for the suburban area (i.e., the six metropolitan counties exclusive of the city of Chicago) was 109,580 over the March, 1955, total of 412,570, close to a 27 per cent jump.

Meanwhile the city of Chicago showed a decrease in its number of workers, dropping to 1,319,288 from a previous 1,345,477, a 1.9 per cent loss.

The Bulletin study confirmed previous indications of an extended shift of firms from the central sections of Chicago to the outskirts of the city and to suburban locations. The movement was accelerated by the opening of numerous new factories in the outlying districts, as well as by the transfer of major firms from the central sections of Chicago to other areas.

THE HEAVY curtailment of employees in the central east section of Chicago, which includes the Loop, was largely attributable to the transfer of numerous small firms to nearby localities and to the exodus of major meat packing units from the city to western areas of the nation, the Bulletin stated.

Counter employment movements characterized the Loop area, where, despite the erection of several large office buildings, there was a decrease in the number of workers. Declines were most pronounced in trade firms which adopted self-service measures in order to cut their sales forces. In some instances department stores decentralized a portion of their activity to new units in outlying sections.

High School Juniors At Summer Institute

This summer 519 high school students from throughout the United States are attending the 31st annual National High School institute on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. Representing 43 states and the District of Columbia, the students are enrolled in a 5-week session from June 26 to July 30. All of the students have completed their junior year of high school. They are housed in university residence halls and are studying with Northwestern faculty members.

Inaugurated at Northwestern in 1930, the institute offers training in the university's schools of music, education, speech, journalism and the technological institute.

AMONG THE local students participating in the institute's special training sessions are the following:

From Prospect high school, Nancy Messina, 277 Greenbriar st., Elk Grove, who is taking speech; Judith McCornack, 608 S. NaWaTa, Mt. Prospect, also in the speech division; William Dietrich, Prospect Heights, enrolled in the engineering and science division.

From Fenton high school, Bernhard Andresen, 216 S. Judson st., Bensenville, is attending classes in engineering and science.

At Miami

The Miami university's Dean's list for the spring semester has been announced, with several local students on the rolls. Among those having at least a "B" average or better for 12 or more credit hours are the following:

Dwight W. Pate, 1112 Harvard, and Gail C. Smith, 221 Wilshire lane, both Arlington Heights; Fred G. Breitling, 250 E. Colfax st., Palatine; Walter C. Borman, 303 E. Willow, Prospect Heights.

At Purdue

A total of 672 students achieved the rating of "distinguished" in their work at Purdue university for the second semester of the 1959-60 school year, according to the list announced by the registrar recently. Of this number, 87 made a scholastic index of "6," the highest possible under the grading system.

Among those reaching the highest index was James H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly lane, Arlington Heights. Peery is a sophomore in the chemical engineering school. (CC

Editorial Musings

After six weeks of torrid drought famished nature is in sight of relief. Many deceptive signs kept up our hopes; a sprinkle July 9, and a light shower July 11-12 have laid the dust and greatly freshened vegetation. Late potatoes, corn and pastures will be benefitted; but the fate of early potatoes is sealed. Small grain and hay will average about half a crop. Prices will be high.

Marcel Lavigne the French station agent at Mt. Prospect is a genius, photographer, telegraph operator, etc. His friend Joe Wattenbarger our genial baggageman studied the principles of wireless telegraphy while at college. They have organized a Co. in which they hold all the offices and have rigged up a wireless telegraph station on the windmill tower back of the Heights depot where they will be ready to receive and send wireless messages as soon as they get their instruments and batteries attached. All the gossip that passes thru the air from Chicago, Waukegan, St. Louis, St. Paul, Buffalo Grove, or Schaumburg whether French, German or English will be all theirs.

Gust Will started driving a new Ford Sunday. Before night the measley thing had dumped him in the ditch at Quentin Corners. Luckily no one was hurt and only the windshield damaged. Gus has been used to a heavier car and in turning the corner did not realize how light a "tin lizzie" is on its feet.

Arlington Heights

Fourth of July, cherry picking and camp meeting, all at once; to say nothing of haymaking — not a dull moment in Arlington Heights this week.

Community

Palatine had horse races, Des Plaines had fireworks, and Arlington a picnic, all on the Fourth of July. Why not join teams another year and have a real old fashioned patriotic celebration? Some of our citizens, who spent the Fourth at Cary, were from five o'clock to eight getting home Monday evening — so many extra trains and service all balled up.

Cherry Crop in Arlington Heights has been a sure "bumper." We understand that at the end of last week, the Schneberger orchard had turned out about 400 baskets, and there are many others.

"Tales of the Street" —Seven baskets of cherries in one day is the record of a Palatine woman and she has passed the 55 year old mark at that. . . . What are the price of cherries? The baskets bring all the way from $1.15 to $3.00, according to the number of bugs you allowed to inhabit your trees. Cherries from sprayed trees are bringing top prices regardless of the size of the crop. Zinn, the druggist, says "I told you so, why didn't you spray?"

About 160 persons attended the recital of piano pupils of Mr. Roscoe Reed in the Methodist Community Hall Friday evening. Twenty-six pupils took part: Paul Pingel, Jean Guenther, Charlotte Alstadt, Bernice Huecker, Bernice Biermann, Elmer Schmitz, Doris Wille, Marion Busse, Virginia Coy, Beatrice Hein, Annabelle Thomas, Marion Chidley, Viola Werner, Phyllis Anderson, Carl Strobach, Betty Vetter, Jessie Ehret, Naomi Towne, Darlene Hamm, Mary Mors, Clarence Kaitschulk, LaVerne Lecinne, Bernice Bensic, Marjorie Schwass, Howard Krumweide and Margaret DePuy. The children did well, was the verdict of the audience.

The Arlington Heights Municipal band gave another of their good outdoor Tuesday night concerts at the Village hall plaza this week.

A swarm of bees parked themselves on the maple tree in front of the Herald printery Monday afternoon, and attracted a great deal of respectful interest. Mr. Arthur McElhose of the People's State Bank, added them to his collection of fifteen hives.

Fourth of July Celebrations

The Arlington Heights Lions planned the big celebration with the sole purpose of making it a "community good turn." Seven o'clock guns open the program of parade, free movies and ice cream for the children, band concerts, games, contests, prizes, ball game; the Boy Scouts will maintain the first aid station; Judge Homer J. Byrd with an Eagle Rock plane will appear over the high school field at four and give a special exhibition of thrills; side attractions of fortune telling, amusement games all under two mammoth tents, and then a huge fireworks display, followed by a dance in the high school gym under the personal direction of Fred Militzer, with an eight piece orchestra. There will be no fees except for the dance, but if you are wearing one of the Lions tags it will show that you have been a good fellow and have contributed two bits to the cause.

This town proved to be the sensation of the last decade in the northern section of Du Page County, from the standpoint of increase in population. The late census shows a jump of 504, from 230 in 1930 to 734 today. Bensenville shows a steady increase, now having 1863 as against 1680 in 1930.

Palatine

Mrs. Charlotte Coe Hart, one of the oldest residents of Palatine, passed away at her home here on July 4, aged 88. She had been a resident of Palatine for 56 years, seeing the transition of the Village from a mere prairie hamlet with mud roads, board sidewalks and kerosene street lights, to the beautiful modern suburb which it is today.

At least 5000 persons turned out at Recreation Park for the last night of the American Legion Freedom Festival, which was climaxed with one of the best fireworks displays ever to be given here. The final day, the Fourth of July, consisted of many highlights, including a speech on Freedom by Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction, and the first summer band concert by the Arlington Heights band, under the direction of Frederick C. Schmoyer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Adelaide McElhose, nee Warwick, were held June 30 in Houston, Tex. She was born Nov. 16, 1876 in Arlington Heights, and died June 29th.

Reminder to Drivers On License Renewals

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier today reminded drivers that applications for renewal of their driver licenses should be submitted to his office 30 days prior to the expiration date of the current license.

As a part of the state's traffic safety program, every application is checked against the driver control file to determine whether the applicant has any traffic law violation convictions on his record, any accidents or unsatisfied judgments, and whether his license has ever been revoked or suspended, Carpentier said.

Because of the large volume of applications and because of the size of the driver control file, the 30-day period is required to make a thorough verification of the information submitted on the application.

WHEN THE application is sent 30 days in advance of expiration, the current license need not be surrendered, Secretary Carpentier said. If for some reason, a person submits a renewal application earlier—60 days or 90 days—then the current license should be surrendered so there will not be an overlapping period in which he would have two licenses.

Licenses are dated on the day they are forwarded to the applicants, Carpentier said. This means, he added, that during the period the license is in the mail the applicant is a licensed driver, even if his old license is expired.

While the law requires that the license be carried at all times when the individual is driving a car, it also provides that a charge with operating a motor vehicle without a license shall be found not guilty if he can produce satisfactory evidence that a valid license existed at the time of the arrest. Broadway Comedy Next Offering At Shady Lane

Shady Lane Playhouse, near Marengo, Illinois, next week will feature "Once More, with Feeling," a comedy about a temperamental symphony conductor who is running out of orchestras because his wife has tired of soothing all the feelings he ruffles.

The hilarious peek into the discord and dissonances of the long-haired music world will open Tuesday, July 19, and play through Sunday, July 24.

The gay comic farce ran for more than eight months on Broadway, season before last, with Joseph Cotton as the fiery breaker of violins over his men's heads, and Arlene Francis as the mate he has neglected to marry formally despite 15 years of torrid and tempestuous domesticity. Yul Brynner and the late Kay Kendall starred in the recent film version.

"ONCE MORE, with feeling" becomes not only the conductor's traditional plea to his musicians at rehearsal, but his distraught plea to his lady when she serves notice that she plans to divorce him--provided he'll go through a quick, secret marriage first.

Harry Kurnitz, who wrote the funny tale of a conductor who "uses orchestras the way other people use Kleenex," was a music critic on a Philadelphia newspaper before moving on to Broadway and Hollywood.

He has authored more than thirty movies, four novels and two hit plays. "Reclining Figure," his first stage comedy, enjoyed a successful run in New York in 1954.

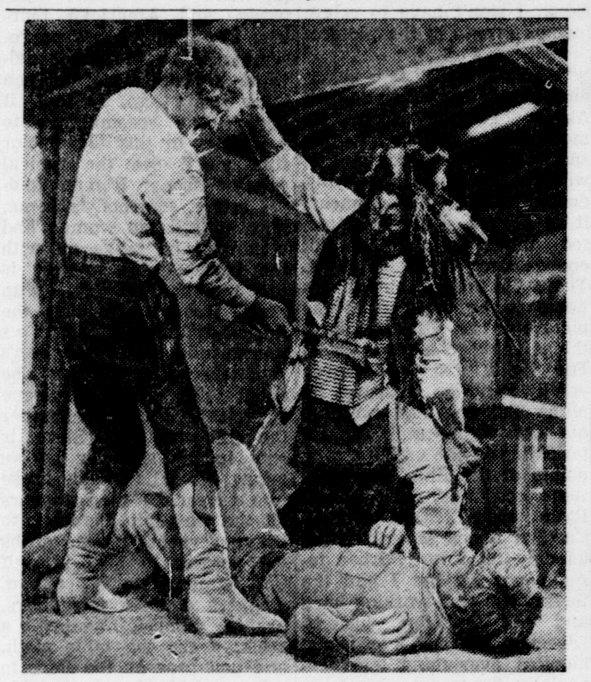
SHADY LANE Playhouse is a modern theatre handsomely adapted from a one-time barn on Shady Lane farm. Playhouse and dining room are in their 19th season of serving comedy and country dinners on Route 20.

This summer Frank and Dorothy Bryan, who head the histrionic and cuisinery wings respectively at Shady Lane, are introducing a special offer, Tuesdays through Thursday, which includes chicken or Swiss steak dinner, a bottle of wine and a theatre ticket, for $5.

Reservations are recommended in the dining room until 8:45 p.m. Call Jordan 8-7218. (Bill

Q. How should an engraved invitation to a home wedding be worded?

A. "Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Stevens request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ellen, to Mr. Henry M. Ellis on such-and-such date, twenty-two Beechcrest Drive."



DURING A STRONG ATTACK by a band of hostile Indians, Burt Lancaster fights off a warrior who is about to kill Doug McClure in this scene from "The Unforgiven," opening Sunday at the Catlow theatre, Barrington. The Technicolor attraction also stars Audrey Hepburn and John Saxon.

Debonaires Attend Ann'l Jamboree

Among corps in attendance at the 12th annual national baton twirling jamboree in South Milwaukee July 20-23 will be Miss Jennie's Debonaires, a group of 30 area girls. The jamboree is taking place during National Baton Twirling week and will climax with a championship contest a music pageant.

The Debonaires recently placed second in the state senior corp competition. They have been awarded seven trophie in competitions and parades since last November and have been included in the 1960 national edition of "Who's Who in Baton Twirling."

More than 500 girls in the area are active in twirling through various programs.

Villa Venice Adds Strolling Violins

The Villa Venice, 2855 N. Milwaukee ave., Northbrook, has added the exciting strolling strings of Jose DeMarco to the beautiful Garden Bar. The DeMarco duo will be featured Friday and Saturday evenings.

The Villa Venice, under management of Leo Olsen, offers a no cover, no minimum policy seven nights a week, and is open for luncheon daily from 11 a.m. Olsen formerly was manager for Allgauers for 12 years.

Gondola rides and dancing nightly are regular features of the northshore spa. In addition to the Garden Bar and Gondola ride, there are a host of Villa Venice special dinners to please the entire family. Steak a la Villa and prime rib of beef are gourmets' specials at sensible prices. The special dinner for theatre-goers served from 5 p.m. till 8 p.m. is a 7-course roast beef dinner for $2.95.

For a delightful evening of fun and relaxation at sensible prices, phone Leo Olsen at LEhigh 7-2300. For a free map write or call the Villa Venice.

Tallulah Bankhead Stars At Edgewater Playhouse

Tallulah Bankhead, one of the most exciting actresses of our time, plays the wife with a relentless drive to control her home and husband in "Craig's Wife," the Pulitzer Prize play, at the Edgewater Beach Playhouse July 11-24.

For Miss Bankhead, too long away from Chicago, this is a powerful role. It has overtones of her happiest theatre part: Regina in "The Little Foxes," which for once and all time placed the dynamic actress in the class of great stage figures.

Her 2-week appearance at the new orange-and-green Playhouse tent will be followed by Tony Randall in "Goodbye Again," July 25 - August 7.

AS THE domineering Mrs. Walter Craig, she is supported by a New York cast, including Frank Schofield as Mr. Craig, Dorothy Sands, Dorothy Blackburn, Dortha Duckworth, John Dutra, Rosalind Newport, Martha Orrick and Nicholas Pryor. Direction of the George Kelly prize play is by Ron Winston with Edgewater sets and lighting by James Maronek.

The Playhouse has installed a new air-cooling system which has effectively lowered the temperature in the new tent on humid nights.

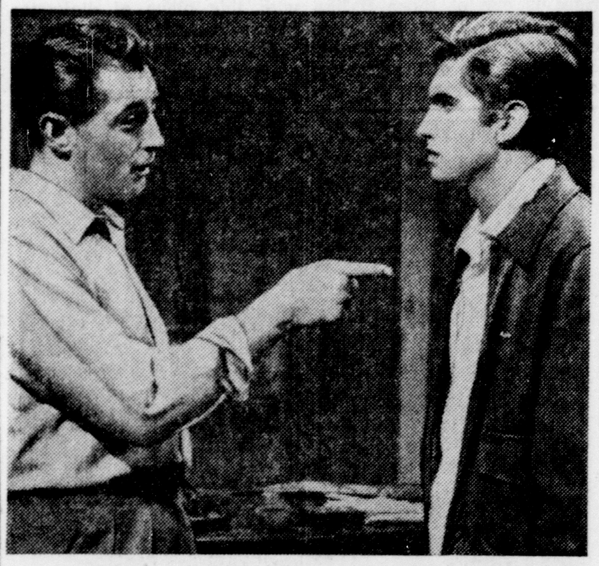
MISS BANKHEAD, last seen in Chicago in two frothy roles, goes back to Thornton Wilder's "Skin Of Our Teeth," another Pulitzer Prize play, for a role in the same vein as Mrs. Craig. These are the roles which the voluble, electric actress fights for. She and playwright George Kelly are members of a mutual admiration society. For this reason, chiefly, and also because she is preparing for a Broadway onslaught in a new play this fall, "Midgie Purvis," she agreed to tour for five weeks as Harriet Craig.

At Prospect Theatre



ROBERT MITCHUM reprimands his rebellious son, George Hamilton, in a scene from "Home From the Hill," MGM film version of George Humphrey's best-selling novel. Eleanor Parker plays Mitchum's embittered wife, with other leading roles portrayed by George Peppard, Everett Sloane and Luana Patten. The picture, filmed in CinemaScope and color, was directed by Academy Award-winner Vincent Minnelli.

Not since "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" has the motion picture camera rattled a family skeleton more loudly than in "Home From the Hill."
Relentlessly, it unfolds the story of Wade Hunnicutt, a stranger to the wife he married; of his two sons, only one of whom bore his name, and of a girl who needed love and wasn't too proud to ask for it.
Too, people are marveling at the performances of two new young players... George Peppard and George Hamilton. They're both going places!

Frost-Tossed Epic Shows Lengthy Story of Alaska

by JIM PHILLIPS

From now on, every time I open a can of salmon, or sink my teeth into tartar-sauced filet of sole, I'll think of Robert Ryan, Richard Burton, Carolyn Jones, and Edna Ferber--not to mention the movie "Ice Palace."

Seeing this frost-tossed epic of Alaska and its growth from barren wilderness to barren statehood is going to be quite a job for any heater-goer — mainly because it's two and a half hours long. Evidently, Producer Henry Blanke figured it had to be because Edna Ferber wrote the story. At any rate, "Ice Palace" proves that the Ladies Home Journal isn't by any means cornering the market on stories slanted toward heroic housewives.

THE PLOT concerns the efforts of Zeb Kennedy (Richard Burton) to get ahead in business— itdoesn't make any difference whose head. Before he can get past the front of his fish cannery, you know he's going to be a first-class schnook! On the other hand (or is it fin?), there is a top-notch young Swede named Thor (Robert Ryan) who wants only one thing in life--to live to see his beloved country of Alaska obtain statehood. Thor and Zeb have only two things in common: their names are unusual, and their love life is centered around Bridie (Carolyn Jones), whose name hardly resembles her affectionate experiences. While Zeb and Thor are playing "legislation with the nation," Bridie is having babies, and the audience is having twitches because the story is traveling all the way from the end of World War I (you remember that war, don't you?) to Alaskan statehood.

Edna Ferber has not disappointed her fans at this point because her plot continues by dwelling on the problems of Zeb's daughter and Thor's son; then comes a granddaughter. If you're familiar with other works by Edna, I won't have to relate further events in the picture.

"ICE PALACE" is a splendid bit of travelogue with Alaska pouring forth its mountains, snow, trees, ice, snow, cold, frost, snow, and wilderness, and snow. But despite all of this scenery, it is bogged down by much too much plot, and not enough deep dramatic value. There is action, but it appears to be inserted in the picture in an effort to keep things going at a faster pace. The fights are well-staged; you'll find the rescues by plane and dog sled exciting, but not "different." Characterization is one of the strong points of the film, thanks to some good acting by Robert Ryan and Richard Burton. Carolyn Jones is impressive as only an Edna Ferber female can be, but I had the feeling she was working hard and not enjoying herself. Director Vince Sherman handled everything well, especially the scenes involving our two Alaskan heroes. If you liked "Giant" and "Saratoga Trunk," you'll like this one--but be prepared for a longer edition than either of the above. Capsule Comment: Political fish story gets the ice box treatment!

Last Days of Pompeii: Here is one of those Italian gems that I would urge everybody to see strictly because it is one of the funniest costume clinkers in the circuit. Starring muscular Steve Reeves, who is setting Italian hearts throbbing right now in the land of sunshine, vineyards, and American tourists, "Pompeii" bears no resemblance to the black-and-white classic many of you knew years ago. In fact, it bears little resemblance to anything! In this technicolor film you'll see the typical opening scene: Roman raiders attack somebody's home, burn it, kill the women and children, and make off with the riches; also present is the man-to-man fight, with Steve Reeves providing the muscle-and-tendon antics successfully. But, if you don't remember anything else about this dubbed-dialogue historical, you'll remember the following bit: Steve is shot in the shoulder by an arrow. He falls off his horse into a river. He then staggers all the way into Pompeii, to the governor's home, grabs the curtain to hold himself up, bumps into a column, staggers down a few stairs, braces himself against a table, grabs the table cloth, and collapses on the floor in a heap of blood, armor, table dressings, etc. After he is taken to a bed, somebody attends to the wound. Amidst the blood, and agonizing cries of Steve, the arrow is yanked viciously out of his shoulder. No sooner does this happen, when one of the beautiful attending females comes up with this piece of dialogue: "Does it hurt badly?"

The only trouble with this statement is that it should have been spoken to the audience! Or perhaps it won't hurt you a bit. As I said, "Pompeii" turns out to be a real whiz-bang knee-slapper! Naturally, all of the Steve Reeves movies made in Italy were immediate hits, and evidently make thousands of lira for everyone in the productions. Well, whether you like the situation or not, or whether you take these things seriously, Steve is evidently laughing at his critics--all the way to the bank! Capsule Comment: "Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your money!"

THE THRILLING adventures of Hannibal, mighty Carthaginian hero who led an elephant army over the Alps to battle half the world, are shown in this artist's conception and brought to life on the screen in Warner Bros.' "Hannibal," in color and Super Cinescope, coming Friday to the Des Plaines Theatre. Victor Mature plays the title role, with Rita Gam as the Roman beauty who falls in love with him.

TWO OF HOLLYWOOD'S most popular young stars, Montgomery Clift and Lee Remick, are featured in Elia Kazan's latest film triumph, "Wild River," now showing at the Star View Outdoor theater, located on route 20 east of Elgin.

Doctors See Value In Total Approach

An eminent physician once said: "We old family doctors are about two-thirds grandma."

He was expressing a truth that is being talked about a great deal nowadays among leaders in medicine. They are increasingly convinced that the overall approach of the family doctor was sound. He took into account the feelings of the patient, the family situation and history, and all the other factors which would have a bearing on the physical ailment which was the chief cause of illness.

THE OLD FAMILY doctor knew that it is impossible to do a proper job of treating illness by just taking out an appendix or setting a bone. He used freely the "grandma" technique of quieting the fears of patient and his family, of sympathizing with pain and showing an interest in family problems.

The family doctor was the original "ecologist," a term which is coming into use to describe the treatment of the whole person, not just an ailing part. This is the concept of medicine which has been set up as the goal of Lutheran General hospital in Park Ridge.

All departments in the hospital are making a special effort to pool their skills and resources for the benefit of the patient. Departments of general practice, internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, as well as such divisions as anesthesia, orthopedics and pediatrics, are in this hospital being joined by neuro-psychiatry and pastoral care to make possible medical treatment that has all the characteristics of "grandma," plus the finest that specialized medicine can offer.

IT WAS specialization in medicine that brought most of the sensational advances of the last half century and which are responsible in large measure for lengthening human life. Specialization is absolutely necessary in research and practice in the health field to assure continual advance. Nowadays the scope of knowledge and skill in medicine are so great that no one person can master them all.

Leaders in medicine are seeking to combine the advantages of specialized medical treatment with the "grandma" approach which recognizes that every person has a soul as well as a body, has emotions, mind and family cares, all of which have an important bearing on his health. Closer cooperation between specialists and general practitioners can bring a new revival of the doctrine of the "whole person" and thereby push medical care to new heights. (B8

Art Center Introduces New World to Suburb Youngsters

by LUCILLE BLACKWOOD

The wonderful world of paint and crayon is twice as exciting when viewed through the eyes of children.

For the next four weeks, dozens of schoolage boys and girls will converge on Northwest Art Center, 715 Palatine rd., Arlington Heights, to sop up all the artistic know-how that Mrs. Carl Zehner and her competent staff can impart.

Mrs. Zehner has long been interested in exposing children to art. She has done volunteer work at Hull House, taught at North Western Settlement House and established her own art school in Norwood Park.

Also on the children's staff are Pat Foust, graduate of the Art Institute; Ruth Oster, Edinboro State Teachers, Penn.; and Barbara Housekeeper, Rhode Island School of Design.

THE CENTER has avoided the more usual one day a week course, spread over the summer months, and has instead devised a three week crash program, wherein children are completely immersed in line, color and composition. The concentrated classes make review or repetition unnecessary and also provide more elastic schedules for children leaving the area on family vacations or private camps.

Classes are taught to use various media, including pen and ink, tempera, crayon, charcoal and water color. Their study of still life, fire drawing, and the essentials of design provides a well balanced background for future interests. Each child is treated as an individual, and his or her particular interest is developed.

During this course, the children work under different members of the staff in order that they might be exposed to a variety of teaching skills. This system encourages each member of the group to become more pliant and avoids a student's natural reaction of copying the style of his teacher.

THE RESULTS of Northwest Art Center's first art seminar for children will be proudly displayed July 17 at the Center. There will also be a browse box containing the work of past classes from Pioneer Park and Northwest Art Center. Parents are invited to retrieve these paintings on the date of the exhibition.

As we left the busy painters, happily dabbing away, I overheard Linda Schulze, 200 S. Parkway, say: "I'm going to make a black cow on my paper —Oh no . . . Not the farm kind, the soda fountain kind!"

STUDYING WHAT has to be termed an "abstract" are teacher Sandy Nicklas, 450 N. Ayrshire, Inverness Countryside, Palatine, and pupil Gary Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris C. Jensen, 1505 N. Yale, Arlington Heights. The daubers take great pride in their "masterpieces," which they will display at a public exhibit July 17 at the Center. (B-8

Meadows Art Fair Is Hailed as Success

JOHN L. DOYLE, 123 S. State rd., Arlington Heights, stands beside painting that won him first prize in Third Annual Rolling Meadows Art Fair. Doyle, father of two children, is a third year student at Chicago's Art Institute. (Bill

by
LUCILLE BLACKWOOD

The third annual Rolling Meadows art fair, sponsored by the Northwest Art Center, came to a successful close Sunday, despite rain spatters and detoured roads. It's success was largely dependent on chairman Mary McDonald, whose planning and detail, surpassed many gallery openings.

There are basically two types of art fairs. The first is an artists' show, exhibiting fine craftsmanship, dedicated artisans and serious painters. The second type of fair is a hucksters' show, wherein art is a mimicry, junk souvenirs replace craftmanship and daubers hawk pictures that would shame the five and dime.

Blessings on the world, Rolling Meadows staged the former!

ALTHOUGH the three judges were cut from the same bolt of cloth, their considerations were well balanced and the result of time consuming deliberation. They were: Franz Schulz of Lake Forest college; Richard Keane, Chicago Institute of Art; and Harry Boras, well-known lecturer now teaching at Columbia college. Ribbons were awarded on the basis of the artists total contribution to the fair and not to individual objects or paintings. This is a plan more judges should emulate.

Youth took the top honors. First prize was awarded to John L. Doyle of 123 S. State rd., Arlington Heights. Doyle has attended the University of Chicago and is now in his third year at the Art Institute. An almost boyish face and retiring manner belie the fact that he is married and the father of two children. He attacks his canvas with vigor and unrestrained color. His robust abstractions with vague image, overlay; are almost unbelievable from this quiet man. I poured forth question upon question about his work and received little more than a shy smile. "I don't talk pictures, I paint them," says Doyle.

THE SECOND place ribbon was placed on the work of Richard O'Brien. O'Brien attended the University of Florence, Italy, and is now working for his Master's in Art at the University of Notre Dame. His work is on exhibit at the Board of Trade building in Chicago and a mural may be seen at St. Mary's church, Buffalo Grove. A large blue canvas called "Paris Street Scene" an expressionistic painting with several figures was quite popular, but I suspect a large selection of strong non-objective canvases, brought forth the award. We talked at some length about commercial murals, O'Briens first love. His main concern was a meeting ground between layman and artist, so that the average businessman could afford the beauty usually obtainable by only the largest of companies.

CATHERINE Glosser's paintings took third prize, and fourth place was given to the simple, graceful lines of Edna Arnow's pottery. Honorable mentions included: Jeanne Drown, painting; the beautiful Lustig jewelry; Kann, water colors and oils; and Wayne Gallagher, water colors. Somehow Mr. Fujui, missed the boat of ribbons, but the public didn't miss his wonderful seascapes and translucent water colors.

Sled Dogs Parody People's Foibles

The pups pictured on this page are Alaskan Malamutes, that hardy breed of Arctic sled dog distinguished for strength and obedience.

But, being puppies, they have that universal appeal which all babies have, and which editors (and Jack Paar's writers) cannot seem to resist.

Whether the subjects are newly born humans or animals, it usually leads to someone trying to dream up the faculty of speech for them.

And no matter how cornball the captions get, the youngsters always seem fit subjects to parody the foibles and frustrations of their elders.

The 10 romping youngsters pictured here were photographed somewhat south of their element. They represent the litter of "Skimo," their one-and-a-half year old father, and "Gold Dust," the mother.

The six-week old Malamutes are owned by Peggy Bell, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bell, 1515 W. St. James, Arlington Heights.

She keeps them on a farm at Rand and Wilke rds., Palatine, where she also boards four horses and a newly arrived foal.

The dogs, while some distance from their environment, have all been given names representative of the newest U.S. state, e.g., "Gold Nugget," "Scholar of the Arctic," "Susitna" (means "beautiful girl" in Eskimo).

Peggy has the thoroughbred pups up for sale, with the asking price $125 each, demonstrating that dog ownership isn't exactly without reward.

Mount Prospect Bride Wears Imported Veil

Bak Studio

A shoulder length circular veil from Brussels, Belgium, was worn by a recent Mt. Prospect bride, Dale Marie Tews, for her marriage to Neil Dennis D'Argo, also of Mt. Prospect. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Tews, 600 E. Evergreen ave., purchased the veiling at the Lace Palace in Brussels, while on a European trip two years ago.

To wear with the imported veil, which was edged in Brussels lace, the bride chose a silk peau de soie wedding gown with short sleeves and very full skirt ending in a circular train. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

THE NUPTIALS took place at noon June 18 in St. Raymond church of Mt. Prospect, with Rev. Joseph Doyle officiating. The sanctuary was decorated with white gladioli and snapdragons for the double ring rites.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D'Argo, 415 S. Ojibwa tr., was attended by Don Gage of Mt. Prospect as best man, and ushering the guests to their pews were Arthur Tews, Don DeNapoli, both of Mt. Prospect, and Larry Armando of Fox Lake.

Preceding the bride down the aisle of the church were attendants, all dressed alike in aqua silk organza over aqua taffeta with a matching lace panel trimming the bell shaped skirt. Each wore a matching organza and lace bow hat, and each carried red Happiness roses in a crescent bouquet.

Maid of honor was Carol Pfingsten of Arlington Heights; bridesmaids were Diane Spaulding of Wheeling, Carol Martens of Cary and Janet Schindler of Arlington Heights. Junior bridesmaid was Patti Wahler of Park Ridge, and serving as flower girl was 4-year-old Linda D'Argo of Wheeling.

A BUFFET reception was held in the VFW hall in Mt. Prospect for 250 guests. The bride's mother greeted in a dress of pink silk organza over pink taffeta with a pink sequin hat and had a cymbidium corsage. Mrs. D'Argo wore a cocoa brown silk organza dress with matching hat and also had a cymbidium corsage.

The couple is spending a 2-week honeymoon in Miami Beach, Fla., and after July 4 will be at home at 1509 Brown st., Des Plaines. Both newlyweds attended Arlington high school. The bride then went to Illinois Wesleyan university and the bridegroom attended St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Iowa. Both are employed in Chicago, she with Mason, Kolehmainen, Rathburn and Wyss law firm, and he with Appleton Electric company.

University of New Mexico Students Married June 18

A romance between two students of the University of N. M. was culminated June 18 when Miss Sally Ann Ambos, daughter of former Palatine residents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Lee Ambos of Bloomingdale, became the bride of 2nd Lt. Neil David Frumkin, USMCR, son of Mrs. Roslyn Frumkin of Norwood Park, were married in Roselle Methodist church.

The 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Carl A. Sattelberg before altar arrangements of white flowers entwined with ivy. Soloist was 1st Lt. Russell W. Neilson of Bloomingdale, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Carl A. Sattelberg was organist.

LARGE WHITE pew bows marked the aisle of the church down which Miss Ambos approached the altar on the arm of her father. She was gowned in silk organza and alencon lace fashioned with bouffant skirt ending in a chapel train. A crown of waxed orange blossoms held her waist-length veil and she carried a crescent bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis and ivy. A string of cultured pearls, a gift from her bridegroom, completed her bridal ensemble.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Brooks L. Ambos Jr. of San Diego, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs Allan Lustbader of Phoenix, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. William Meyer of Arlington Heights and Miss Sandra Davidson of Palatine.

ALL WORE identical gowns of white organza fashioned with full skirts, green cummerbunds and green-embroidered bodices. They carried satin baskets with cascades of happiness roses with ivy.

Mitchell Frumkin of Norwood Park was his brother's best man and ushers were Pete Peterson, Richard Malbye and John Byrd, all of Norwood Park.

Following the service, a reception for 200 guests was held in Itasca country club where Mrs. Ambos received in a beige, silk chiffon dress with matching accessories and a corsage of beige cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother chose an ice blue silk and lace gown with matching accessories and a corsage of pink tea roses.

MR. FRUMKIN and his bride honeymooned for a week at Niagara Falls and in New York City. They are now at home at the Quantico, Va. marine base.

The new Mrs. Frumkin was graduated from Palatine high school and attended the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque for three years. Mr. Frumkin, a graduate of Taft high school, was graduated from the university.

Fathers Unite Mt. Propect Pair in June 11 Ceremony

(Jenart

A wedding which was of great interest to the congregation of St. Paul Lutheran church of Mt. Prospect and also to the students and faculty of St. Paul Lutheran school took place June 11, when Orlan Gene Zuberbier, student vicar at St. Paul church, and JoAnn Schaefer, teacher at the school, were united in marriage. Sharing in officiating at the double ring ceremony were the bride's father, Rev. Henry H. Schaefer of Bourbon, Mo., and Rev. G. W. Zuberbier of Sullivan, Wis. Rev. Schaefer performed the vows and coupling ceremony, while Rev. Zuberbier gave the address.

Also in the wedding party were several members of the couple's families. The bride's sisters served as matron of honor and bridesmaids, the bridegroom's brother was his best man and the flower girl and ring bearer were the niece and nephew of the bridegroom.

MRS. LARRY Bruning of Leasburg, Mo., was matron of honor in an ice blue silk organza street length dress with a full skirt and lace bodice. She carried a bouquet of delphiniums and glamellias. Miss Mary Schaefer of Bourbon and Mrs. Jan Meyer of Niagara Falls, N.Y., were bridesmaids, wearing dresses identical to the matron of honor but in a deeper shade of blue.

Three-year-old Nancy Scheiman of Fort Wayne, Ind., was flower girl in ice blue silk organza and carried a basket of delphiniums and glamellias. Ring bearer was 4-year-old Mark Scheiman, also of Fort Wayne.

The bridegroom's brother, Larry, was best man, and ushers were Keith Brunn of Watertown, Wis., and Ruston Schaefer of Bourbon.

FOR HER evening wedding the bride chose a gown of floor length nylon organza with a bodice and overskirt of scalloped embroidered nylon. Her veil was 2-tiered silk illusion, topped with a princess crown. Phalaenopsis and stephanotis formed the bride's bouquet, from which she later removed a corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a beige eyelet street length dress with powder blue accessories and had a phalaenopsis and delphinium corsage. The bride's mother was unable to attend the wedding festivities.

Soloist for the ceremony was Mrs. Carol Hemmeter, who sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "A Wedding Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Elmer Jackisch.

One hundred thirty guests were served wedding cake and punch immediately after the ceremony in St. Paul auditorium. Following a week's honeymoon in northern Wisconsin the couple is now at home at 17 S. Elm st., Mt. Prospect.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Concordia college in Milwaukee and Concordia seminary in Springfield, Ill. His bride a graduate of Concordia Teachers college in Seward, Neb.

Sorority Activities

Delta Zeta

Northwest suburban alumnae of Delta Zeta sorority and their friends will attend the Music theatre in Highland Park to see Patrice Munsel in "Kiss Me Kate" Friday evening, July 22.

Proceeds from the evening will help sponsor two or more children at Holiday Home, a summer camp for diabetic children in Lake Geneva.

This camp, sponsored by the Chicago Diabetic association, offers medical care and prescribed diets for afflicted children who otherwise could not attend a regular camp. Wednesday, July 27, Delta Zeta alumnae will make their annual visit to Holiday Home to review the various activities of the camp and meet the children sponsored by them.

Mrs. James H. Pusheck of Glenview is chairman of the Music theatre party and members of her committee are Mrs. Henry C. Korff, 1179 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights; Mrs. James W. Viger, 222 S. Wapella, Mt. Prospect; and Mrs. Arthur H. Siewerth, 1458 Reynolds, Palatine.

Price of the tickets is $3.50 and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Pusheck at PA 4-6712.

Delta Delta Delta

Delta Delta Delta alumnae will entertain Tri Delta collegiates from the northwest suburban area at their annual "Welcome Home" party Tuesday, July 19, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. George Wahlborg, 226 N. Rose, Park Ridge.

Helping with arrangements for the party to honor all area Tri Delta collegiates and recent graduates home from college is Mrs. George R. Busse, 117 S. School, Mt. Prospect.

SPECIAL honorees at the affair will be five young ladies from the area who received bids to pledge Delta Pi chapter of Delta Delta Delta at the University of Illinois following the recent rush week activities at the Champaign-Urbana campus. These newest members of the Tri Delta family include Miss Betsy Creviston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Creviston, 717 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, a 1960 graduate of Arlington high school and finalist in the recent Miss Northwest Suburban Pageant.

All Tri Delta alums and collegiates in the northwest suburban area are invited to the party and are urged to contact Mrs. Busse, CL 5-3932, for dessert reservations or transportation.

AMONG THE Tri Delta collegiates expected at the party are Judith Sebald and Mary Dempsey of Palatine; Kathleen Christman, Sheila Kutchera, Gail Rosene and Gail Smith of Arlington Heights; and Diane Dailey, Gail Streich, Judith Johnson and Barbara Wolf of Mt. Prospect.

Another summer event of interest to Tri Deltas is a dinner and program to be given by the Elmhurst alumnae chapter, Wednesday, Aug. 17, at 7 p.m. at River Forest golf club. Tickets will be available at the July 19 party.

Area Girl On College Style Board

A Mt. Prospect girl, Miss Lolita Anderson, 810 S. Na-Wa - Ta, is representing the University of Illinois on the Campus shops' board of fashion experts. The shops opened July 11 and the girls are ready to consult with fellow students on the newest campus fashions.

For the first time, Field's junior and senior high school advisers and the college advisers are combined on one board, an innovation which will mean greater convenience for student shoppers.

UNIFORMS OF the advisers reflect new trends in casual clothes; plaid culottes and bright red fireman shirts for the college advisers and jumpers in matching plaid with red jersey blouses for the high school advisers. All girls are identified by leather belt fobs printed with their names and schools.

Both members will model in a special back - to - school show at 8 p.m. August 9.

Larry Anderson Married In Wausau, Wisconsin

In a 4 p.m. nuptial rite in the chapel of the First Methodist church of Wausau, Wis., June 18 Miss Marilyn Weinkauf became the bride of Larry L. Anderson of Rolling Meadows.

Candelabra were on the altar flanking a low floral arrangement of pink and white daisies, pink carnations and small white mums.

Mr. and Mrs. William X. Weinkauf and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Anderson, 250 Wilke rd., Rolling Meadows, are parents of the bridal pair.

As the bride entered the chapel, where the Rev. Dr. Justus E. Olson performed the ceremony, she was seen in a gown of embroidered sheer organza highlighted with tiers of scalloped and embroidered ruffles flowing into a chapel sweep train. Brief scalloped sleeves and a square neckline also outlined in scalloping, styled the fitted bodice.

HER VEIL of English silk illusion fell to her finger tips from a taffeta half-hat brimmed in a floral motif and outlined with pearls. She held a loose colonial bouquet of pink and white roses.

Miss Maxye Spens of Detroit, a close friend of the bride during their four years at Northwestern university, served as maid of honor and the only bridal attendant. Best man was John Anderson of Rolling Meadows, brother of the bridegroom.

Miss Spens wore a waltz-length frock of organza while the bodice, molded to an empire waistline, was of chantilly lace. It was styled with a sabrina neckline and cap sleeves. A flowing panel of matching fabric provided back detail. She carried a smaller version of the bride's colonial bouquet of pink and white roses.

DURING THE ceremony, Mrs. Donald Moseman, soloist, presented "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love" Lennerd Seim presided at the organ. He played a soft interlude as the guests were being seated by Richard Anderson, brother of the groom, and Richard Weinkauf of Waulowship hall, where a buffet sau.

Mrs. Weinkauf, the bride's mother, received in a powder blue sheath dress of chantilly lace. Chiffon fashioned the soft cummerbund, ending in a sidedraped effect. She chose merbund, ending in a sidedraped effect. She chose white accessories and a corsage of pink and white rosebuds.

THE groom's mother was attired in a dress of beige silk shantung with which she wore white accessories. Pink and white roses formed her corsage.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside at 647 Grand ave., Waukegan. The bride, a recent graduate of Northwestern's school of journalism, will be assistant society editor of the "Waukegan News-Sun."

Mr. Anderson will be graduated in September from the 5-year mechanical engineering course at Northwestern's Technological institute.

AT SUN VALLEY this past week was Mrs. Jerry Lindberg, left, 138 N. Ashland, Palatine, who is pictured with Mrs. Roy Backus of New York just before starting out in the ladies' golf tournament held for the wives of the National Plywood Distributors association that held its annual meeting at the mile-high resort July 1-5.

NO, THESE GIRLS are not from a girls' school, but are employees of Paddock Publications, who all arrived for work one morning wearing the ever-popular, white, knife-pleated skirts. The "uniformed" employees are Marge Langos of the switchboard and classified department; Martha Keane, circulation and photo; Kay Blackwood, editorial; Marianne Scott, women's editor; Barbara Sanborn, classified, and Beth Weir, assistant women's editor. Mrs. Weir feigns indignation at seeing her cohorts but the others chuckled, confident that their taste in clothes met with each other's approval.

100 from Arlington High School Class of '50 Meet Again

Diane Gilbert, Bob Lanier Married in Des Plaines

Mint green silk organza gowns over taffeta were worn by the attendants at the wedding of Miss Diane Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Gilbert of Arlington Heights, and Robert Allen Lanier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lanier of Pulaski, Tenn. The double ring service took place at 2:30 p.m. July 2 in Immanuel Community Baptist church, Des Plaines, with Rev. William L. Schoeffel officiating.

White gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony, during which Mrs. E. B. Gardner sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied at the organ by Edgar Fountian.

Following the service, a reception for 50 guests was held in the church.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father and wore a long-sleeved gown of chantilly lace and tulle. The bodice of the gown was of the chantilly and the tulle skirt was over net and taffeta. Outlining the neckline were white lace flowers with seed pearl centers. Her veil was of white illusion tulle and fell from a regal crown covered with seed pearls and her cascade bouquet was of white carnations and pale pink miniature rosebuds with ivy.

Mrs. Ralph Spencer of Essex, Ill. was matron of honor and bridesmaid was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Martha Sue Lanier of Pulaski. The attendants in their mint green gowns with matching head bands and short veils, were followed by 6-year-old Susan Moore of Ft. Smith, Ark., as flower girl. Susan's gown was of white nylon dotted swiss and her headband with veil was also of mint green. All carried white colonial bouquets with mint green ribbons.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a grey silk organza tunic dress trimmed with lace. She also wore matching accessories and white carnation flowers. A navy lace gown over taffeta with white accessories and white carnations was chosen by Mrs. Lanier.

Philip Long of Des Plaines was best man to the bridegroom and ushers were Harold Gardner of Des Plaines, David Gilbert, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Moore Jr. of Ft. Smith, Ark. The latter two were junior ushers.

Mr. Lanier and his bride honeymooned for 10 days in Chattanooga and since July 11 have been at home in Arlington Heights. The new Mrs. Lanier was graduated in June from Arlington high school. Her bridegroom attended Pulaski schools and was graduated from business college in Nashville. He is now with American Rubber and Gasket Co., Des Plaines.

Lenox Chinaware Available Here

Dirigo Inc., Fine Table Appointments, 170 N. Milwaukee, Wheeling, has been named an authorized dealer in this area for the world famed Lenox china dinnerware and gift items, it was announced today by Lenox, Inc., Trenton, N. J.

The arrangement will feature outstanding patterns such as the above pictured "Kingsley," Lenox chnia dinnerware and a wide selection of gift pieces in keeping with the store's policy of making the best-known brand name merchandise available to its customers at all times, Algot Runeman Dirigo said.

Lenox china is noted for its lustrous finish and beautiful decorations and colors, which are available in a variety of patterns and shapes on a glowing ivory toned background. Amazingly strong, this fine china is made to last a lifetime.

THE LENOX china is the same as the Lenox dinnerware which has been used in the White House since the time of President Woodrow Wilson and is still in use there today.

The fame of Lenox china is world-wide. Over 15,000 pieces of Lenox dinnerware were made for the tables of our embassies and consulates throughout the world.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia ordered a royal service by Lenox, which cost more than $30,000. The presidents of Cuba, Ecuador, Mexico and Venezuela also chose dinnerware by Lenox.

Examples of Lenox china artistry have been exhibited in many outstanding institutions, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the famed Ceramic Museum in Sevres, France, where Lenox is the only American china so honored.

1950 HOMECOMING King, Bob Neumann of Arlington Heights, meets Queen Bonnie Peterson, now Mrs. Ernest Sotrop of Sandwich, Ill., and there's much to catch up on since that exciting year at Arlington high. The two alums joined others at the 10th reunion of the class, held Saturday night at Itasca country club. Among the out-of-state members who attended the party were Pat Murray Harris of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Robert Arnold of Dallas, Texas; Marlene Becker Tower, Braintree, Mass.; Walter Brownell, Florissant, Mo.; Nancy Carr Wisersky, Stoughton, Wis.; Maryann Gerbosi Parker, Denver, Colo.; Laura Fritz Fisher, Abbington, Pa.; Joan Fortin Durland, El Paso, Texas; Burton Lessman, Azusa, Cal.; Ardys Nagel Doane, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Richard Spratt, Harpers Woods, Mich. Spratt was vice president of the class of '50 and acted as master of ceremonies at the reunion dinner. (S

THREE 1950 alums of Arlington high school match statistics on their 10 years since graduation. Left to right are Joy Brynildssen Draper and Verdell Duenn Muehlfelt, both of Palatine, and Laura Fritz Fisher of Abbington, Pa., who was Prom Queen. They found that 51 different occupations and professions are now represented, including eight teachers, eight secretaries, six salesmen, five engineers, four students, three farmers, three doctors, three lawyers and 70 housewives. There have been a total of 250 children born to class members. (S

CHOW LINE is still the same popular spot as it was 10 years ago in high school, but this one has a few more years added, also a few more pounds and a fancier menu. One hundred members gathered from the class of 1950 of Arlington high school, traveling from nine states, and with their husbands, wives and guests found a total of 185 gaily renewing acquaintances and counting up the happenings of 10 years at their reunion Saturday night. Prizes were awarded to Burton Lessman of Azusa, Cal., who came the greatest distance for the party; to Nancy Jane Baumann Ellis of Arlington Heights, who has been married the longest; to Janet Utpadel Howland of Evergreen Park and Henry Kaup of Arlington Heights, who tied as most recently married; to Dolores Langguth Goeddeke of Arlington, who has the most children - five; and the Douglas Gilmans of Palatine, who have the youngest child, two weeks old. Tots' Chorus Gives Surprise Performance

A nostalgic touch was added to the wedding of Miss Lorelie Byhring and Donald R. Nelson, when unknown to the bride, the soloist, Mrs. Bobka, music teacher at St. Raymond school where the bride teaches first grade, arranged a special choral group of youngsters to sing during the ceremony.

The nuptials took place at 11 a.m. June 11 in St. Raymond Catholic church, Mt. Prospect, with Rev. J. Doyle officiating at the double ring ceremony .The sanctuary was decorated with baskets of gladioli, poms and spikes. Organist for the service was Mrs. Voorhees.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Byhring of Mt. Prospect, came down the aisle on the arm of her father wearing a bouffant Bianchi gown of bouquet taffeta. The neckline of the gown was embroidered in seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, stephanotis and white orchids.

SHE WAS attended by her cousin, Pamela Stann of Skokie as maid of honor and by Miss Sylvia Jennings of Chicago and Miss Gayle Beckway of Lincolnwood as bridesmaids. The attendants wore mint green gowns fashioned with full skirts of organza and deep green taffeta sashes. Large horsehair hats framed their faces and all carried baskets of spike poms and daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a maize chiffon and satin sheath with cymbidium corsage and the bridegroom's mother a navy blue lace dress, also with cymbidium corsage.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson of Capron, Ill. was attended by his cousin, James Johnson of Park Ridge, as best man. Ushering the guests were Jerry and Rodger Walker of Skokie and Donald Ryniechi of Palatine.

THE RECEPTION was held at the Pantry in Park Ridge for 100 guests, after which the newlyweds left for a weekend wedding trip at the Wisconsin Dells. Since June 14 they have been at home at 6 N. Lotus, Chicago, where the bridegroom is a student in the Illinois Medical school. He is an alumnus of Beloit college. His bride also studied at Beloit and was graduated from Illinois Normal university.

ONE OF PALATINE'S teachers, Miss Betty Anne Newmann, will be returning to her "hometown" of Aberdeen, S.D., for on June 25, she became the bride of Eugene Dobberpuhl of nearby Groton, S.D. Daughter of the W.G. Newmanns, the bride chose a gown of embroidered nylon organza and carried a bouquet of calla lilies. She was attended by her sister as maid of honor and two bridesmaids, all of Aberdeen. The couple honeymooned for a week in Denver. (S

HAUGH to Plan a Party

Hacienda Chili Cook Out Is Gay Summertime Fiesta

By DOLORES HAUGH

For that "chili" day when you plan to have the folks next door for a cook out, choose a South of the Border theme. One of the recent magazines gave a menu that sounded so good that it deserved the finishing details to make it a really festive fiesta.

Invitations

The invitations will, of course, carry out the bright, clear and beautiful colors that the Mexican people love: red, yellow, blue and green. The invitations can be a bright yellow, double fold, construction paper, gourd. The front can be decorated with a Mexican design done in tempera paints or crayon. A few primitive flowers in bright colors require little artistic skill, the more primitive the better. Inside the gourd outline the edge with brown and don't forget the seeds at the bottom. Write the following verse:

Senor and Senoras (Senoritas if girls are unmarried)
A FIESTA there will be,
Upon our Hacienda,
Now, won't you say, "Si si?
Dress up in your gayest clothes,
Because, don't you know,
They wear the BRIGHTEST colors,
When in Old Mexico.
Chili and Hot Tomales, Tortillas, if you please,
So join the fun, muchachoes,
And speak Spanish, with much ease.

State time, place and if you want to add to the fun, let your guests dress up, or make it optional if you think a dress up party may frighten some of your guests. Send some Spanish phrases with the invitation with instructions that each guest should choose a Mexican name for the entire evening, plus memorizing the following phrases:

How are you? Como esta, Fine, thank you. Bein, gracias, Goodbye, Adios, I'll be seeing you, Hasta la vista, Thank you, muchas gracias.

Give each guest on arrival a specific amount of Mexican beans and if he does not respond in Spanish and to his Mexican name, he must forfeit one bean. The one with the most beans at the end of the evening wins a prize.

Decorations

Of course, if you have a pool, you will be all set for a beautiful setting for your hacienda party. Plan on repeating the colors of the invitation and use fiesta dinnerware on your table as paper plates will be too difficult to handle the foods you will be serving.

The tablecloth can be your very gayest, using inexpensive percale in bold stripes or a multi colored beach towel for the tablecloth, bright colored terry fingertip towels for napkins and for a centerpiece, either fresh fruit, which can be part of the menu, or fashion a straw donkey. You can use pottery figurines, gourds, peppers, a large sombrero filled with bright colored flowers or just let your own imagination show you the way.

Any Mexican items that you can borrow or may have from your own travels, will add to the table and don't be afraid to overdo it — the Mexican people love beauty and lots of it. Travel posters obtainable at travel bureaus can add to the festivities decor. Use fiesta colors on tallies, nametags and prize wrappings.

Menu

You can make your own tequilla, but make it a tall, cool, refreshing drink with slivers of fresh fruit in it. Canapes of tiny hot peppers, dips and shrimp will start your party while the chili, which you have made ahead of time, heats through. Hot tamales, enchillades, tossed salad, alive with green peppers, and a dessert of fresh fruit salad, Mexican wedding cake cookies with lots of hot coffee will be a menu for muchas gracias. Turkey, bean, rice and egg dishes are all typically Mexican.

Entertainment

A Mexican hat dance, games pertaining to the bull fights, and anything pertaining to our good Mexican neighbors would provide an evening of entertainment. Cheroots and Mexican cigarettes, lace mantillas, roses, fans and anything else symbolic of Mexico can be used for prizes and/or favors.

Award prizes for best costume, and save some time for a Cha Cha Cha with hi fi records giving your hacienda party that "hot" Mexican flavor like direct from Acapulco. Have a gay fiesta, omit the siesta, and like a Mexican jumping bean, have a happy hacienda party.

Mother's Veil Completes Nancy Rockwood's Ensemble

Miss Nancy Jane Rockwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rockwood, 126 Elmwood, Palatine, wore her mother's silk illusion veil at her July 2 double ring wedding to Robert Dillon Leasure.

Rev. Sheldon B. Foote and Rev. Richard Young officiated at the 2:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony held in St. Philip Episcopal church, Palatine. Henry W. Bresser was organist.

Given is marriage by her father before the altar of white stock and majestic daises, the bride wore antique silk shantung floor - length gown with chapel train, and carried a crescent bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and pearls.

The bride's sister, Carole Ann, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mary Ellen Rockwood, another sister of the bride, Louise Leasure, the groom's sister, and Deidre Linder, wore identical turquoise organza over taffeta dresses with fitted bodices, full puffed sleeves, bouffant skirts, cummerbunds and matching headpieces and shoes. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rockwood chose a gold colored silk shantung sheath and jacket, with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Leasure, mother of the groom, wore a 2-piece beige lace dress with a pink rose corsage.

Arthur Leasure, a brother of the groom, served as best man, with Kent Leasure, another brother of the groom, William Hastings and Robert Papp serving as ushers.

The former Miss Rockwood is a graduate of Palatine high school and attended the University of Illinois where she is now employed at the research and education hospital.

The bridegroom son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leasure of Galesburg, also attended the University of Illinois, and is presently enrolled in the school of medicine there.

The couple is residing at 809 S. Marshfield, Chicago.

There was a reception in the church parlors with floral decorations arranged by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. R. Swing of Miami, Fla.

Chorus Has 10-Year Reunion

Plentywood Farm in Bensenville was the scene June 27 of a reunion of members of the Senventh District Woman' the Seventh District Woman's club chorus, which was dissolved 10 years ago when some of the members moved from the area.

The reunion was planned by Mrs. H. Ashton of Arlington Heights, who was assisted by Mrs. Vi Essington and Mrs. Jay Goodenough of Mt. Prospect.

The chorus included singers from all the northwest suburbs, Chicago and Evanston and was in existence from 1932 to 1950. The group sang all over the Chicago area, at the world's fair, for a state convention in Peoria and a national convention in Detroit. It also presented a concert each spring.

AMONG THOSE attending the reunion were two past presidents, Mrs. Alrick Lindquist of Mt. Prospect and Mrs. Arrin Catlin of Chicago and two directors, Mrs. Sebre Baldwin of Norwood Park and Florence Gullins Smith of Gladstone Park. Pianists present included Mrs. Charles Grieves of Franklin Park and Mrs. Essington. Mrs. Marietta Burrows of Edison Park, a former organist for the group,

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

A Happy Houseful

Dear Peg:

I think I realized for the first time how many children were living at our house right now when I opened a loaf of bread for sandwiches and it wasn't enough! Aunt Dot brought Megan and Bridget back from Indianapolis and with them their cousins Dottie and Debbie who will be here for two weeks. So you see when you have six hungry kiddies and a baby sitting down for lunch, a loaf of bread doesn't go far. I said I only realized how many there were when we sat down to eat and that's quite true. Girls the ages of Dottie and Debbie, Megan and Bridget are no trouble at all to have around. They can help a great deal — if called upon and what one can't think of for fun the others can.

As soon as the girls arrived and were settled we decided on a few little duties each was to perform. They all preferred a sort of organzied labor. Working in two teams, Debbie and Bridget were to be the bed-makers and room straighteners while Dottie and Megan were the dish-washers and driers. They were to keep these duties for a week and then switch jobs. Each girl has on deposit with me two dollars which will be paid at the end of the two weeks. However, if their assigned duties are not performed, a nickel is deducted and they will then receive the balance. I have such a good thing going I'm going to hate to see them go home.

One day when it was just a little too cool for going to the beach — their favorite recreation — we went into town to see "The Story of Ruth." I wish we'd saved our money (50 cents for children and a ridiculous $1.50 for adults). This biblical love story is currently being presented in true Hollywood tradition — more attention to makeup and costuming than to story line or acting. It's harmless for children but a time-waster for adults. We have been to several family picnics and I plan to take them out to Santa Claus village, but other than that when we aren't at the beach they are making up their own fun. Yesterday, Aunt Dot and I were treated to a production of Rumpelstiltskin and another time attended an afternoon musicale of piano — playing, singing and dancing.

I'm afraid, dear, that I must close as I promised to hunt up some scrub brushes and get them a pail of water so that they can clean their new "clubhouse." This is the attic over the garage that they discovered a few days ago and have been begging to sleep in. I guess tonight's the night, if they get it all cleaned up.

My love,
Patty

Rock Bottom Prices Set For Rummage

Winter coats for $3, sweaters for 50 cents, blouses for 25 cents and shoes for a nickel will be offered at a bargain hunter's paradise Thursday, July 21, when Barrington Junior Center of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago closes its Potpourri shop.

The sale will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the store, 117 S. Cook st., Barrington and it is planned to dispose of all clothing, bric a brac and antiques at "rock bottom" prices according to the rummage committee, which is headed by Mrs. Raymond Kemppainen.

The Way We See It

Suburbs Have Stake In Builder Ruling

Circuit court Judge Cornelius J. Harrington ruled last week that a village ordinance requiring a subdivision developer to dedicate land for public use is unconstitutional.

The ruling came as the result of a suit filed by Salvatore DiMucci, a much-publicized builder, against the village of Mt. Prospect. DiMucci claimed a village ordinance requiring him to donate one acre of land for every 60 homes he built in his Elk Ridge Villa development along Golf rd. south of the village was unjust.

The village, in turn, claimed that state statutes gave it the power to make the demand.

The judge said that the suburb would have to compensate the builder for any lands it wished for public use.

Mt. Prospect is appealing the decision to the state Supreme court.

The DiMucci suit brings to a head a problem that has been mounting across the nation in the years since World War II.

The modern housing developer, building barren land into a full-blown community within months, has created tremendous demands on already existing communities.

Taxing bodies, especially school districts, have been hard hit to keep up with services demanded by the new residents of these subdivisions.

In our area the communities of Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Buffalo Grove, and sections of older villages have sprung up like a crop of potatoes and grown yearly.

School boards in these areas have bonded themselves to the hilt to keep up with the heavy demands growing families make. They have felt the squeeze in their educational budgets because of the lag in tax assessment, collection, and distribution procedures created by the archaic state revenue code.

Two things have enabled them to meet the demand. One is cooperation from the builders. In Hoffman Estates, for instance, the F&S Construction company has donated sites and complete schools. In other communities partial donations or lease arrangements have been worked out to get things started.

The other saving grace has been the village ordinances requiring dedication. And school officials have been on pins and needles waiting for these to be challenged.

It may be that our state Supreme court will uphold Judge Harrington's decision. If so, there will be no legal argument left for the taxing bodies. It will be possible for developers to build thousands of homes with no provisions for the education or recreation of the people that buy them.

We feel that this is as much a moral as a legal question.

There is more, much more, to building subdivisions than the fulfillment of contracts specifying the types of materials to be used and the price to be paid.

And communities are not to be given a clean bill in the argument. There have been many instances in which the builder has been taken by ordinance-waving school boards.

There is a certain obligation on the part of both the builder and the community to see that services are available for the people.

Where the line is to be drawn probably would differ with each development. Certainly, in a case where houses are raised in strictly rural areas that boast only country schools, the builder would have a greater obligation to assist than in a development that grows in a village of 20,000 people which already has a large school system.

Attempts have been made to clarify this moral responsibility by legislation. Suburban representatives in the Illinois General Assembly have pushed for a bill that would define clearly the responsibilities of subdivision developers. So far the attempts have proved futile.

Judge Harrington's decision no doubt will spur even keener debate in next year's session. We hope a workable law will be forthcoming.

What the court will do, no one can say. DiMucci said last week that he would go to the U.S. Supreme court, if necessary, to win.

The decision will be one of the most important ever handed down on a suburban problem.

Patronage Practices Take Big Slice from Taxpayers

The cost to taxpayers and inefficient government resulting from Illinois' abusive patronage practices were spotlighted recently by Rep. Paul Simon (D. Troy), who estimated over 15,000 patronage employees in state jobs.

With 25 per cent of state employees on patronage payrolls, Illinois' Personnel Code doesn't come close to achieving its lofty goal of "personnel administration . . . based on merit principles and scientific methods."

While Simon's concern is primarily with state employment practices, other Illinois units of government contribute their share of shoddy patronage practices to what surely must add up to the worst record of any state in the union.

As Simon notes, patronage employed by the Democrats in Chicago undoubtedly is one of the reasons a Republican state administration has built up an army of patronage followers.

On the county level, Commissioner Charles Chaplin of Northbrook has repeatedly lambasted the make-work jobs filled by Democratic party faithfuls.

Taxpayers needlessly foot extra costs, notes Simon, whenever a person is placed into a position because he produces so many votes rather than because he is the finest man possible for the job.

"Most damaging of all," says the young representative, "patronage corrodes our political system. The cost to each citizen of Illinois is that his state government is not doing what it should because the political parties tend to be patronage-oriented rather than issue-oriented."

"Until we rid ourselves of the cancer of patronage, Illinois citizens will pay in dollars, heartaches, and political apathy," says Simon.

Refuge in a Yawn?

Suburbs Need New Diversion

by MARTIN E. MARTY

With all the earnest words of the week being devoted to the goings-on in Los Angeles, it seems like a good time to indulge in some pure escape. Herewith, some musings on the northwest suburban area:

It is apparent to all of us that the northwest area is an important place to be today. From the business and real estate angles it is very exciting. The sequence of new motels in the vicinity of O'Hare field point to a growing commercial interest and, with it, a growing cosmopolitanism. Rows and rows of new houses point to the real estate values involved. Good people move here by the thousands and we build the drugstores, schools, swimming pools, and kiddielands to meet the demand.

BUT CAN'T a loyal resident with some conscience for our civilization point to the fact that nothing much that is very interesting is being established here? This comes home in the summer season when sightseers come to the area and ask to see sights. Then the center of gravity remains Chicago or suburbs in other directions.

Perhaps with time a change will come; in that case we can be patient .Or are we writing into our institutions a calculated and uncontroversial sameness? Where does the manifoldness, the variety, the bewildering overlay of cultures that educates children and adults begin to emerge?

ARCHITECTURALLY after you've shown a few of the more daring church buildings (evidently the church is less conservative an institution than many think) there is little to show. How often does a residence northwest of Chicago find its way into architectural journals? We all want to be safe, to 'fit in.' That always happens before a civilization dies out.

Culturally, there are some valiant little theater groups struggling for survival, but many of them must resort to trivial plays to attract. Even summer theaters, not noted for daring, have chosen to locate east and south of us.

Colleges. Am I overlooking something obvious when I point to the fact that a circle from Elmhurst to Elgin to Mundelein to Evanston and back down Foster avenue is as near as we come to major higher educational agencies? And the presence of these seems necessary for the development of the larger cultural life.

SO WE HARDY few must take refuge on a rare night out in distance. You travel 20 mi. to see a foreign film or have a cup of espresso or see a beard. I'd be the last of people to want to be numbered with the beats or even awed by seeing some, but there must be room for something of that type between San Francisco and Rush st. somewhere. Or a paper-back bookstore, etc., etc. Right now the high schools and their adult education programs do the best of anyone around here.

No, I'm not moving. Along with our boredom there is also sanity and security and I like that, too. But must the good life exhaust itself in a yawn? I have a hunch someone with an inventive spirit would find a market soon in this huge population area for something out of the ordinary.

Market-researchers, take note. If you find nothing, I don't want to hear about it. I'll, then, turn on the television set, too. It might divert an hour or two in the scape from eternity. Or, say the housewives, from maternity. Now is the time for . . .

Senate Report Exposes Ugly Misery of Migrant Workers

by CHARLES HAYES

A Senate report last week described the U. S. migratory farm labor situation as "the ugliest kind of human waste."

The report, prepared for the migratory labor subcommittee, was generally critical of working, housing, wage, and recruiting conditions in effect for nearly one million migrant farm workers. It said technological developments and crop specialization have increased rather than decreased the need for a large labor supply available for short cultivating and harvesting periods.

The migrants were called "living testimonials to the poverty and neglect that is possible even in our wealthy and dynamic democracy."

Twenty-two of the 50 states depend each year on a migrant working force of from 6,000 to 205,000 seasonal laborers to cultivate and harvest crops.

THERE ARE almost half a million domestic migrant laborers, made up chiefly of Texas-Mexicans (who comprise nearly all of Illinois' migrant population), southern Negroes, Puerto Ricans, and American Indians.

Another half million foreign migrants — about 400,000 Mexicans and smaller numbers of British West Indians, Canadians and Japanese — also enter the country annually to help with the crops.

The law which permits this influx of Mexican migratory workers benefits mostly large farmers, especially corporation farmers — the same people who are beneficiaries of our extensive agricultural aid program which costs American taxpayers five to six billion dollars yearly and goes mostly into the pockets of those who need it least.

"THERE CAN be no doubt that the foreign worker is exploited, even by his own standards," the Senate report said, adding that one grower, "speaking of the Mexican labor program stated that we used to own slaves, now we rent them from the government."

The report continued: "If, indeed, the few large farms that employ most of the migrant farm labor are unable to produce our fruits and vegetables at wages and under working conditions sufficiently attractive to recruit domestic labor, it seems preferable for the government to subsidize them directly rather than by recuiting foreign labor at 'coolie' wages."

The sub-committee survey was released at a time when Congress was considering legislation which was nothing short of shocking. A Republican - southern Democratic coalition has been pressing for legislation which would continue without change the public law which provides for the mass importation of Mexican farm workers. (The Eisenhower administration's official position is to oppose any action at all this year, since the present law does not expire until June, 1961).

AS A RESULT of this mass importation, a vicious competition for existing jobs is established. The laws of supply and demand, as far as farm labor wages and working conditions are concerned, are blocked. If corporation farms cannot get sufficient workers at low rates of pay, they need not raise wages. They simply get some imported braceros.

This is a major reason why domestic farm workers earn an average income of only $761 a year for their farm labor and why they can get an average of only 128 days of farm work a year.

The severity of the migrants' social and economic tragedy is so obvious, and so one-sided, that it is almost impossible to understand why nothing has been done to help overcome the basic difficulties which face the "forgotten people."

LEGISLATORS such as Sen. Paul H. Douglas and Sen. Hubert Humphrey have met with little success; Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church has gone on record expressing her concern for the problem, but with no more success than her colleagues in the Senate.

In the Executive branch, President Eisenhower has not indicated he's even aware that a migratory problem exists. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has consistently allied himself with the corporation farmers against the workers.

The one heartening example of leadership is Secretary of Labor James Mitchell, who has done more for the migrant and shown more concern for the migrant plight than any other Secretary of Labor. His accomplishments are even more commendable in the light of powerful opposition from Benson and the farm lobby, the President's indifference, and the absence of any widespread public support.

When will the American people finally awaken to the need for national action? What will it take to arouse our consciences sufficiently enough that we demand justice for the impoverished migrant?

The World at Large

Why Is Free World Propaganda Failing

by WILLIAM DULANEY

You are poor; you and your family have known nothing but poverty all of your lives. There is never enough to eat. You have no shoes. You and your children suffer from various diseases. Your infant son's life expectancy is less than 35 years.

Having resigned yourself to despair and constant struggle to stay alive, you are one day offered two choices.

Choice number one is called Communism. It's advocates identify themselves with your plight. You too, they say, can march as they have in two score years from the depths of privation to the top of the world's power structure.

THEY OFFER to show you the way to shake loose the grip of imperialist powers who continue to hold you in bondage, either physically or through ownership of your country's land and resources.

They will give you arms and money and train you to liberate yourselves. If economic reprisals are leveled at you, they will see you through. They will buy your products and give you unlimited credit for the raw materials you need.

They will help build your factories and lend technicians to train you.

What do they ask in return? Nothing. They want no bases in your country. They don't ask you to enter into a military alliance with them. They are willing to help you and show the way to build factories and schools and hospitals because, they say, they have found a superior system under which all men may prosper and find happiness. It is called Communism.

CHOICE NUMBER two is called Democracy. Its advocates warn you of choice number one, Communism. They tell you, you who own little more than the clothes on your back, that Communism is bad because it is against free enterprise.

These Democracy people speak strange names: Karl Marx, Nicolai Lenin, Joseph Stalin. They talk excitedly of the "Red Menace" and an international conspiracy.

Though you've never seen the inside of a school, they talk of an attempt to "enslave men's minds."

You don't understand what this has to do with your hunger or your child's running sores.

Though you've never voted nor known anyone who has, they make much of civil liberties and democratic institutions and a government that receives its power from the consent of the governed.

THIS DEMOCRACY, like Communism, is also willing to give you money and training, but they insist the majority of it be spent on weapons with which to fight Communism.

This Democracy also offers development loans for dams and steel mills if in return you grant them bases from which they may launch their bombers and missiles toward the Communists.

These are the choices being offered millions of the world's peoples today. If you were one of them, ill-clothed, diseased, and suffering from malnutrition, which would you choose?

Our Suburbanites Use Fence Post as Forum for Views

'Disservice' Is Justified

This article is in regards to your July 7 edition in which a gentleman wrote to the Fence Post and stressed his dissatisfaction over a Magistrates decision in our automobile damage suit.

In the June 23 edition of the Palatine Enterprise, it was incorrectly stated that we received a new transmission for our automobile. This gentleman apparently thinks with 48,000 miles, our transmission was one-half worn out. I would like to make it clear that there was only one part damaged in our transmission, this part was damaged due to the theft. By having comprehensive coverage, we were to be protected when situations like this arose. Therefore, we were suing for what we were entitled to after paying our insurance premiums for their "so-called protection." If suing the insurance company in which you are a policy holder for what you are entitled to, and bringing this matter to the public's attention creates a disservice which reflects on other insurance companies, then it is well deserved!

OUR PARTICULAR case, which this gentleman refers to as a "nuisance case" probably has happened to other individuals or may happen in the future. We must prove to whatever unfavorable organizations we may have in our suburbs that we intend to fight for our rights to obtain what we are entitled to. Having a city court and magistrate is to be deeply appreciated. This service is not only to uphold justice, but also to secure the rights of the people.

As for this gentleman, who happens to be an insurance broker and disagrees with the magistrates ruling in our case, I venture to say it may be interesting to know just what he considers fair on the part of an insurance company to their policy holders.

It seems this gentleman would like us to believe that the only right decisions are the ones made by the insurance companies and their authorized representatives.

All Thanked For Support

On behalf of the Palatine Jaycees I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped make Palatine's second annual Family Independence day celebration the success which it was. Without the generous support of the community business men, the circus attendees, and the wonderful publicity support of Paddock Publications, the show could not have gone on.

We were sorry that so many of our friends who attended the evening performance had to evacuate the circus "Big Top" because of the high wind danger, became drenched from the rain, and were unable to return when the show continued later that evening. Arrangements were made for those disappointed few to attend the July 4th performance of the circus at a nearby community. Our main concern during the danger period was to make certain that no one was exposed to any unnecessary hazards.

We wish to thank the Palatine police and fire departments for their excellent cooperation in maintaining order and assuring the safety of those attending the circus and the Independence Day celebration.

Especially instrumental in the successful Community Park celebration were Village Manager Robert Eppley; the Palatine park board, who authorized use of their facilities; the Village Band, with their stirring music; and president of the village council, Howard Olsen, for his thought-provoking speech.

THE JAYCEES greatly regret the incident which knocked - out the high firing mortar tubes and curtailed the fireworks at the half-way mark. We would like everyone to know that the professional fireworks men involved were only superficially peppered with flying sand from a sandbag and that the safety precautions taken by the Jaycees, police department, and park board protected the visitors at all times.

The Jaycees were most happy to sponsor this family Independence Day celebration and sincerely hope that everyone enjoyed the weekend activities.

Edward J. Prislinger
President, Palatine

Where Will Peasants End?

The term "sucker" can be applied to every area composed of citizens desperate for a place to live without socialized housing, high taxes, union political pressure, and church politics.

The majority are young, progressively educated to "follow the leader," let an "expert" do the work, etc., They do not read or discuss civic issues or cultured matters. Their minds are directed to keep them "happy but dumb" on the real facts of our American way.

HERE ARE SOME examples:

1. Discussion of "politics" is suppressed. No party or union is mentioned; character and ability not considered; basic civic education not taught in schools.

2. Sly propaganda: "We can't interfere with school administration,"; He's a nice man, fine home, etc.,"; "Politics is for the politician — not us,"; "Use the forest preserve for Little League and our new school;" "County zoning, village plan, sewer hearing, — oh, that's for the officials —not our business!"; "Church merger? I don't care. We can worship under one as good as another;" So what if we are centrally bossed. We need some one to tell us what to do. We got to fight the Catholics and Jews."

This may point out that we have American peasants in abundance in "sucker" areas, which are easily brainwashed, and use mob tactics, as has occurred at Streamwood. In a union controlled area it is worse. They just whine, and move out, but in most cases, the mother goes to work and teenagers run wild. High percentages of child marriages and divorce.

AND WHERE will the American peasant end up? Like in other labor social cities and countries — in a socialized environment from cradle to the grave, and who pays for it: the egg head who put him there, because he didn't want to be bothered helping his "poorer brother" to help himself.

And in a socialized country, what happens to religion? It becomes, as the Commies say, an opiate. The Protestants, in some denominations, are being socialized now. Some are already co-existing with Communism. One local church (Wood Dale Community Church), already subverted, has issued a "test letter" to see how many peasants will recognize Commie propaganda. Ministers' quote: "He should speak evil of no men — show Christian love to all." This allows moral wrongs to be done, allows hoodlums to gain church office, or pull church political strings. "They should not speak disparingly . . . but pray to maintain the unity of peace." "Dissension should be avoided — one of the basic principles of discussion and criticism. The peasants are just to obey and conform. There is more of the same Commie line.

PTA Clarifies Ditch Stand

The subject of the Elk Grove boulevard ditch has received a large amount of publicity for the last several weeks. Articles in the newspaper have implied that the Ridge school PTA is affiliated with the Elk Grove Improvement association, which is demanding that the ditch be covered.

One of the co-chairmen of the Elk Grove Improvement association was present at one of our board meetings to relay to us what the policies of his group were to be. He advised us that his group was to be a fact finding group whose concern was to be only the subject ditch. They were going to discuss and present their views to the Centex Construction co. He very strongly implied that they would not be a group supported by sensationalism. We advised that our interest in the ditch was the same. The Ridge school PTA is interested in the health, education, safety and welfare of the children of our school and community. We approved of the program of his group as he related it to us.

IT IS increasingly apparent that the Elk Grove Improvement association has strayed afar from their original standards as we were led to understand them. Therefore, we wish to make it known that the Ridge school PTA is in no way associated with the Elk Grove Improvement association nor does the Ridge school PTA necessarily endorse or back their actions and ideas. By the same token, we are in no way associated with the Centex Construction company. Our interests in the Elk Grove boulevard ditch is the same as our interest regarding any possible hazard to the children of Elk Grove Village.

We are interested in keeping our children safe and well. If and/or when we feel that this ditch is a threat to the safety of our children, we will let it be known. If this should occur, we fight for a practical remedy of the situation. With our faith in humanity, we do not feel that we will have to fight hard if the well-being of our children is at stake.

Gerald R. Kongabel,
President
Ridge School PTA
Elk Grove Village

Firemen Earn Their Thanks

We wish to publicly thank the Roselle fire department for their alert and efficient handling of the phone call, and the manner in which they quickly extinguished a recent basement fire in this area.

It is gratifying to know we have these capable men and up-to-date equipment for protection.

Say, How About Stray Cats?

In your paper I read an article about too many stray dogs in Wood Dale and being without license tags. They forgot the overwhelming number of cats — mild or domestic. In our street alone, there are 20-30 cats running loose ruining flowers and gardens, scratching trees and killing birds.

It's about time something is done about cats too! If owners of cats had to pay a small license fee for each cat they have, (some families are known to have several) there would be a more definite control of the immense number of cats!

Teens Annoy Home Owners

On July 4 I was sitting down for a restful evening, when, at 9:45 p.m., a trick and treat door bell rang. My husband went to the door, turned on the porch light, but no one was there. He heard footsteps on the drive walk.

A little later, he heard more noise, looked out and there was a fire on the neighbors' walk, two doors away. Some papers were burning and these neighbors and a few others were out on vacations.

About 10:30, we heard more noise, looked out our back windows, and saw four teenagers smoking back of our garage. My husband went out, but they ran away.

NEXT MORNING I wanted to use our hose which we have along side of the house. The hose had been slashed with a knife cut, right in half. A few other neighbors also had things done.

I wonder if the parents of these boys know what they are doing to people's property? I raised two boys and always knew where they were at that hour.

THERE ARE ALL KINDS OF SMILES

There's the satisfied smile. And the triumphant smile. And there is the "just plain happy" smile. And then there's the kind of smile any woman gets when she thinks about spending money. All those smiles can come from using the Want Ads. You'll be satisfied and triumphant and happy, too, when you sell your "don't needs" for quick cash with a Paddock Publications Want Ad. And then you can smile as you think about spending that money. So come on . . . get happy . . . place your Want Ad right now!

Quotoons

A happily married woman is one who can enjoy a good cry without having a good reason for it.

Life insurance statistics prove that millions of people would rather die than diet.

If people had to live on food for thought imagine how hungry some of them would get?

The size of a man's reputation depends on whether he's trying to hold it up or whether he lets his friends do it for him.

All this talk about flying saucers is not new to some married men who have been dodging them for years.

One time you have to overstep your mark is when the other fellow expects you to meet him halfway.

THE PARKBENCH TYPE OF LEISURETIME

Forethoughtful folks take care of the future . . . meet it with a twinkle in the eye and trip or two in mind. They live independently, usually in a home of their own.

Hindthoughtfuls let the future take care of them. Someone or something provides for them, and they live in just a place. All in all, it's a sort of parkbench way of life. Their later years are leisure years too . . . but how pleasurable is questionable.

Midwestern forethoughtfuls are familiar with the house that security built—the unexcelled safety . . . the availability . . . the Save-by-Mail and in-person conveniences . . . the safe 4% profit.

If you're forethoughtful, remember that it costs you nothing to accept the best.

HOME AND 31 ACRE HOBBY PLACE

Unusual opportunity in Crystal Lake area. Well built and nicely preserved 7-room older home, with some wall-to-wall carpeting, tile bath, cabinet kitchen, refrigerator & range, new oil heating unit, full basement. In beautiful setting surrounded by many shade & fruit trees. Also small barn, and other out-buildings. Opportunity to pursue hobbies such as chickens, ponies, horses or light profitable farming. Also wonderful for 4-H club for children (one way to beat juvenile delinquency). Blacktop road with approximately 1120 feet of frontage across from new subdivision (this frontage alone will be worth more than asking price on entire setup in only few years). Also near schools, shopping & churches. This location within Crystal Lake school district with school bus at door. All this for approximately $450 a year taxes. Wonderful for retired couple or young folks raising family, or anyone wanting country living with every city convenience. Fifty minute train service to Chicago. Owner has good reasons for selling and offers this direct (no agents, please) at price of $39,500 with minimum of $20,000 down, or may divide to sell house with less acres.

For further information, phone CLearbrook 5-8815. This could be what you always dreamed about, but never available at this price.

WHY FISH AROUND?

You'll never find experienced anglers just "FISHIN' AROUND" aimlessly, hoping for a lucky catch. Fishermen soon learn that certain exact spots usually produce consistent catches and these spots are hard to find. In fact, they amount to only a small percentage of the so-called "FISHIN' WATER" that meets the eye.

BUT THAT'S WHERE THE FISH ARE and that's why fishermen, once they've had proof that the spot is a "HOT ONE" always return to the same place.

Something like looking for a good home. Experienced shoppers don't go "FISHIN' AROUND" aimlessly hoping for a lucky catch. Wise shoppers go to DOVENMUEHLE . . . The one "HOT SPOT" which is a consistent producer of good values at maximum savings, they've had proof that DOVENMUEHLE gives them the limit in Savings—Every day of the week. DOVENMUEHLE CHANGES "LUCK" INTO CERTAINTY!!

ONLY $98 A MONTH
Yes, we know it's hard to believe. But for only $98.00 monthly you can enjoy the comforts and pleasures of living in a home of your own for less than what you'd pay to rent. You'll get rid of rent receipts and start paying yourself something each month when you move into this Spic 'N Span 3 bedroom ranch with 12'x26' att. garage. Gas heat, carpeting, storm windows. CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Poison Ivy is perhaps the most widely distributed and greatly despised vegetation in North America. If you are not acquainted with it, poison ivy is a wood perennial which grows as a low shrub, or tall climbing vine, which receives its support from aerial roots. The toxic substance in poison ivy is an extremely volatile oil, which causes poisoning not only by direct contact, but also if one brushes the leaves, by stepping on them or burning them.

Many people are susceptible to poison ivy poisoning — so the first step of prevention is to recognize poison ivy when you see it. It has three leaves, the edges of which may be either lobed, notched or smooth. The leaves are bright green now and turn to red or yellow in the fall. White flowers appear where the leaf and stem join, developing into cream-colored berries.

IF YOU HAVE poison ivy on the premises, it can be eradicated by using a combination of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-F. This will eliminate the broad leaf weeds as well as dandelions or plantain. It will not harm lawn grasses.

The tomato season will soon be here. Norman Oebker, vegetable crop extension specialist, university of Illinois, advises picking tomatoes when they start turning pink. He explains that tomatoes handled in this way are firmer and have a better flavor than vine - ripened tomatoes. Let the tomatoes ripen before they are refrigerated.

Striped and spotted cucumber beetles are chewing insects that attack cucumbers, melons, squash and pumpkins.

BOTH BEETLES damage new seedlings pushing through the soil. Later in the season the adult beetle chew leaves, blossoms and fruits.

To control this pest, use dusts containing 3 to 5 per cent methoxychlor or 1 per cent rotenone. Do not use DDT or spray mixtures containing DDT on vine or melon crops.

A University of Illinois vegetable crops specialist offers two rules for harvesting sweet corn: Pick at the proper time and handle it carefully after picking.

Just what is the "proper time" is probably a puzzle to some home gardeners. Here are some suggestions from Norman F. Oebker that may help: 1. Dry silks indicate that corn is reaching maturity. 2. Feel the ears to make sure they are full, including the tips.

3. PULL THE tip of the husk open and peek inside. Kernals should be yellow and plump. Whiteness indicates immaturity — unless the corn is a white variety.

4. Using a fingernail, puncture several kernels. If they are properly matured, milk will leak out. If water oozes out, they are too young. If a doughy substance appears, they are too old.

The time to pick actually depends on how you like your corn. Some people prefer young corn, while others like it more mature.

After harvesting the corn, place it in a cool storage area. Tests show that at 32 degrees F. it loses only 8 per cent of its sugar content in 24 hours. Of course, corn always tastes best when eaten immediately after harvest.

Pork Supply Going Down, Down

Farmers cut the spring pig crop much more than they had indicated earlier. According to the USDA report, they saved 49.1 million pigs between December 1, and June 30. This was 16 per cent less than were saved last year. Last December they reported that they would cut production only 11 per cent.

The 1960 spring pig crop is the smallest, in relation to population, since the drouth years of the 1930's.

The 1960 fall pig crop will not be cut so much. Farmers in early June reported plans to cut the 1960 fall pig crop 3 per cent below that of last year. Their intentions pointed to a fall pig crop of about 41.5 million head. That would provide less pork in relation to population than we had in either of the past two years, but more than in any of the other years back to 1951.

HOG SLAUGHTER will be unusually small in the July-August-September quarter. The reason is that the number of pigs 3 to 6 months old on farms in nine corn-belt states on June 1 was 19 per cent smaller than a year earlier.

The scarcity of pork will continue on into the October-November-December quarter. The number of pigs under 3 months old on farms June 1 was 15 per cent less than a year before.

The scarcity of pork in the last half of this year will be partly offset by record supplies of poultry and by record, or near-record, supplies of beef.

Consumer buying power is expected to increase a little this fall, but the increase may not be so much as has occurred in some recent years.

THE PROSPECTIVE supply and demand situation should support a very profitable level of prices to hog producers during the last half of this year.

As a target, let's say that prices should equal the average of the three years 1956-1958. In the last half of those three years, the average price of farrows and gilts at eight leading terminal markets in the corn belt was a little over $18 a hundred pounds.

The average price in the three Julys was a bit over $20; Augusts, a bit under $20; Septembers, $18.35; Octobers, $17.25; Novembers, $16.70; Decembers, $17.65.

Prices this year may, of course, be higher or lower than these figures. The supply of pork available to each person will be smaller than it was in any one of the three years 1956-1958. But costs of marketing hogs and of processing and distributing pork are up from the previous levels.

THE MONTHLY distribution of spring farrowings suggests that prices may average higher in August or at least in early August, than they will in July.

Weather conditions will be important in determining the pattern of prices. Extremely hot weather in the corn belt reduces the rate of gain and delays marketings. Hot, humid weather in the big consuming centers reduces the demand for pork.

The outlook seems to call for feeding programs for winter pigs that will get cheapest, rather than fastest, gains. The same applies to late spring pigs.

Hogs weighing under 200 pounds will be discounted, especially in the late summer. Most markets will pay top prices for hogs with good hams and loins and weighing 210 to 230 pounds. (Fm

Business Good, But Prospects Uncertain

By L. H. SIMERL

The business situation and outlook is about "normal." That is, business could be better, and the outlook is uncertain.

Employment and unemployment figures show a fairly favorable picture. In May, 67.2 million persons were working for pay or profit. That number was nearly 2 per cent more than were working the year before.

Unemployment was calculated at 3.5 million, or 4.9 per cent of the labor force. This percentage is the same as in May the year before. We usually have 3 to 4 per cent of our workers unemployed even in boom times. In the recession year of 1958, unemployment in May totaled 4.9 million, or 6.8 per cent of the labor force. In the Great Depression of the 1930s, 15 to 25 per cent of the labor force was unemployed for 10 years.

PERSONAL income reached an annual rate of $399 billion in May. It has increased about 14 per cent in 2½ years. Most of this increase is real, though some of it is simply inflation.

Most recent business forecasts were optimistic. This is "normal" too, since most of the talkers were either businessmen looking for sales, or necessarily hopeful government officials.

One strong prop under business is the spending for new plants and equipment. These outlays are running at an annual rate of $37 billion a year, up about one-fourth from the 1958 recession low.

Consumers, too, have been "living it up." Department store sales have been running about 2 per cent ahead of 1959 figures. And a near - record number of automobiles have been sold this year.

BUT MAYBE consumers have been spending too much. Short- and intermediate-term consumer debts increased 14 per cent in the past year and now total nearly $53 billion. Consumers may soon become so loaded with debts that they will have to slow up their buying for a while.

Business inventories are large and still growing. Stocks in warehouses are probably worth about $94 billion, at least $1 billion greater than in 1957, before the 1958 recession. Stocks of automobiles and steel especially are large. When business inventories get too big, output must be reduced while stocks are worked off.

In a sense, both consumers and businessmen are loaded with merchandise. They may go on overspending for a few months, but accounts and stocks must be balanced up fairly soon. This is not a climate that induces business to spend more money to build more capacity.

Public spending is not increasing so fast as it has in recent years. Federal spending has trended downward in the past 12 months. It is not yet clear how much the road program and defense outlays can be speeded up within the next 12 months.

STATE AND local government spending is still increasing, but probably not so fast as in recent years. This is not because we have enough new schools, roads and streets, but because citizens have been voting down proposed bond issues and tax increases.

In many ways the 1950s were like the 1920s. In both decades private citizens and state and local governments took on big new loads of debt. It does now necessarily follow, however, that the 1960s will bring another Great Depression such as engulfed our nation (and most others) in the 1930s.

6 Illinois Scientists Report At Dairy Meet

Homemakers know that cottage cheese sometimes develops undesirable flavors when it is stored at refrigeration temperatures.

Three University of Illinois cheese specialists reported that these flavor defects resulted from psychrophilic bacteria growth in the cheese.

Speaking at the American Dairy Science association meeting, Utah State university, R. A. Chaudhary, S. L. Tuckey and L. D. Witter reported on research designed to find whether psychrophilic organisms that cause this spoilage come from the original milk or are added during processing.

The research proved that psychrophilic spoilage of cottage cheese was due to contamination that followed the cooking process. The spoilage is not caused by milk.

The cream dressing added to the cheese is an important source of contamination, the specialists explained.

IN ADDITION dairymen heard three U. of I. specialists report on the effects of adding certain carbohydrates to milk replacer diets for dairy calves.

K. A. Kendall, S. P. Netke, and K. E. Gardner reported that when starch replaced approximately one third of the dried skim milk on an equal, energy basis in a milk replacer diet, calves made average daily gains of .518 pound over a 42-day period. When no starch was added, the gain was .587 pound daily.

When hydrolyzed blackstrap molasses was added to the ration, calves gained an average of .466 pound daily. Blackstrap molasses without hydrolysis caused calves to scour severely. Scouring also occured when cerelose was included in the diet, the scientists explained.

These studies point further to the inability of the young dairy calf to utilize certain carbohydrates when included in milk replacer diets.

State Has Highest Soil Moisture Year

This season sets a new record in the abundant amount of soil moisture uniformly distributed over Illinois.

D. B. Peters, soil scientist with the University of Illinois and the Soil Conservation service, reported a recent survey showed soils in all parts of the state have never been so uniformly supplied with moisture as this year. In fact, many areas have had too much to get crops planted.

Peters credited this situation to the 40 inches of February and March snow that melted slowly enough to soak into the soil. The result was soil stored full of water. No floods generated from melting snow flowing off Illinois land.

The heavy floods in western Illinois were caused by water flowing down from Minnesota and Wisconsin, Peters explained.

In addition, rainfall has been plentiful this spring.

With normal temperatures for the rest of the season, Illinois soils are holding enough moisture now to carry the growing crops to maturity even if they receive no further rainfall.

Tips To Fix Berry Beds

Here's a tip for wise home gardeners: Renovate strawberry patches after they finish producing berries this summer.

Renovating will keep the patches near their production peak for several years.

Here's what to do:

—1. Mow off the tops of all berry plants. Use a rotary motor, sickle mower or lawn mower. Set the blade high enough to avoid damaging the crowns - just remove the leaves.

—2. Rake up all leaves, old straw and other debris. Burn them.

—3. To prevent overcrowding, narrow the rows to 8 to 12 inches. Use a plow - roto - tiller, garden disk or hand hoe. Try to destroy all plant growth beyond the 8- to 12-inch width.

—4. Remove all weeds left in the narrowed row.

—5. FERTILIZE. For one acre, broadcast 500 pounds of 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 fertilizer over the entire area. Or use five pounds for every 100 feet of row.

—6. Water. Soak the soil until the moisture is six inches deep. Letting a hose run slowly over the ground is the best way. In addition, water whenever the patch becomes dry later in the summer. Also dig out weeds that sprout.

Allow runner plants to root as they form during the rest of the growing season. Rows should increase to a width of 18 to 25 inches. After they reach this width, remove all runner plants that form. Plants that root after August 1 will not produce fruit next year.

Check the patch often for signs of insects or diseases.

The University offers three free publications that give more specific information on strawberry growing and disease and insect control. They are: Circular 819: Strawberry Growing in Illinois. This is a brand - new publication. Circular 814: Illinois Fruit Calendar for Growers of Apples, Strawberries and Peaches. Fruit Leaflet No. 1: Strawberry Spray and Dust Guide.

Home gardeners can pick up copies from the Farm Adviser's office, 201 N. Dunton st., Arlington Heights.

Up and Doing 4-H Reports on 3 Recent Meetings

When the Up and Doing 4-H club met June 7, members toured Thons perennial gardens and picnicked. Talks were given by Merrilie Moehling on photography and by Dolores Thon on baby sitting. Cooking demonstrations were given by Frances Krueger, Rose Moehling and Mary Haseman.

Talks were given by Margaret Sidor on party a month and by Virginia Witt on dining table covers at the group's June 21 meeting. Other features of this meeting were demonstrations by Betty Lou Moehling and Carol Moehling.

MORE TALKS were given by Susan Jensen, Virginia Witt and Carol Moehling at the July 5 meeting and demonstrations were given by Carolyn Haseman and Karen Jensen.

At each of the meetings, county and local achievement were discussed.

August 11 is the date set for the club's swimming party. (Fm

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it still considered necessary that the woman speak first when meeting a man on the street?

A. No. In fact, it is more usual for the man to smile and give the woman an indication that he has recognized her so that she may then bow to him. This is particularly true in business contact where it may be hard for a woman to remember all the men she has met during a busy week.

Q. Am I supposed to reply to letters and notes of condolence I have received?

A. This is only good manners in return for such acts of thoughtfulness. Your notes may be brief, but they should be sincere and they should be handwritten.

Lake County Fair, 4-H Show Slated July 27-31

Everything from rabbits to people will be on exhibit at the 32nd annual Lake county fair and 4-H club show at the County Fair grounds July 27-31.

The grounds are located one mile east of Grayslake on route 45 about one-half mile north of route 120.

There will be more than 50 acres of land available for industrial, educational, and commercial exhibits, parking, and the midway according to Ray T. Nicholas, Lake county farm adviser.

Exhibitors from Illinois and Wisconsin will display their best blue ribbon poultry, sheep, swine, dairy cattle, beef cattle, and rabbits.

A rodeo, pony show, and 4-H and open class horse show are scheduled.

THE 4-H CLUB pony and horse show will begin with the halter classes at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 27. Following the judging of the halter classes, performance classes will start.

In addition to the 4-H club horse show, the 4-H members will present a talent show in the evening featuring stunts, skits, instrumental, and vocal numbers.

Bulldogging and bronco busting will be viewed at the Calzavara Bar M Ranch rodeo, scheduled for performances at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Saturday all-day Shetland pony show will begin at 9 a.m. with the halter classes. Performance classes will start at 2 p.m. Sunday, an all-day horse show is scheduled to open at 9:30 a.m. with the halter classes. Performance classes will begin at 1 p.m.

AFTER THE Thursday and Friday evening rodeo performance, a fireworks display "equal to that seen anywhere in the entire country" will take place, Nicholas noted.

A bevy of beauties, including Miss Illinois County fair of 1960, Miss Lake County fair of 1959, and the queen candidates for the 1960 Lake County fair will lead livestock parades Saturday at 7:15 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m.

An added feature of the 1960 fair is a tractor pulling contest Friday, July 29, at 2 p.m. Tractors will pull in three classes on the basis of tractor weight.

More than 1,200 boys and girls enrolled in the Lake county 4-H club program will have exhibits in this year's show. They will share in the more than $4,000 in premium money allotted to the 4-H exhibitors.

Open class exhibitors will vie for $14,000 in cash awards.

IN ADDITION to the livestock and 4-H club exhibits, there will be displays by farmers, gardeners, homemakers, and hobbyists.

Judging of exhibits will commence at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 27. All exhibits except dairy and beef cattle, swine, sheep, and open class rabbits will be judged opening day.

Dairy cattle judging will take place Thursday, July 28, at 9 a.m. Beef cattle and hogs will be appraised July 29, and sheep and rabbits July 30.

The 4-H sheep blocking and trimming contest is scheduled for July 31 at 1 p.m.

A public auction of grand champion and reserve champion steers, barrows, and wether lambs will take place July 30 at 4:30 p.m. in the livestock area of the fair grounds. Other prize winning animals will also be sold to the highest bidder. (B8

Soloist Set For Service At Outdoor

GEO. McGlennen

George McGlennen, South Whitley, Ind., will be the guest soloist at the church service at the "53" drive-in theater, Sunday, July 17, at 7:30 a.m.

McGlennen, who has sung on Ft. Wayne, Ind., radio stations, has chosen three numbers for Sunday's service. They are: "How Great Thou Art," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and "Were You There?"

THE SOLOIST, a familiar visitor to the congregation of Christ Lutheran church, Palatine, sponsor of the outdoor service, has recorded an album of religious favorites. The record is "Hymns of our Beautiful Savior."

Rev. C. G. Shira, pastor of Christ Lutheran, will preach the seventh sermon in a series of 10 he is giving on the Ten Commandments. His theme Sunday, following "Thou Shalt Not Steal," is "Honesty Is the Only Policy." (B8

Motorists Penalized

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced this week that northwest suburban motorists had received three revocations, seven suspensions, and three probationary permits.

Owen Miskell, Home ave., and Carl J. Wolf, RR 3 Box 181, both of Bensenville, lost their licenses because of drunken driving. Ray C. Nelson, 280 E. Wayne pl., Wheeling, lost his license for committing three violations.

SUSPENSIONS went to Nicholas Berdnick, 123 W. Wood st., Palatine; Alfred P. Steffens, 15 Wolf rd., Prospect Heights; James Weidner, 1411 N. Dunton st., Arlington Heights; H. S. Wright, White Oaks, Bartlett; and Donald F. Parisek, 261 W. Lake st., Buckley L. Smith, 309 Washington, and Henry Vaillarreal, 6N362 Keeney, all of Roselle.

Probationary permits were Earl H. Hawkinson, 911 Wildwood dr., Prospect Heights; Carlton P. Scott, 580 N. Quentin rd., Palatine; and John M. Cazel, RR 1 Circle, Roselle. (A13

The Mailman's Corner

Popular Song Hit List Irks Critic

LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

I have just about stopped listening to the radio because every time I turn it on, I am deluged with emotional, pathetic, heart throbbing, passionate, or sadistic melodies, wailed at me by the popular satonic sopranos, bewailing baritones, tragic contraltos, or trembling tenors.

There is no denying that love has its emotional and physical sides; but according to the songsters and song writers (the popular ones) that is all there is to love. Love is more than just what happens to you; for when you really love, it is not yourself that you think about, but the other person. You want them to be happy, you want to do things for them. You joy in their presence, cry with their grief, rejoice with their success and happiness. They may disappoint you, hurt you, anger you, but these things make no difference in your love for them. Love is an enduring thing, a stubborn, wholely selfless emotion that flourishes in troublesome times, and does not count the cost of what will bring good, and peace and happiness to one that is loved.

LOVE IS WHAT leads a parent to keep on helping and praying, working and sacrificing for a child. Love is what keeps a spouse forgiving and praying for and trying to help a drunken, unfaithful husband or wife. Love is what keeps two people together, in sickness and in health, poverty or riches, until they are separated by death. There is nothing cheap or tawdy about love. It is priceless, sacred, rich and strong, lasting as long as life, even reaching beyond the grave. True love has conquered oceans, traversed deserts, overcome fear and self pity, inspired great spiritual, moral and mental growth and ability.

I enjoy a love song that is full of unselfish devotion, and admiration, or longing. I dislike one filled with thoughts of revenge, joy in another's suffering, or the cheap and pandering kind that yearns for passionate embraces and searing kisses. I enjoy greatly the great Christian songs of Christ's love for us, and other's love for Him.

Jesus said of love: "Greater love than this has no man that he lay down his life for a friend." That is what He did for us.

Prospect Heights Homemaker Cooks Popular Italian Dish

by LOIS SEILER

Cooking is a hobby with Mrs. Frank S. Cygan of Prospect Heights. She loves to putter in the kitchen and has lots of excellent recipes, many of which have been in her family for years.

One of them is an old, old recipe for Chicken Cacciatora, which has been a favorite of Mrs. Cygan's for some 25 years.

"It is simple to prepare, yet guests always rave about it," comments Mrs. Cygan. This dish features chicken, onions and mushrooms cooked in a garlic-flavored tomato and wine gravy.

NOT ONLY is the chicken flavorful and tender, but the rich gravy is delicious over mashed potatoes. In addition, Mrs. Cygan serves a green vegetable such as string beans or peas and a salad.

"I usually sprinkle oregano over the salad greens," says this good cook, "and add some sliced olives and anchovies. Then all is tossed together with an oil and vinegar dressing."

For dessert she suggests something light and simple, such as sherbet or tortoni.

MRS. CYGAN also has an elegant dessert recipe for a Cheese Cake. "This dessert is too rich to serve with the Chicken Cacciatora," she declared, "but I highly recommend it with a roast beef, pork or baked ham dinner."

Baked in a spring-form pan, this delightful cream cheese cake has a graham cracker crust and sour cream topping.

"Although expensive to make (about $1.50.), it is very rich and should be cut in small pieces. I've found that it will serve 12 nicely," said Mrs. Cygan.

FOR COFFEE parties or a luncheon she has another excellent recipe suggestion, a French Coffee Cake which is of the "melt-in-your-mouth" variety.

Baked in a tube pan, this cake rises as high as an angel food cake. It has a delightful light texture and a tasty filling and topping of sugar, cinnamon and chopped nuts.

"Because of the topping there is no bother with a frosting," says Mrs. Cygan, "and it can be made in advance and will stay fresh and delicious."

This is a delectable dessert for almost any occasion, and it will serve 12 generously.

The contributor of these appealing recipes is a member of the Prospect Heights Woman's club. She and her husband live at 506 Hillcrest in Prospect Heights. They have a son, John, who is a senior at the University of Montana.

CHICKEN CACCIATORA

2 tablespoons olive oil
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 large onion, sliced
4 to 5 pound chicken
1 can tomato paste
1 cup water
Salt and pepper
½ cup tart red wine
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced

Heat olive oil in a heavy skillet. Brown garlic and onion in the oil; cut up chicken and brown. Combine tomato paste, water and seasonings and pour over chicken.

Cook over low heat until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes; add wine and mushrooms and cook an additional 5 minutes. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

CHEESE CAKE

Crust:

1¼ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ pound butter
¼ cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and pat in the bottom and half-way up the sides of a greased spring-form pan.

Filling:

1 pound Philadelphia Cream Cheese
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Mix ingredients together and beat well. Pour into the crust and bake for one hour in a 375 degree oven. Remove from oven; let cool on cake rack for 15 minutes.

Topping:

1 pint sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and spread over top of cake. Raise oven heat to 475 degrees. Return cake to oven and bake an additional 10 minutes.

Remove from oven and let cool. Place waxed paper over the top and place in the refrigerator overnight. Remove cake from pan before serving. Serves 12.

FRENCH COFFEE CAKE

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
4 eggs
1 cup sour cream
3 cups cake flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in sour cream.

Sift dry ingredients together three times and add to batter. Add vanilla.

Filling:

1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix ingredients together; pour ¾ of the cake batter into a greased tube pan. Top with ¾ of the filling mixture.

Add remaining cake batter and sprinkle remaining filling on top. Bake for 55 minutes in a 325 degree oven. Serves 12 generously.

AN ITALIAN specialty, Chicken Cacciatora, is one of the favorite dinners of Mrs. Frank S. Cygan of Prospect Heights. This good cook has an excellent yet easy recipe for this flavorful dish which features tender chicken in a rich tomato-wine gravy. Her recipe for an elegant cheese cake and delectable French Coffee Cake are also featured in this week's issue. (SH

Onion Soup Flavors

The incomparable hamburger has the status of a national dish in this country. At the least, it is simply a round patty of ground beef, seasoned and broiled to perfection. At its best, it is a round patty of ground beef with the deft touch of the gourmet added: an ingenious package of onion soup mix and the tantalizing taste of Burgundy wine.

The final touch is a subtly complimentary sauce that is made by blending flour into the pan drippings then adding water, half of the package of onion soup mix and two tablespoons of Burgundy.

THIS IS ideal company fare. Serve these deluxe hamburgers with herbed green peas, new white potatoes cut into fancy shapes with a potato cutter with a waffle-edge, and honey-glazed carrots. This is a menu that requires very little time for preparation and cooking, so the hostess will enjoy it as much as her guests.

Deluxe Hamburgers With Wine

1 package onion soup mix
1 pound ground beef chuck
¼ cup Burgundy wine
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons flour
1¾ cups water

In mixing bowl, combine ground chuck, 3 tablespoons onion soup mix and 2 tablespoons wine. Shape into patties. Melt shortening in skillet and brown hamburgers to desired doneness. Remove to heated serving dish. Blend flour into pan drippings, add remaining onion soup mix and water. Stir until thickened then simmer 5 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons wine and blend. Pour over hamburgers. Makes 4 servings.

FROM SPAIN COMES GAZPACHO, the iced salad soup. Blend minced or pureed vegetables with fragrant Spanish olive oil and a bit of sharp vinegar, serve with ice clinking in the tureen. This summer delicacy is one of those dishes rapidly "on the way up" in the food fashion world. For a luncheon or first course on a heat-simmering night, this smooth icy cold concoction is a refreshing delight and very, very chic.

Hearty Peasant Soup Is Spanish Gazpacho

In origin, Gazapacho is plebeian indeed. The Andalusian peasants of southern Spain have from time feasted on this thick cold "soup" of minced or pureed vegetables blended with olive oil, as they took a noon rest in the shade, soaking up its goodness with chunks of black bread. Visitors to Andalusia began to spread the word abroad of this delectable peasant fare, but how to describe it was difficult.

Not a soup in the usual sense there's no cooking involved. In fact, one American visitor, the cookbook author, Charles Baker in his "The Gentleman's Companion," published in 1946, described Gazpacho as an hors d'oeuvres, a garlic-tomato paste spread on peasant bread.

BREAD crumbs beaten into the mixture serve to give the soup substance and flavor if dark whole wheat bread is used. A mere cup of soft crumbs will do the trick, and the number of added calories per serving is minimal.

Use an electric blender if you have one; Gazpacho can be made in minutes this way, everything added to the blender at once. Or use a food mill, or fine blade of a food grinder, or mince all the ingredients and beat by hand until creamy.

BE SURE to let the puree chill in the refrigerator for several hours before you add ice cubes or additional liquid; this marinating is what gives the cold soup its delectable flavor.

Use only locally-grown sun-ripened tomatoes. Tomatoes picked half-green and shipped hundreds of miles from their fields of origin or tasteless hot house tomatoes will ruin your Gazpacho. If you can't get really fresh, ripe tomatoes, use canned tomatoes, the very best quality or tomato paste thinned with water.

Gazpacho Andaluz

1 or 2 cloves garlic
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon powdered cumin (optional)
4 tablespoons Spanish olive oil
4 to 6 sun-ripened tomatoes, peeled; or 2 cups canned tomatoes, or 1 can tomato paste and 1 cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup soft whole wheat bread crumbs, crusts removed
1 cucumber, peeled and chopped
1 sweet red or green pepper, minced
2 scallions, minced (optional)

Crush garlic through press, transfer to electric blender or food mill; add salt, cumin, olive oil, peeled and chopped tomatoes, vinegar, bread crumbs and half the minced cucumber, green pepper and scallions (reserve remaining vegetables, mince very fine and serve as garnish for the soup).

Puree mixture until smooth and creamy. Chill thoroughly. To serve, blend in 1½ cubs cold water and add 6 to 8 ice cubes. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Pass the minced cucumber, green pepper and scallions separately in small bowls.

Meal In A Breeze For Outdoor Fare

Cool and appealing is the summer meal served out of doors. Cool and appetizing is the outdoor main dish which combines meat or seafood with the refrigerator magic or unflavored gelatine.

For a summer outdoor buffet, the nationally popular combination of canned tuna, diced celery, green pepper and olives gains new beauty when unflavored gelatine designs it as a party main dish.

UNFLAVORED gelatine and bouillon or clear stock create the base for this summer aspic. Then the tuna and crisp vegetables are blended in, and the main dish goes into the refrigerator to chill until firm.

Tomato halves topped with mashed avocado, green bean and sauteed mushrooms, along with iced tea, complete the menu.

Tuna Perfection Salad

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
2½ cups bouillon, divided
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
¼ cup chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Sprinkle gelatine on 1 cup of the bouillon in saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining 1½ cups bouillon and lemon juice. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white.

Fold in tuna, celery, green pepper, pimiento, ripe olives, and chopped parsley. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving platter. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

No column written about food would be complete without a word about the storage of food. The biggest storage problem is usually the refrigerator, so let's re-examine your storage habits to see if you can't find more room in your refrigerator.

Here are a few hints that might help: . . .

1—Clear out refrigerator before shopping and discard any food that has been there too long.

2—Take out foods that do not need refrigeration such as catsup, mustard, jellies, etc.

3—Use the right size container as a small amount of food calls for a small dish.

4—Use space saving containers. Narrow bowls take up less space than flared bowls.

5—Adjust shelves to accommodate the type of food you are storing.

6—Use stackable plastic dishes on shelves that have been adjusted for milk bottles, etc. . . .

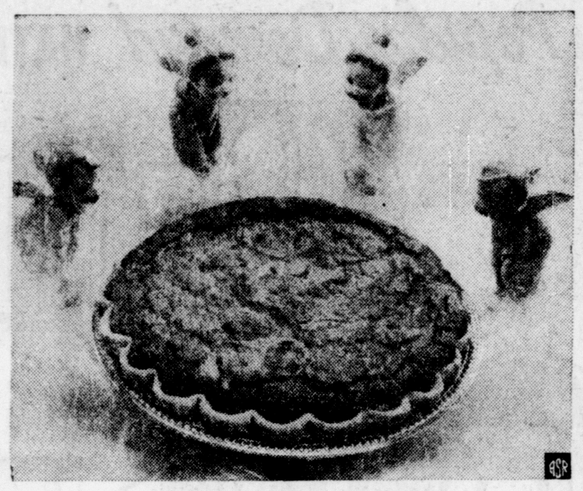
Coconut Cloud Pie



Your reputation as a cook will soar to the clouds when you make this heavenly pie! Cloud-like in texture, and divine eating, too—this is a dessert that is bound to become a top favorite with all. Try it as the perfect ending for a "down-to-earth" meal of meat, potatoes, and vegetables.

Coconut Cloud Pie

½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup uncooked cream of rice cereal
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 1/3 cups (about) flaked coconut
2 egg whites
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Heat milk and salt in top of double boiler. Sprinkle in cream of rice cereal and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Cover and continue cooking 10 minutes. Cool slightly.

* * *

COMBINE butter, egg yolks, and ¼ cup of the sugar. Add vanilla, almond extract, and coconut. Combine with the slightly cooled rice cereal. Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually beating in remaining ¼ cup of sugar. Fold into the coconut-cereal mixture. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven, (375 degrees F.) about 45 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve warm or cooled to room temperature. (SH

Fancy Version Of Chicken For Family, Company Fare

"Chicken Tarragon" is a distinctive recipe featuring chicken cooked with a little California Sauterne wine, consumme and tarragon. It's an easy, inexpensive entree to prepare. For a festive beverage, chill the remainder of the bottle of wine to serve with the chicken.

Chicken Tarragon

Dredge 2 frying chickens, cut in serving pieces, in seasoned flour. Brown in heated shortening; drain off excess fat. Combine 2/3 cup California Sauterne wine, 1 (10½ ounce) can condensed consomme and 2 tablespoons dried tarragon. Pour over chicken; cover and cook until tender about 20 to 30 minutes.

Make gravy from drippings. Pack hot cooked rice in ring mold; turn out and serve with chicken and gravy. Garnish with spiced peaches and parsley. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Peachy Lime Mold

Delicious and festive, here's a family dessert surprise that mates two fruit favorites . . . fresh ripened peaches and cool lime-flavored gelatin. So easy to prepare with the new family size fruit-flavored gelatin, it's a dessert you'll want to make frequently while fresh peaches are plentiful and at their best in flavor.

Peach and Lime Mold

1 large package (6 ounces) lime-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
2 cups cold water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup sweetened sliced peaches
½ cup whipping cream.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Measure 1 cup of mixture and set aside. Fold peaches into remaining gelatin and spoon into a 9-inch square pan. Chill until set but not firm.

* * *

WHIP THE cream. Place reserved gelatin in a bowl of ice and water. Beat with an egg beater until fluffy and thick. Fold whipped cream into gelatin and spoon over gelatin in pan. Chill until firm. Cut into squares. Garnish with lime slices and sprigs of mint, if desired. Makes about 9 servings.

Food Sense-Not Nonsense

F. KOMORSKI

It's Bigger Than Both of Us

When one and one add up to more than two, it perplexes chick, child, or chief. Unlike the hen hatching twins from one egg, nutrition scientists recognize a bonus when they see one. They have looked to protein from animal sources as the ideal for growth and tissue building.

Now, as they experiment in adding foods together to find the best diet for man, they come up with this plus value: Animals grow better when their food contains protein from both animal and plant sources. Animals do not grow as well when the protein is from one source alone.

AT A RECENT nutrition conference, Dr. Leo Friedman, Nutrition Division of the Food and Drug Administration, told the why of this. Nutritionists are concerned not so much with the quality of one particular food as with the quality of the whole meal.

And, he added, the total value of the whole meal may be much greater when protein comes from both animal and plant sources . . . greater than the sum of the individual parts. It may be bigger than both of them.

"IT MUST be remembered," said Dr. Friedman, "that the protein contribution from cereal and other plant sources in a mixed diet is much greater than would be indicated by their protein quality when determined individually."

His reminder directs us in selecting our food each day. In nutrition, he tells us, one and one add up to more than two. If we over-emphasize any one food—no matter how valuable—we may be subtracting from the nutritive value of the whole.

A GOOD foodway to follow each day includes: Two servings of meat or an alternate, two servings of milk or cheese four servings of fruits or vegetables, four servings of enriched or whole grain bread or cereal.

Week's Best food buys

Realistic market evaluation, that discounts individual store promotions, continues to note only selected beef and lamb leg roasts as consensus meat values, while turkeys carry the poultry barbain banner. Fresh produce lines are greatly limited by a surge of wholesale costs reflecting slow growing schedules.

Between actual market conditions and store features are spot opportunities for consumers to fare reasonably well in the value column, which this survey terms "dealer choice" situations.

The "market buy" weekly survey of the University of Illinois consumer service rates the meat situation as follows for the week ending July 16:

RETAIL beef maintains its steady pricing structure with generally abundant supplies. Round steak, rib and chuck roasts are the clear-cut bargains. Other beef cuts are attractively priced in relation to such meats as continuing higher-priced fresh pork. Cattle arrivals hit a peak day for the year, then fell off to create a late-week firming of prices on the live markets that had a fractional carry over to wholesale. Retails failed to respond.

Hog and lamb arrivals at live markets were up, but good eastern demand snapped up supplies to cause wholesale quotes to climb for each. Reaction split at retail, pork showing higher tendencies, lamb holding generally unchanged due primarily to the slow moving leg cuts.

Turkeys warrant the only value nod in poultry from a strict marketing viewpoint as the rush to clean-up bothersome inventories gains in tempo. General pricing on fryers, stewing hens and large eggs, all under a degree of firming pressures, tends to delete these lines from the market buy spot.

SWEETCORN, as one example, typifies the almost drastic turn-about in produce markets. As noted in recent weeks, corn prices have been in cycles roughly conforming to weather. Last week retail corn prices were lower than current wholesale replacement costs. Of course, the situation probably will be quickly corrected, but it is indicative of the weather-created problems confronting this segment of the market all season.

Another conclusion reached by market specialists that the produce averages over the long-term will peg fresh fruits and vegetable retail costs higher for this season than a year ago. Short-term-wise, the higher produce wholesale costs now noted can be corrected in from two days to two weeks, depending on the crop and the weather. Generally, wholesales are rated sharply higher, but with lesser follow-through at retail. Severely affected in addition to corn are beans, carrots, peppers, radishes, peaches and melons.

General prices: Beef — Some concessions on steaks provide a wider range in quotes: round steak 69-89 cents, sirloin 89 cents-$1.09, porterhouse 98 cents-$1.29, rib steaks 79-89 cents. Ground beef is generally 49 cents. Rib roasts vary; rougher cuts 59-69 cents, and four-rib cuts from 79 cents. Blade cut chucks move to a seasonally normal range of 39-49 cents, rump and sirloin tip quote generally 89-95 cents.

Pork — Last week's high-side of range becomes this week's low side, with the following showing as consenus base prices: Rib roasts 49 cents, loin ends 59 cents, center cut chops 95 cents, spare ribs 59 cents, fresh boston butts 49 cents. Smoked butts provide lots of store opportunities, little changed at 59 cents. First line bacon holds its 69-73 cents range, second lines 55-59 cents.

Lamb — Moving well with exception of leg roasts that quote widely 59-79 cents for native spring. Shoulder roasts are tagged 49 cents mostly. Shoulder chops are generally 79 cents, rib chops 98 cents-$1.09, and loin chops $1.19-1.25.

Poultry — Retail turkeys continue to show price weakness with 49 cent quotes taking most kinds, with some light weight toms from the new crop occasionally priced at 39 cents. Fryers are unchanged at all market levels, competitively priced 39-43 cents at retail. Stewing hens quoting steady show two prices, 39 cents for under 5-pounders, 49 cents for heavier weights. Eggs are firmer, as indicated by a one cent per dozen increase at wholesale which fails to reflect as yet at the current 45-49 cent retail level. (SH

Cantaloupe on the Rocks Intriguing Salad Recipe

"Cantaloupe on the Rocks" is as intriguing as it sounds. California midsummer cantaloupe, chilled and filled with jellied consomme, makes an exciting and refreshing combination for summer eating. Serve it either as a first course for dinner or as a low-calorie salad "for the ladies." The sour cream topping is optional; for those who like sour cream, it adds a gourmet touch. Elegant as this looks, it takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Cantaloupe on the Rocks

Chill 2 or 3 California midsummer cantaloupes and 1 (10½ ounce) can consomme. (Consomme must be chilled 4 to 6 hours, so it jells.) Halve cantaloupes and remove seeds. Salt fruit lightly and heap cavity with jellied consomme. Serve with wedges of lime. Pass commercial sour cream for a topping, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
